Labor Group Confers Today On Question Of Withdrawing From Mobilization Program

Sen. Aiken Charges Administration Has Turned Over Program To Big Business

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — A major crisis hovered over the nation's mobilization program tonight. Demands grew louder that organized labor pull out of the setup on the ground it represents the interests of big business.

Complaints sprang up on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) accused the Truman administration of turning over the program to big business and cold-shouldering labor and agriculture.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC), too, complained anew that farm leaders have been ignored in the planning and operation of the program. He demanded again that farmers get "top echelon" representation in the Economic Stabilization Agency.

Showdown May Come Swiftly

The labor showdown may come swiftly. Tomorrow the United Labor Policy Committee confers on the question of quitting the program altogether, with one official indicating a belief the decision would be for a walkout.

This apparently would mean at the very least removing labor representatives from all war mobilization agencies. There were fears it might be followed by strikes for higher wages with the resultant pressure on prices.

Government officials held to a hope that labor would stay with the program despite Friday's walkout of labor's three members of the Wage Stabilization Board. They protested adoption by the board's public and industry members of a new wage ceiling formula. It is in the hands of Stabilization Director Eric Johnston for approval, change or rejection. It would permit an increase in general wages to 10 per cent between Jan. 15 and July 1. Labor insisted on 12 per cent and objected to other terms of the formula.

Wilson Enters Dispute

The labor policy committee itself thereupon blasted the mobilization program as unfair to labor and the people, and fell into a debate over withdrawing from the entire effort.

In the midst of it, an invitation showed up from Charles E. Wilson, mobilization director, for labor to name a new top level assistant in his office. The outcome of this was hanging fire also.

Emil Rieve, president of the CIO textile workers union, said last night in New York the labor leaders will resume discussion at 2 p.m. tomorrow on the question of leaving the mobilization program.

British To Erase Malayan Village In Drive On Reds

SINGAPORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — British authorities will put the torch to an entire village in southern Selangor state in Malaya in order to wipe out what they said is a "wasps' nest" of Communist terrorists. The move is part of Britain's determined campaign to wipe out Red terrorism in Malaya by the end of this year.

Already all the 1,500 inhabitants of Jenderam have been moved out of the village and placed in a detention camp at Kluang, in Johore state, just north of Singapore.

A force of 1,000 troops and three companies of police made a lightning raid on the village last Thursday.

Authorities said the village was "an important supply link and shelter for bandits" and a center for distribution of Malay Red propaganda.

Troop Limitation Foes Have Edge In Senate Groups

17 Of 26 Oppose Any Hard And Fast Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — The Truman administration appeared today to have enlisted a majority within two key Senate committees against limiting the number of troops for Europe.

A check of public and private statements of senators indicated 17 of the 26 members of the Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees are inclined at present against clamping any rigid ceiling on ground troops to be used abroad.

On the other hand, five other members have demonstrated by their questioning at hearings on the issue that they favor a restriction of some kind on the President's power to order ground forces abroad to join the North Atlantic defense setup.

The remaining four senators have kept their own counsel, including Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) who is absent because of illness.

Secretary of Defense Marshall's bold stroke in telling the two committees last week that present plans call for the dispatch of only four divisions to join the force being built up by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower cut some of the ground from under the limitation bloc.

It didn't convince Sen. Wherry of Nebraska and Taft of Ohio, Republicans leading the fight from outside the ranks of the committee membership. But it obviously softened the resistance of some who had been inclined to believe Congress should keep its hand on the military.

18-Year Draft Battle Certain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — A stiff fight in both Senate and House appeared certain today against lowering the draft age to cover all 18-year-old boys and extending the required length of military service of millions of men.

But leaders say they expect ultimate approval.

A permanent long-term compulsory military training and service bill was approved last week by the Senate Armed Services Committee 13 to 0.

It contained some modifications of the broad powers originally asked by Secretary of Defense Marshall and top Pentagon leaders.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee has been holding closed-door sessions on the Senate version. Reports indicate difficulty getting House members to go along with the Senate modifications.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) told a reporter he would "make a real fight on the Senate floor" for many changes in the committee approved bill.

China Guerrilla Activity Mounts

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 18 (AP)—Stepped-up activity by Nationalist guerrillas on the Chinese mainland was reported today by the Defense Ministry of Chiang Kai-Shek's government.

The report coincided with the announcement that surrender passes and letters and leaflets urging revolt against the Chinese Reds were dropped last night by three Nationalist air force C-46s.

The Defense Ministry said more than 500 guerrillas raided Pingyang Feb. 2. Pingyang is 200 miles south of Shanghai. The guerrillas freed Nationalist prisoners held by the Reds, destroyed two food depots and captured a large quantity of military supplies.

Guerrillas operating in two motorized junks attacked Communist craft Jan. 26 and Feb. 2 at Chingmen and Paitanmen on the Chinese coast about 120 miles south of Shanghai. The ministry said they killed more than 20 Reds and captured 34, seized two motorized junks, three light machine guns, more than 20 rifles and more than 200 bags of rice.

Fantastic Jumble Of Freight Cars

Forty-three freight cars, many of them loaded with newsprint, left the rails and were piled up in a fantastic jumble on the Soo Line near Duplainville, Wis. The mishap occurred at a siding switch as one freight train waited for another to pass. Forty-three cars of one train and the locomotive of the other were derailed. No one was injured.

50,000 Increase In U. S. Business Firms Last Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Greater opportunities for profits brought a 50,000 net increase in American business firms in 1950 to put the total number over the 4,000,000 mark, the Commerce Department reported tonight.

That was in sharp contrast to a 30,000 decline in 1949, when there was a temporary recession, but it wasn't up to the average struck by a 625,000 or 19 per cent increase over the last ten years.

The department noted a slowdown in establishment of new firms since the Korean war's outbreak as a result of "uncertainties about prospective supplies of labor and materials," but it suggested that existing firms haven't yet been hit badly.

Loan To Plush Hotel Checked By RFC Probers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Guest lists of the plush Saxony Hotel in Miami Beach, Fla., became an object for study today in a Senate Subcommittee's inquiry into a $1,500,000 loan to the the establishment.

The loan was made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation whose operations have been sharply criticized by the subcommittee. President Truman termed the subcommittee report asinine. It charged some huge loans have been influenced from outside the RFC, naming a White House aide, Donald Dawson, as one who wielded such influence. Dawson has declined comment.

The Saxony loan has been repaid in full, but Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), subcommittee chairman, said the investigation will go into the question whether "any subtsantial public interest" was served by the loan, as required by law.

He told reporters it is difficult to see such interest in a loan to build a luxury hotel the rooms of which cost $26,000 each, and which he said is patronized by very wealthy and politically powerful guests.

The senator said the guest lists will be examined to see what strata of the public interest is served by the hotel.

BERLIN, Feb. 18 (AP)—Mayor Ernst Reuter leaves tomorrow for conferences in the United States. He expects to see Secretary of State Dean Acheson and other top authorities on divided Berlin's political and economic problems.

Md. Penitentiary Inmate Digs His Way To Freedom

Works Two Years On 70-Foot Tunnel

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — A slender, 39-year-old convict escaped from the state penitentiary during the pre-dawn darkness today through a narrow, 70-foot tunnel that took him two years to dig.

Warren Edwin T. Swenson said the escapee was Joseph Holmes, a Baltimore negro serving 20 years for burglary.

"It's the most fantastic escape I've ever heard of," the warden said. He said it must have taken Holmes two years to burrow to freedom.

He gave this explanation of the break:

Holmes loosened a piece of square slate, about two feet square and cracked through 10 inches of concrete before he reached dirt.

There he burrowed at a downward angle for 10 feet, then leveled off under the massive stone wall and a dry moat and then dug 30 feet up.

The tunnel emerged in a grassy plot with only a seven-foot fence between the opening and freedom. It was only a short stroll from there to his mother's home on Preston Street.

Warden Swenson estimated that Holmes clawed out the tons of dirt with bits of scrap iron found in the tunnel, carried it in his clothing back to his cell, then flushed it down the toilet.

Holmes, known as "the dinnertime burglar," was in his 10th year of the 20-year sentence. He has been in and out of prison since he was 16.

Innocent-Looking U. S. Propaganda At Work Behind Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — A State Department report disclosed today that innocent-looking photographs and booklets are being used to circulate anti-Communist propaganda behind the iron curtain.

The department's Voice of America, in current overseas broadcasts, is quoting from one such publication, an illustrated sports album which it said has been secretly circulated among Red army occupation troops in Hungary.

As described by the Voice, the album bears the disarming title "Sports In Hungary." The pictures show Hungarians engaged in a variety of Communist-sponsored sports activities, but the Russian language text was said to contain plain spoken anti-Soviet attacks.

Aviation Pioneer And Inventor Dies

NEVADA CITY, Calif., Feb. 18 (AP)—Lyman Gilmore, pioneer inventor and promoter of heavier-than-air flight, died today after a two-week illness. He was 74.

Gilmore contributed many ideas to modern aviation, among them theories of monoplane wing design which are in use today.

He had experimented with heavier-than-air flight in the Sierra Nevada foothills of California before the Wright brothers made their first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903.

Friends recall he had developed the concept of a cabin monoplane, while the Wright brothers still favored the biplane early in this century.

Greedy Grab Of Volunteers By Top Air Force Leaders Charged By Investigators

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Investigating senators today accused top Air Force leaders of a greedy grab for the cream of the nation's manpower.

The result, they said, is that the Air Force has built up a wasteful overload of top-notch volunteers anxious to escape being drafted into the ground forces, and the Army is "deliberately" deprived of men it could use more to the nation's advantage.

The public censure came from the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex).

It resulted from a study of crowded conditions during late December and January at Lackland Air Base, center of Air Force basic training, near San Antonio, Texas.

The inquiry, together with two ordered by the Air Force, resulted from letters to senators from parents of trainees writing home about conditions.

Four committee investigators found that as many as 68,731 trainees were jammed into a training center with a capacity for 27,500. That was an overflow of 41,231.

"Because Lackland Air Force Base facilities were so overcrowded and overtaxed, the Air Force training program collapsed," Chairman Johnson said in an accompanying statement. "The indoctrination and basic training was totally abandoned."

"Thus the situation at Lackland was the direct result of the Air Force's greed for the best of the nation's available manpower," the report said.

The stinging report said there was "no excuse" for the Air Force policy and blamed top Air Force officers in Washington.

Lackland officers, except for Capt. Myron Roth in charge of public relations, got a pat on the back for doing the best they could with an impossible situation.

U. S. Ambassador To Capetown Dies

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Feb. 18. (AP)—U. S. Ambassador John G. Erhardt was found dead in his bed today. Cause of death was given as coronary thrombosis.

The 61-year-old diplomat was well yesterday. Mrs. Erhardt found him dead when she went to his room this morning.

Ambassador Erhardt was nominated to the diplomatic post last May and arrived here in September.

The body will be taken back to the United States for burial.

Attlee Assailed By "Red Dean"

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Britains "Red Dean" of Canterbury sharply attacked Prime Minister Clement Attlee today and demanded a halt to British rearmament and other policies which he said were leading to war.

In a message to the Moscow Communist Party newspaper Pravda, the dean—Dr. Hewlett Johnson—praised Prime Minister Stalin's condemnation of the Western Powers published in that newspaper Friday.

Dr. Johnson is known as the "Red Dean" because of his pro-Soviet leanings. He sent the message to Pravda—and released copies to the press here — in his capacity as president of the British-Soviet Friendship Society.

Stalin, in an interview in Pravda, had accused Attlee of slandering Russia by declaring in Parliament Soviet forces had not been demobilized. He also charged the United Nations had become a tool of the United States and an instrument of war.

The Dean's message accused Attlee of following the "path marked out by the government of the United States" and declared that Stalin had reasserted the Soviet desire for peace.

Floods, Landslides Kill Nine In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 18 (AP)—A 48-hour downpour which caused floods and landslides cut this capital's lifeline to the sea today. At least nine persons were dead and three missing.

Tons of boulders and earth, loosened by the torrents, blocked the 23-mile mountainous highway from this city of 600,000 to La Guaira, the seaport.

Five Feared Lost In Boat Sinking

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18 (AP)—A helicopter snatched one man from drowning in the Pacific off Ocean Beach here today, but five others are feared lost in the floundering of a fishing boat.

Lt. (jg) Thomas J. Hynes, Coast Guard helicopter pilot, said he rescued one man from the boat Joane, but that he was told five others were aboard. He said he saw two bodies in the surf but was unable to reach them.

The fishing boat had been caught by the rolling Pacific surf and drifted helplessly in toward the beach before floundering.

Besides the helicopter, the Coast Guard had dispatched an amphibious truck to the scene, but only the aircraft had been able to reach the stricken boat before she went down.

The names of the survivor and the missing men were not immediately available.

Will "Educate" POWs

HONG KONG, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Chinese Communist news agency, in a dispatch from Shanghai, says 44 English-language students left for Korea Feb. 10 to "educate American prisoners of war." The students were described as "graduates of St. John's and Soochow Universities."

Boy Goes On Spending Spree After Taking Aunt's $32,000

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—A 16-year-old Chicago boy who admitted taking $32,000 from his aunt glumly turned the pockets of his new cowboy duds inside out today to show photographers he's flat broke now.

But Chicago police said that was hardly true — chunky, 185-pound James Walter Miller has a $3,500 account in a Chicago bank and $35,000 in trust for him.

The $29,840 left of his aunt's money after the boy's spending spree with a Dallas cabbie as his scared and unwilling guest is in the hands of the FBI. Miller is in the Bexar County jail here awaiting arraignment tomorrow on a federal charge of interstate transportation of stolen property in excess of $5,000.

In Chicago, the boy's mother, Mrs. Margaret Ordas, confirmed he took the money from his aunt, Mrs. Cora Andrews, a Skid Row hotel operator. Mrs. Ogdas said her sister got the the money by selling war bonds.

But Mrs. Andrews said she amassed the $32,000 by living frugally and inheriting $14,000 from a former hotel resident whose needs she tended. "I always save whatever I can," she said.

Chicago Police Lt. Thomas Murphy said Mrs. Andrews refused to sign a complaint against the boy.

Nevertheless, the FBI said here Miller will be arraigned tomorrow before U. S. Commissioner T. A. Lockhart.

U. S. Ship Sights Mystery Missiles In Korean Waters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The sighting of mysterious, smoke-trailing missiles by an American warship in Korean waters is reported in the current issue of Naval Aviation News, an official Navy magazine.

A Navy spokesman said, in response to a reporter's inquiry, that the incident occurred last December and has not been previously publicized.

Naval Aviation prints the report from the seaplane tender Gardiners Bay under a heading which asks: "Sighting Flying Discs Again?"

The story from the Gardiners Bay says two mysterious missiles trailing long white smoke trails in the sky struck the water at great speed off the ship's port bow while it was steaming up the channel from Inchon.

Stalin Statement Seen As Oblique Move For Parley

West Envoys Expect Major Developments

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP)—Several experienced western diplomats in Moscow consider Prime Minister Stalin's recent Pravda interview an oblique bid for peace talks with the West, despite its strong reemphasis of Soviet foreign policy.

These diplomats suggest the statement was meant to be an indication that the door is still open, at least conditionally, for a peace settlement among the great powers.

Only A Hypothesis

They concede that this is only a hypothesis and think that if their idea is correct, Stalin's answer to Pravda's questions may be followed by other developments clarifying this point.

They emphasize Stalin's carefully qualified statement that a new world war cannot be considered inevitable, "at least at the present time." The diplomats interpret this as a warning on the one hand and, on the other, as an important declaration of the view of the Soviet leader that the world has not yet gone too far down the road toward war to stop.

The western envoys consider it possible that Stalin's comments may be followed by important developments here which would be interpreted by the Russians as showing the Soviet leader's statement the U.S.S.R. is concentrating on developing its peacetime economy and raising the standard of living was not just words.

Air Of Expectancy

Such developments might be:

Possible price reductions, with perhaps a simultaneous change in the ruble exchange rate and other striking measures; an announcement on a fifth five-year plan at the Supreme Soviet, parliament of the U.S.S.R. which convenes March 6; or new and important foreign policy pronouncements.

It is correct to say that, in any case, an air of expectancy has prevailed here since the Stalin interview.

A-Bomb Rated Fourth Most Terrible Weapon

GRAND ISLAND, Nebr., Feb. 18 (AP)—The atomic bomb now ranks fourth among potential military weapons, Earle Cocke, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, declared today.

Addressing the mid-winter conference of the Nebraska Department of the American Legion, Cocke said the hydrogen bomb, germ warfare and guided missiles rank ahead of the atomic bomb.

12 Of 28 Allied Soldiers Survive Dangerous Trek

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Feb. 18 (AP) — Twelve Allied soldiers reached United Nations lines today after a seven-day trek through enemy territory. They were the survivors of an original group of 28 which started south from the hills north of Hoengsang Feb. 11.

Sgt. Charles W. Limerick, Fort Smith, Ark., led the survivors to safety. He told this story:

His vehicle was shot out from under him at a road block north of Hoengsang Feb. 11. He and his men slipped into the hills, where they joined up with others to make a total party of 28.

They started south and walked through the hills all day. The group ran into 15 enemy soldiers and engaged them in a fire fight, killing 11 and capturing two.

That night they hid in a haystack. In the morning the two prisoners and two of three South Korean lieutenants in the party were gone.

The group started south again but decided they could not make it during the day. Again they holed up in a haystack.

Next morning they came close to a village. Some wanted to stay there all day. Limerick objected, so the group divided up and about half started for the village.

Limerick said the others were about half a block from the houses when a hidden gun opened up and mowed down all of them.

Limerick and his group continued south, travelling only by night.

At 1:00 a.m. this morning the group was halted by a South Korean soldier.

Allies Prowl Deep But Find Poor Hunting

No Chinese Found South Of Han River

TOKYO, Monday, Feb. 19 (AP)—Chinese Reds fell back today in the 70-mile area between Korea's west coast and Wonju in the mountainous middle of the peninsula.

They appeared to have given up virtually all territory south of the Han River which skirts the edge of Red-held Seoul.

Allied patrols prowled deep but found poor hunting.

The only enemy effort at a fight was made by North Koreans around Chechon, 20 miles southeast of Wonju.

AP Correspondent William J. Waugh reported that light enemy attacks were repulsed today along a 10-mile front north of Chechon.

In the west, Turkish troops swept the entire peninsula northwest of Seoul without finding any Chinese.

Red Supply Route Cut

East of Seoul, the U. S. Ninth Corps advanced six miles across ridges in a 20-mile sector from north of Kyongan to Chipyong.

The troops found only dead Chinese and abandoned weapons.

British forces advanced four miles northeast of Kyongan, a highway town 17 miles southeast of Seoul.

Ninth Corps infantrymen swept unopposed across the Han River and occupied the abandoned Communist headquarters of Yangpyong, 27 miles east of Seoul. That cut a hitherto vital highway supply route from the northeast into Seoul.

Around Chipyong, where the Chinese suffered a crushing defeat last week in a breakthrough attempt, the U. S. Eighth Army communique today said resistance was scattered with the enemy withdrawing to the north.

Six-Mile Allied Advance

A six-mile advance carried American troops to a point 10 miles northeast of Chipyong, Allied bastion on the central front.

The story was the same around Wonju, 20 miles southeast of Chipyong—scene of last week's artillery "Wonju shoot" which shattered two Red divisions. Allied patrols fanned northeast and west of Wonju without finding the foe.

The hunting was so slim that Allied troops inflicted only 806 casualties on the Reds in ground action Sunday. This was the first time in three weeks a day's bag failed to reach four figures.

Yangpyong's abandonment accented the depth of the enemy withdrawal.

One week ago that sector teemed with Chinese at the start of their unsuccessful drive to crash through United Nations defenses and split the Eighth Army. The Red offensive stalled after the Reds in ground action alone lost 91,400 men dead, wounded or captured in six bloody days of intense fighting.

Eisler Admits "Deviationism"

BERLIN, Feb. 18 (AP) — Gerhart Eisler, Soviet zone propaganda chief, admitted today he once strayed from the Communist dogma requiring implicit obedience to the Kremlin and its chosen leaders. He said his sin — "deviationism" — was committed 20 years ago.

"It is my task now to watch that I do not repeat such mistakes," Eisler wrote in the East German Socialist Unity (Communist) Party's mimeographed news service.

Such self-criticism is considered by Communists to be a worthy action.

Eisler wrote that he supported a group of "deviationists" in Germany in 1927 and 1928. The group opposed Ernst Thaelmann as chairman of the central committee on policy toward the Socialists. Eisler said he then thought the Socialists could be won over by slow reform rather than abrupt revolution.

Stalin backed Thaelmann and the revisionists lost. Thaelmann died in a Nazi concentration camp and is now a revered hero in Communist East Germany.

"We had refused to understand that our policy was incompatible with the policy of a Marxist-Leninst Party," Eisler wrote. "There cannot be friendship of men who are fighting Stalin and his party."

Foreign and West German observers speculated whether Eisler's article contains a significent tipoff on East-West German relations.

The east has been demanding all-German talks. Eisler's philosophy would almost forbid any meeting of minds with those who openly oppose Stalin and Communism.

Md. Penitentiary Inmate Digs His Way To Freedom

Works Two Years On 70-Foot Tunnel

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — A slender, 39-year-old convict escaped from the state penitentiary during the pre-dawn darkness today through a narrow, 70-foot tunnel that took him two years to dig.

Warren Edwin T. Swenson said the escapee was Joseph Holmes, a Baltimore negro serving 20 years for burglary.

"It's the most fantastic escape I've ever heard of," the warden said. He said it must have taken Holmes two years to burrow to freedom.

He gave this explanation of the break:

Holmes loosened a piece of square slate, about two feet square and cracked through 10 inches of concrete before he reached dirt.

There he burrowed at a downward angle for 10 feet, then leveled off under the massive stone wall and a dry moat and then dug 30 feet up.

The tunnel emerged in a grassy plot with only a seven-foot fence between the opening and freedom. It was only a short stroll from there to his mother's home on Preston Street.

Warden Swenson estimated that Holmes clawed out the tons of dirt with bits of scrap iron found in the tunnel, carried it in his clothing back to his cell, then flushed it down the toilet.

Holmes, known as "the dinnertime burglar," was in his 10th year of the 20-year sentence. He has been in and out of prison since he was 16.

Innocent-Looking U. S. Propaganda At Work Behind Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — A State Department report disclosed today that innocent-looking photographs and booklets are being used to circulate anti-Communist propaganda behind the iron curtain.

The department's Voice of America, in current overseas broadcasts, is quoting from one such publication, an illustrated sports album which it said has been secretly circulated among Red army occupation troops in Hungary.

As described by the Voice, the album bears the disarming title "Sports In Hungary." The pictures show Hungarians engaged in a variety of Communist-sponsored sports activities, but the Russian language text was said to contain plain spoken anti-Soviet attacks.

Aviation Pioneer And Inventor Dies

NEVADA CITY, Calif., Feb. 18 (AP)—Lyman Gilmore, pioneer inventor and promoter of heavier-than-air flight, died today after a two-week illness. He was 74.

Gilmore contributed many ideas to modern aviation, among them theories of monoplane wing design which are in use today.

He had experimented with heavier-than-air flight in the Sierra Nevada foothills of California before the Wright brothers made their first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903.

Friends recall he had developed the concept of a cabin monoplane, while the Wright brothers still favored the biplane early in this century.

Boy Goes On Spending Spree After Taking Aunt's $32,000

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—A 16-year-old Chicago boy who admitted taking $32,000 from his aunt glumly turned the pockets of his new cowboy duds inside out today to show photographers he's flat broke now.

But Chicago police said that was hardly true — chunky, 185-pound James Walter Miller has a $3,500 account in a Chicago bank and $35,000 in trust for him.

The $29,840 left of his aunt's money after the boy's spending spree with a Dallas cabbie as his scared and unwilling guest is in the hands of the FBI. Miller is in the Bexar County jail here awaiting arraignment tomorrow on a federal charge of interstate transportation of stolen property in excess of $5,000.

In Chicago, the boy's mother, Mrs. Margaret Ordas, confirmed he took the money from his aunt, Mrs. Cora Andrews, a Skid Row hotel operator. Mrs. Ogdas said her sister got the the money by selling war bonds.

But Mrs. Andrews said she amassed the $32,000 by living frugally and inheriting $14,000 from a former hotel resident whose needs she tended. "I always save whatever I can," she said.

Chicago Police Lt. Thomas Murphy said Mrs. Andrews refused to sign a complaint against the boy.

Nevertheless, the FBI said here Miller will be arraigned tomorrow before U. S. Commissioner T. A. Lockhart.

Greedy Grab Of Volunteers By Top Air Force Leaders Charged By Investigators

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Investigating senators today accused top Air Force leaders of a greedy grab for the cream of the nation's manpower.

The result, they said, is that the Air Force has built up a wasteful overload of top-notch volunteers anxious to escape being drafted into the ground forces, and the Army is "deliberately" deprived of men it could use more to the nation's advantage.

The public censure came from the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex).

It resulted from a study of crowded conditions during late December and January at Lackland Air Base, center of Air Force basic training, near San Antonio, Texas.

The inquiry, together with two ordered by the Air Force, resulted from letters to senators from parents of trainees writing home about conditions.

Four committee investigators found that as many as 68,731 trainees were jammed into a training center with a capacity for 27,500. That was an overflow of 41,231.

"Because Lackland Air Force Base facilities were so overcrowded and overtaxed, the Air Force training program collapsed," Chairman Johnson said in an accompanying statement. "The indoctrination and basic training was totally abandoned."

"Thus the situation at Lackland was the direct result of the Air Force's greed for the best of the nation's available manpower," the report said.

The stinging report said there was "no excuse" for the Air Force policy and blamed top Air Force officers in Washington.

Lackland officers, except for Capt. Myron Roth in charge of public relations, got a pat on the back for doing the best they could with an impossible situation.

U. S. Ambassador To Capetown Dies

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Feb. 18. (AP)—U. S. Ambassador John G. Erhardt was found dead in his bed today. Cause of death was given as coronary thrombosis.

The 61-year-old diplomat was well yesterday. Mrs. Erhardt found him dead when she went to his room this morning.

Ambassador Erhardt was nominated to the diplomatic post last May and arrived here in September.

The body will be taken back to the United States for burial.

Attlee Assailed By "Red Dean"

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Britains "Red Dean" of Canterbury sharply attacked Prime Minister Clement Attlee today and demanded a halt to British rearmament and other policies which he said were leading to war.

In a message to the Moscow Communist Party newspaper Pravda, the dean—Dr. Hewlett Johnson—praised Prime Minister Stalin's condemnation of the Western Powers published in that newspaper Friday.

Dr. Johnson is known as the "Red Dean" because of his pro-Soviet leanings. He sent the message to Pravda—and released copies to the press here — in his capacity as president of the British-Soviet Friendship Society.

Stalin, in an interview in Pravda, had accused Attlee of slandering Russia by declaring in Parliament Soviet forces had not been demobilized. He also charged the United Nations had become a tool of the United States and an instrument of war.

The Dean's message accused Attlee of following the "path marked out by the government of the United States" and declared that Stalin had reasserted the Soviet desire for peace.

Five Feared Lost In Boat Sinking

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18 (AP)—A helicopter snatched one man from drowning in the Pacific off Ocean Beach here today, but five others are feared lost in the floundering of a fishing boat.

Lt. (jg) Thomas J. Hynes, Coast Guard helicopter pilot, said he rescued one man from the boat Joane, but that he was told five others were aboard. He said he saw two bodies in the surf but was unable to reach them.

The fishing boat had been caught by the rolling Pacific surf and drifted helplessly in toward the beach before floundering.

Besides the helicopter, the Coast Guard had dispatched an amphibious truck to the scene, but only the aircraft had been able to reach the stricken boat before she went down.

The names of the survivor and the missing men were not immediately available.

Will "Educate" POWs

HONG KONG, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Chinese Communist news agency, in a dispatch from Shanghai, says 44 English-language students left for Korea Feb. 10 to "educate American prisoners of war." The students were described as "graduates of St. John's and Soochow Universities."

Floods, Landslides Kill Nine In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 18 (AP)—A 48-hour downpour which caused floods and landslides cut this capital's lifeline to the sea today. At least nine persons were dead and three missing.

Tons of boulders and earth, loosened by the torrents, blocked the 23-mile mountainous highway from this city of 600,000 to La Guaira, the seaport.

U. S. Ship Sights Mystery Missiles In Korean Waters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The sighting of mysterious, smoke-trailing missiles by an American warship in Korean waters is reported in the current issue of Naval Aviation News, an official Navy magazine.

A Navy spokesman said, in response to a reporter's inquiry, that the incident occurred last December and has not been previously publicized.

Naval Aviation prints the report from the seaplane tender Gardiners Bay under a heading which asks: "Sighting Flying Discs Again?"

The story from the Gardiners Bay says two mysterious missiles trailing long white smoke trails in the sky struck the water at great speed off the ship's port bow while it was steaming up the channel from Inchon.

Stalin Statement Seen As Oblique Move For Parley

West Envoys Expect Major Developments

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP)—Several experienced western diplomats in Moscow consider Prime Minister Stalin's recent Pravda interview an oblique bid for peace talks with the West, despite its strong reemphasis of Soviet foreign policy.

These diplomats suggest the statement was meant to be an indication that the door is still open, at least conditionally, for a peace settlement among the great powers.

Only A Hypothesis

They concede that this is only a hypothesis and think that if their idea is correct, Stalin's answer to Pravda's questions may be followed by other developments clarifying this point.

They emphasize Stalin's carefully qualified statement that a new world war cannot be considered inevitable, "at least at the present time." The diplomats interpret this as a warning on the one hand and, on the other, as an important declaration of the view of the Soviet leader that the world has not yet gone too far down the road toward war to stop.

The western envoys consider it possible that Stalin's comments may be followed by important developments here which would be interpreted by the Russians as showing the Soviet leader's statement the U.S.S.R. is concentrating on developing its peacetime economy and raising the standard of living was not just words.

Air Of Expectancy

Such developments might be:

Possible price reductions, with perhaps a simultaneous change in the ruble exchange rate and other striking measures; an announcement on a fifth five-year plan at the Supreme Soviet, parliament of the U.S.S.R. which convenes March 6; or new and important foreign policy pronouncements.

It is correct to say that, in any case, an air of expectancy has prevailed here since the Stalin interview.

A-Bomb Rated Fourth Most Terrible Weapon

GRAND ISLAND, Nebr., Feb. 18 (AP)—The atomic bomb now ranks fourth among potential military weapons, Earle Cocke, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, declared today.

Addressing the mid-winter conference of the Nebraska Department of the American Legion, Cocke said the hydrogen bomb, germ warfare and guided missiles rank ahead of the atomic bomb.

12 Of 28 Allied Soldiers Survive Dangerous Trek

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Feb. 18 (AP) — Twelve Allied soldiers reached United Nations lines today after a seven-day trek through enemy territory. They were the survivors of an original group of 28 which started south from the hills north of Hoengsang Feb. 11.

Sgt. Charles W. Limerick, Fort Smith, Ark., led the survivors to safety. He told this story:

His vehicle was shot out from under him at a road block north of Hoengsang Feb. 11. He and his men slipped into the hills, where they joined up with others to make a total party of 28.

They started south and walked through the hills all day. The group ran into 15 enemy soldiers and engaged them in a fire fight, killing 11 and capturing two.

That night they hid in a haystack. In the morning the two prisoners and two of three South Korean lieutenants in the party were gone.

The group started south again but decided they could not make it during the day. Again they holed up in a haystack.

Next morning they came close to a village. Some wanted to stay there all day. Limerick objected, so the group divided up and about half started for the village.

Limerick said the others were about half a block from the houses when a hidden gun opened up and mowed down all of them.

Limerick and his group continued south, travelling only by night.

At 1:00 a.m. this morning the group was halted by a South Korean soldier.

Allies Prowl Deep But Find Poor Hunting

No Chinese Found South Of Han River

TOKYO, Monday, Feb. 19 (AP)—Chinese Reds fell back today in the 70-mile area between Korea's west coast and Wonju in the mountainous middle of the peninsula.

They appeared to have given up virtually all territory south of the Han River which skirts the edge of Red-held Seoul.

Allied patrols prowled deep but found poor hunting.

The only enemy effort at a fight was made by North Koreans around Chechon, 20 miles southeast of Wonju.

AP Correspondent William J. Waugh reported that light enemy attacks were repulsed today along a 10-mile front north of Chechon.

In the west, Turkish troops swept the entire peninsula northwest of Seoul without finding any Chinese.

Red Supply Route Cut

East of Seoul, the U. S. Ninth Corps advanced six miles across ridges in a 20-mile sector from north of Kyongan to Chipyong.

The troops found only dead Chinese and abandoned weapons.

British forces advanced four miles northeast of Kyongan, a highway town 17 miles southeast of Seoul.

Ninth Corps infantrymen swept unopposed across the Han River and occupied the abandoned Communist headquarters of Yangpyong, 27 miles east of Seoul. That cut a hitherto vital highway supply route from the northeast into Seoul.

Around Chipyong, where the Chinese suffered a crushing defeat last week in a breakthrough attempt, the U. S. Eighth Army communique today said resistance was scattered with the enemy withdrawing to the north.

Six-Mile Allied Advance

A six-mile advance carried American troops to a point 10 miles northeast of Chipyong, Allied bastion on the central front.

The story was the same around Wonju, 20 miles southeast of Chipyong—scene of last week's artillery "Wonju shoot" which shattered two Red divisions. Allied patrols fanned northeast and west of Wonju without finding the foe.

The hunting was so slim that Allied troops inflicted only 806 casualties on the Reds in ground action Sunday. This was the first time in three weeks a day's bag failed to reach four figures.

Yangpyong's abandonment accented the depth of the enemy withdrawal.

One week ago that sector teemed with Chinese at the start of their unsuccessful drive to crash through United Nations defenses and split the Eighth Army. The Red offensive stalled after the Reds in ground action alone lost 91,400 men dead, wounded or captured in six bloody days of intense fighting.

Eisler Admits "Deviationism"

BERLIN, Feb. 18 (AP) — Gerhart Eisler, Soviet zone propaganda chief, admitted today he once strayed from the Communist dogma requiring implicit obedience to the Kremlin and its chosen leaders. He said his sin — "deviationism" — was committed 20 years ago.

"It is my task now to watch that I do not repeat such mistakes," Eisler wrote in the East German Socialist Unity (Communist) Party's mimeographed news service.

Such self-criticism is considered by Communists to be a worthy action.

Eisler wrote that he supported a group of "deviationists" in Germany in 1927 and 1928. The group opposed Ernst Thaelmann as chairman of the central committee on policy toward the Socialists. Eisler said he then thought the Socialists could be won over by slow reform rather than abrupt revolution.

Stalin backed Thaelmann and the revisionists lost. Thaelmann died in a Nazi concentration camp and is now a revered hero in Communist East Germany.

"We had refused to understand that our policy was incompatible with the policy of a Marxist-Leninst Party," Eisler wrote. "There cannot be friendship of men who are fighting Stalin and his party."

Foreign and West German observers speculated whether Eisler's article contains a significent tipoff on East-West German relations.

The east has been demanding all-German talks. Eisler's philosophy would almost forbid any meeting of minds with those who openly oppose Stalin and Communism.

Nurses See "Awareness" In 1947 Accident Victim, Doomed To Living Death

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. — (AP) — Does conscience still linger in the brain of Ralpth C. Abbott who, for four years, has lain in a coma at Cushing Veterans Hospital?

Only "a medical miracle," his doctors say, can awaken the 34-year-old former Army sergeant whose car plunged from a highway into a tree in the early morning darkness of Februay 17, 1947, and hurled him headlong against a stone wall.

And yet, his nurses say they sometimes wonder if he doesn't understand what they are doing for him although unable to express himself. They say they get at times impressions of awareness on his part.

And his mother, Mrs. Isaac Abbott of Norwood, tells of sitting at her son's bedside and, while he made no outward response to her attempts to speak to him, she saw a tear trickle from his closed eye. His nurses think the sound of music stimulates him.

His case strangely parallels that of the anonymous patient X at Cincinnati's Bethesda Hospital who likewise suffered brain injury in a February accident four years before Abbott was hurt.

Abbott, chief ward attendant at Cushing, was driving to his work from another veterans' hospital in Waltham when his car swerved from the Boston Post Road.

Operations, treatment, failed to restore outward evidence of consciousness. He became the object of prolonged research on the part of physicians and brain specialists. They finally concluded his brain had been so severely damaged that he might never awaken again—unless by a medical miracle.

During the years, his father has journeyed regularly the 15 miles from the family's Norwood home to visit his son. After three years of daily visits, Isaac Abbott (now 64) reduced his visits to thrice weekly, a schedule he still maintains. Neighbors in Norwood joined in helping the Abbots in their efforts to get additional medical care in their attempt to bring about recovery of their son.

Abbott is fed a concentrated liquid diet through a tube. So expertly has he been cared for that he shows no blemish. He maintains, unchanged, his weight which dropped about 20 pounds after the accident. He gets daily shaves, frequent haircuts.

Doctors say he may live indefinitely unless stricken by a kidney, liver or bronchial infection.

When his parents come to sit at his bedside, the doctors say: "Still unconscious . . . no change."

But the nurses say, "He seems to hear music. He sometimes seems to know we are helping him."

Must you stick to cover-up styles because of what the baretop fashions reveal? That problem is solved today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THERE is no wisdom in sacrificing an ounce of fashion when you can sacrifice a pound of flesh instead. To forego wearing the clothes you long to wear because of a figure difficulty blights your confidence in your ability to present a fashion-right appearance.

With fashion putting more emphasis on bare-topped designs, that is just what will happen to the damsels who hide excess flesh across the back and under the arms by wearing cover-up clothes. But, if they start offering up that unwanted flesh today in a ritual of reducing and toning exercises, by the time warm weather arrives, they can flaunt baretop fashions whenever they please!

So Easy And Effective

There are two corrective routines that are so easy you won't believe their effectiveness until you try them and see the results:

1. Stand erect or sit on a stool. Bend your arms so that your elbows are close to your sides and your hands are touching your shoulder joints. Clench your fists lightly.

Swing your elbows forward and backward in a vigorous, "pumping" fashion. With every swing, be sure that the insides of your upper arms gently massage the roll of fatty tissue under them. Work up from twenty to a hundred swings daily.

2. Sit on a stool or on the floor. Rest your fingers lightly on your shoulders and pull your elbows up to a position parallel to your shoulder joints.

Slow, Then Quick

Describe very large, slow circles with your elbows. Circle them forward, up, back and down in a firm, decided manner. Concentrate on the backward pull. After twenty circlings, swing your elbows forward to touch in front of your chest. Then, very quickly fling them back as far as you can. Twenty times for this part of the routine, too.

At all times, beware of carrying your shoulders in slumped or curved positions. The strain of these positions causes the muscles across the shoulders to spread, leaving pockets in the tissue where extra flesh can reside and thrive.

Tomorrow: Fabrics that are fashion setters.

Nurses See "Awareness" In 1947 Accident Victim, Doomed To Living Death

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. — (AP) — Does conscience still linger in the brain of Ralpth C. Abbott who, for four years, has lain in a coma at Cushing Veterans Hospital?

Only "a medical miracle," his doctors say, can awaken the 34-year-old former Army sergeant whose car plunged from a highway into a tree in the early morning darkness of February 17, 1947, and hurled him headlong against a stone wall.

And yet, his nurses say they sometimes wonder if he doesn't understand what they are doing for him although unable to express himself. They say they get at times impressions of awareness on his part.

And his mother, Mrs. Isaac Abbott of Norwood, tells of sitting at her son's bedside and, while he made no outward response to her attempts to speak to him, she saw a tear trickle from his closed eye. His nurses think the sound of music stimulates him.

His case strangely parallels that of the anonymous patient X at Cincinnati's Bethesda Hospital who likewise suffered brain injury in a February accident four years before Abbott was hurt.

Abbott, chief ward attendant at Cushing, was driving to his work from another veterans' hospital in Waltham when his car swerved from the Boston Post Road.

Operations, treatment, failed to restore outward evidence of consciousness. He became the object of prolonged research on the part of physicians and brain specialists. They finally concluded his brain had been so severely damaged that he might never awaken again—unless by a medical miracle.

During the years, his father has journeyed regularly the 15 miles from the family's Norwood home to visit his son. After three years of daily visits, Isaac Abbott (now 64) reduced his visits to thrice weekly, a schedule he still maintains. Neighbors in Norwood joined in helping the Abbots in their efforts to get additional medical care in their attempt to bring about recovery of their son.

Abbott is fed a concentrated liquid diet through a tube. So expertly has he been cared for that he shows no blemish. He maintains, unchanged, his weight which dropped about 20 pounds after the accident. He gets daily shaves, frequent haircuts.

Doctors say he may live indefinitely unless stricken by a kidney, liver or bronchial infection.

When his parents come to sit at his bedside, the doctors say: "Still unconscious . . . no change."

But the nurses say, "He seems to hear music. He sometimes seems to know we are helping him."

Must you stick to cover-up styles because of what the baretop fashions reveal? That problem is solved today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THERE is no wisdom in sacrificing an ounce of fashion when you can sacrifice a pound of flesh instead. To forego wearing the clothes you long to wear because of a figure difficulty blights your confidence in your ability to present a fashion-right appearance.

With fashion putting more emphasis on bare-topped designs, that is just what will happen to the damsels who hide excess flesh across the back and under the arms by wearing cover-up clothes. But, if they start offering up that unwanted flesh today in a ritual of reducing and toning exercises, by the time warm weather arrives, they can flaunt baretop fashions whenever they please!

So Easy And Effective

There are two corrective routines that are so easy you won't believe their effectiveness until you try them and see the results:

1. Stand erect or sit on a stool. Bend your arms so that your elbows are close to your sides and your hands are touching your shoulder joints. Clench your fists lightly.

Swing your elbows forward and backward in a vigorous, "pumping" fashion. With every swing, be sure that the insides of your upper arms gently massage the roll of fatty tissue under them. Work up from twenty to a hundred swings daily.

2. Sit on a stool or on the floor. Rest your fingers lightly on your shoulders and pull your elbows up to a position parallel to your shoulder joints.

Slow, Then Quick

Describe very large, slow circles with your elbows. Circle them forward, up, back and down in a firm, decided manner. Concentrate on the backward pull. After twenty circlings, swing your elbows forward to touch in front of your chest. Then, very quickly fling them back as far as you can. Twenty times for this part of the routine, too.

At all times, beware of carrying your shoulders in slumped or curved positions. The strain of these positions causes the muscles across the shoulders to spread, leaving pockets in the tissue where extra flesh can reside and thrive.

Tomorrow: Fabrics that are fashion setters.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is any age free from problems?

Answer: Not completely, but according to Dr. Mary Dingwall, writing in Mental Health (London), among healthy children the years between seven and eleven have fewer emotional disturbances than any others—in fact at this age a child is less emotional or demonstrative than ever before or after. For this is the so-called "scientific age," when a child's main interest is in gathering information about the external world. It is also the age when sexual feeling is most nearly "latent." If a child of this age appears less responsive to affection than before, it is just because he is "too busy."

May happiness "drive you to drink"?

Answer: Not really, though it may appear to. The fact that so many people "celebrate" a great success or the end of a period of strain by drinking too much would appear to contradict the theory that the purpose of intoxication is "escape." But if you drink when you are particularly happy, it is because of an unconscious need to drown the fear that your joy is too good to last, or that you don't deserve it and will therefore have to suffer for it later. If you drink when a great danger is past, it is to wipe out the remaining traces of anxiety and tension.

Is it true women "don't know what they want"?

Answer: No one is entirely conscious of his underlying aims and wishes. But there are particular reasons why a woman today may have conscious desires and goals that are wholly different from her unconscious ones. For to the degree that this appears to be a man's world, a girl will inevitably wish with one part of her mind to enjoy the advantages of masculinity even to the point of proving that she can "do anything a man can." This will tend to hide even from her the fact that in her biological and deeper emotional needs, she is still a women.

Boys Who Destroyed Church Property Get Suspended Terms

Six juveniles, involved in two breaking and entering cases in the Klondike area, received suspended sentences to the Maryland Training School for Boys after hearings in Juvenile Court here yesterday.

Four of the boys including one who was involved in both robberies, were convicted of burning hymn books and 36 Bible lesson books taken from a Klondike church.

County authorities who investigated reported that the boys entered the church through an unlocked window and took a chest containing the church literature along with an amount of change.

The literature was found beside George's Creek partially burned. All of it was rendered useless by exposure to the weather.

The breaking and entering took place in December and the case was solved during the investigation of another that took place January 20.

Authorities stated that on January 20 three boys, one of whom had been involved in the church literature burning episode, entered the home of Anna Elizabeth Stott at Klondike.

It being a mild night, Mrs. Stott raised a window in her home before she left to go to Frostburg.

The three boys entered through this window and took loot valued at $50. It included a wrist watch, a pork roast from the refrigerator, cash money and three Canadian pennies.

One of the trio spent one of the Canadian pennies in a store in the neighborhood and was picked up as a result. Most of the loot was recovered, authorities added.

The sentence meted out Saturday in Cumberland provided that the boys be of good behavior or face being sent to the Maryland Training School for Boys until they are 18 years of age. The six lads ranged in age from nine years to 13 years.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator at the LaVale Barracks of Maryland State Police, spear-headed the probe.

NEW YORK (INS)—EVERYBODY'S got an idea on what would make a good movie. Including me. Including, also, everybody who writes for a newspaper, because in our trade we get a lot of mail from people who say in effect that this or that film stinks and the writer of the letter has an idea which will sweep the country.

Angriest fellow who has approached me lately on which films should and should not be made, is Harry G. Green, "biographical-historical-analytical researcher" from Chicago. (Cable address: Greeno, which, regrettably, sounds like a game played at my church.)

Mr. Green is mad at (1) Field Marshall Rommel, (2) Nunnally Johnson, (3) Darryl Zanuck, and (4) Twentieth Century-Fox. He is mad enough to have printed some envelopes for his indignant mail which carry a legend saying, in effect, "They won't make a picture about MacArthur, Nimitz, Eisenhower, Patton, etc. So they make a picture about Rommel." They, meaning Hollywood.

Mr. Green is a World War I vet, past commander of the fine American Unity Post of the American Legion in Chicago and at present a member of the Chipilly Post of the Legion in Chicago. And a good man.

• — • — •

He is angry especially at Nunnally Johnson, who apparently is going to do (or has done) the script on the Rommel picture. I don't know Mr. Johnson but am sympathetically drawn to him, because he has to do a movie script. Mr. Green is mad at everybody else concerned with the film, including Mr. Zanuck who, not incidentally, did a courageous job in North Africa in World War II at an age which relieved him of the necessity of doing it.

I sympathize with Mr. Green. I, too, think that there should be movies about the generals he mentions and some that he didn't mention — notably Jonathan Wainwright, now of Fort Sam Houston in San Antone.

Don't know much about movie-making but it seems to me that the fellows out Hollywood way will film almost anything that looks like a good and interesting story. A story that will either appeal to or be understood by a great many people. It's a wholesaler's business and, by and large, a worthwhile one.

They'd start a picture tomorrow about the unfilmed generals mentioned by Mr. Green or by me if they had a shooting script in hand that didn't promise to lose their shirts. So happens that Twentieth has come up with a book by a British brigadier about Rommel that has real meat—including an ending.

• — • — •

That is most important—an ending. Nobody in Hollywood will make a sports picture today, for instance, if the hero isn't about to die. Nobody ever lived a more dramatic life than Jack Dempsey, let's say for example, but if his life was filmed authentically it would have to end with his opening a restaurant on Broadway. This is a climax? A fine life, dramatically, is also the one lived by Gene Tunney. But you'd have to end the movie with a scene showing Gene being named a member of a new board of directors of a company manufacturing squeegee boards or some-such.

I've got a movie coming up for Herbert Yates of Republic called "Hoodlum Empire" which concerns some of the distinguished hoods recently brought before the Kefauver committee. But it has an ending, I hope. That's terribly vital, the Hollywood fellows believe, and they've been right so long — and have so much to say about it — that it's difficult to contest the point.

I haven't read the Rommel book from which Nunnally Johnson fashioned his script but I know a little something about Rommel from some translations I've read of Nazis who knew him. Far as I can see the fellow was the kind of military man his military enemies recognized as big league, and his part in the plot to kill Hitler (which cost him his life, eventually) was well played and taken, I think.

Personally, I wouldn't mind seeing a picture about Stalin if it ended properly with the bum's death and a change in that setup over there. I think a good movie about Mussolini would be okay, too, and I happen to have a script in my pocket which I might possibly part with for $5,000,000 (tax free.)

But, on the other hand, I can appreciate why Mr. Green feels upset about such things, especially about Rommel. And it seems to me that his one-man campaign against this picture should make its intelligent producers—who are good Americans, as is Mr. Green — try just a little harder to prove that they were right in selecting that talented beast Rommel as a subject. Hollywood will get around to the more respectable generals soon enough.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DROPPING A SINGLETON

AMONG all the situations in which a sound declarer tries to drop a singleton king, when able to attempt an ordinary finesse against it, the most important is that in which he can't afford to lose the lead to a particular defender if the finesse should fail. With No Trump game contracts particularly, it frequently develops early in the play that the declarer is beaten if one defender gets the lead, either to run the established cards of a suit or to come through some guarded honor. When that is the case, the declarer increases his chances slightly by trying to drop the king, which will fall if it is unguarded.

Most good players would have preferred to start the bidding with 1-No Trump on South's hand, but the contract would have been the same, and so probably would the lead, which was the spade 3. East won that with the A and returned the 5. West, seeing all lower cards, knew that was East's last since it was his lowest, so won with the K and returned the 2. Now South knew West had five spades originally and still had the established 8 and 7.

If West should maange to win a trick in any other suit, he could then peel off the two spade tricks which would set the contract. South could afford, however, to let East gain the lead, as the latter could not lead a spade to West. Even if the club finesse were destined to be a winner, laying down of the A would not impair the contract. If that enabled East to win the next club, South still could count up to ten tricks with one in spades, three in hearts, two in diamonds and four in clubs.

After South did that counting, he saw that the safety of his contract could be enhanced by protecting himself against a singleton club K with West. So the fourth trick he laid down the club A. When it felled the K, he was able to run eleven tricks.

B & O Announces Stock Dividend

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's net income of $4,432,563 for 1950, after providing for capital fund, contingent interest and sinking funds, was equal to $7.53 a share on the 588,631 shares of 4 per cent noncumulative preferred stock.

For the previous year net income after deductions for similar purposes was $841,199 or $1.43 a preferred share.

B. & O.'s profit after fixed charges amounted to $22,595,267 for 1950 as against $14,684,705 for 1949.

Net income last year, after provision for the various funds and after provision for the specified $4 preferred dividend, paid in full in 1950, was equal to 81 cents a share on the 2,562,953 shares of common stock. No dividends have been paid on the common stock since 1931.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is any age free from problems?

Answer: Not completely, but according to Dr. Mary Dingwall, writing in Mental Health (London), among healthy children the years between seven and eleven have fewer emotional disturbances than any others—in fact at this age a child is less emotional or demonstrative than ever before or after. For this is the so-called "scientific age," when a child's main interest is in gathering information about the external world. It is also the age when sexual feeling is most nearly "latent." If a child of this age appears less responsive to affection than before, it is just because he is "too busy."

May happiness "drive you to drink"?

Answer: Not really, though it may appear to. The fact that so many people "celebrate" a great success or the end of a period of strain by drinking too much would appear to contradict the theory that the purpose of intoxication is "escape." But if you drink when you are particularly happy, it is because of an unconscious need to drown the fear that your joy is too good to last, or that you don't deserve it and will therefore have to suffer for it later. If you drink when a great danger is past, it is to wipe out the remaining traces of anxiety and tension.

Is it true women "don't know what they want"?

Answer: No one is entirely conscious of his underlying aims and wishes. But there are particular reasons why a woman today may have conscious desires and goals that are wholly different from her unconscious ones. For to the degree that this appears to be a man's world, a girl will inevitably wish with one part of her mind to enjoy the advantages of masculinity even to the point of proving that she can "do anything a man can." This will tend to hide even from her the fact that in her biological and deeper emotional needs, she is still a woman.

Boys Who Destroyed Church Property Get Suspended Terms

Six juveniles, involved in two breaking and entering cases in the Klondike area, received suspended sentences to the Maryland Training School for Boys after hearings in Juvenile Court here yesterday.

Four of the boys including one who was involved in both robberies, were convicted of burning hymn books and 36 Bible lesson books taken from a Klondike church.

County authorities who investigated reported that the boys entered the church through an unlocked window and took a chest containing the church literature along with an amount of change.

The literature was found beside George's Creek partially burned. All of it was rendered useless by exposure to the weather.

The breaking and entering took place in December and the case was solved during the investigation of another that took place January 20.

Authorities stated that on January 20 three boys, one of whom had been involved in the church literature burning episode, entered the home of Anna Elizabeth Stott at Klondike.

It being a mild night, Mrs. Stott raised a window in her home before she left to go to Frostburg.

The three boys entered through this window and took loot valued at $50. It included a wrist watch, a pork roast from the refrigerator, cash money and three Canadian pennies.

One of the trio spent one of the Canadian pennies in a store in the neighborhood and was picked up as a result. Most of the loot was recovered, authorities added.

The sentence meted out Saturday in Cumberland provided that the boys be of good behavior or face being sent to the Maryland Training School for Boys until they are 18 years of age. The six lads ranged in age from nine years to 13 years.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator at the LaVale Barracks of Maryland State Police, spear-headed the probe.

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—

EVERYBODY'S got an idea on what would make a good movie. Including me. Including, also, everybody who writes for a newspaper, because in our trade we get a lot of mail from people who say in effect that this or that film stinks and the writer of the letter has an idea which will sweep the country.

Angriest fellow who has approached me lately on which films should and should not be made, is Harry G. Green, "biographical-historical-analytical researcher" from Chicago. (Cable address: Greeno, which, regrettably, sounds like a game played at my church.)

Mr. Green is mad at (1) Field Marshall Rommel, (2) Nunnally Johnson, (3) Darryl Zanuck, and (4) Twentieth Century-Fox. He is mad enough to have printed some envelopes for his indignant mail which carry a legend saying, in effect, "They won't make a picture about MacArthur, Nimitz, Eisenhower, Patton, etc. So they make a picture about Rommel." They, meaning Hollywood.

Mr. Green is a World War I vet, past commander of the fine American Unity Post of the American Legion in Chicago and at present a member of the Chipilly Post of the Legion in Chicago. And a good man.

• — • — •

He is angry especially at Nunnally Johnson, who apparently is going to do (or has done) the script on the Rommel picture. I don't know Mr. Johnson but am sympathetically drawn to him, because he has to do a movie script. Mr. Green is mad at everybody else concerned with the film, including Mr. Zanuck who, not incidentally, did a courageous job in North Africa in World War II at an age which relieved him of the necessity of doing it.

I sympathize with Mr. Green. I, too, think that there should be movies about the generals he mentions and some that he didn't mention — notably Jonathan Wainwright, now of Fort Sam Houston in San Antone.

Don't know much about movie-making but it seems to me that the fellows out Hollywood way will film almost anything that looks like a good and interesting story. A story that will either appeal to or be understood by a great many people. It's a wholesaler's business and, by and large, a worthwhile one.

They'd start a picture tomorrow about the unfilmed generals mentioned by Mr. Green or by me if they had a shooting script in hand that didn't promise to lose their shirts. So happens that Twentieth has come up with a book by a British brigadier about Rommel that has real meat—including an ending.

• — • — •

That is most important—an ending. Nobody in Hollywood will make a sports picture today, for instance, if the hero isn't about to die. Nobody ever lived a more dramatic life than Jack Dempsey, let's say for example, but if his life was filmed authentically it would have to end with his opening a restaurant on Broadway. This is a climax? A fine life, dramatically, is also the one lived by Gene Tunney. But you'd have to end the movie with a scene showing Gene being named a member of a new board of directors of a company manufacturing squeegee boards or some-such.

I've got a movie coming up for Herbert Yates of Republic called "Hoodlum Empire" which concerns some of the distinguished hoods recently brought before the Kefauver committee. But it has an ending, I hope. That's terribly vital, the Hollywood fellows believe, and they've been right so long — and have so much to say about it — that it's difficult to contest the point.

I haven't read the Rommel book from which Nunnally Johnson fashioned his script but I know a little something about Rommel from some translations I've read of Nazis who knew him. Far as I can see the fellow was the kind of military man his military enemies recognized as big league, and his part in the plot to kill Hitler (which cost him his life, eventually) was well played and taken, I think.

Personally, I wouldn't mind seeing a picture about Stalin if it ended properly with the bum's death and a change in that setup over there. I think a good movie about Mussolini would be okay, too, and I happen to have a script in my pocket which I might possibly part with for $5,000,000 (tax free.)

But, on the other hand, I can appreciate why Mr. Green feels upset about such things, especially about Rommel. And it seems to me that his one-man campaign against this picture should make its intelligent producers—who are good Americans, as is Mr. Green — try just a little harder to prove that they were right in selecting that talented beast Rommel as a subject. Hollywood will get around to the more respectable generals soon enough.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DROPPING A SINGLETON

AMONG all the situations in which a sound declarer tries to drop a singleton king, when able to attempt an ordinary finesse against it, the most important is that in which he can't afford to lose the lead to a particular defender if the finesse should fail. With No Trump game contracts particularly, it frequently develops early in the play that the declarer is beaten if one defender gets the lead, either to run the established cards of a suit or to come through some guarded honor. When that is the case, the declarer increases his chances slightly by trying to drop the king, which will fall if it is unguarded.

Brotherhood Week

Brotherhood Week, under the sponsorship of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, opened Sunday. The national chairman for community observance is Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, the Negro who heads the UN trusteeship organization and was awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1950.

The world has gone some distance toward recognizing that all men are brothers since the Constitution of the United States as drawn up in 1787 gave sanction, in effect, to Negro chattel slavery. In the South lynching has all but disappeared, and the number of Negroes voting, even in Democratic primaries, has reached respectable proportions.

No government of a great power now deliberately abets anti-Semitism, as it was abetted by Bismarck and Hitler in Germany and under the czars in imperial Russia. Organizations in this country that foster racial prejudices have nothing like the following that the Ku Klux Klan enjoyed for some years after World War I. In the Far East the men and women who once crassly echoed Rudyard Kipling's complaint of the "White Man's Burden" have now gone into the discard.

But the world has still a long, long way to go toward accepting the dictum of the Declaration of Independence that "all men are created equal." In the United States itself, the national capital, while eschewing Jim Crow in transportation, segregates the races in its public school system. And the large Negro population of the City of Washington (around 35 per cent) is the chief behind-the-scenes reason why Congress will not vote for self-government for the city.

In South Africa the dominance of racism has led to discrimination against Blacks and East Indians that seems a throw-back to the Dark Ages. In India and Pakistan, the Hindu and the Moslem, although of the same race, nourish bitter animosities from religious differences. It is not only in the United States that Brotherhood Week has a job to do.

The government has banned the use of nickel in non-essentials. If the number of items purchasable with the nickel keeps shrinking, it can soon be put on the non-essential list.

Vanishing Surpluses

Impact of war and preparation for war on the nation's economy is illustrated by the change in farm surpluses. A few months ago they were a mounting problem calling for a new approach.

Now government holdings of cheese, butter, cotton and wool have almost disappeared and the surpluses of the major grains—corn and wheat—are so highly regarded they are being stockpiled against future emergency. The government has already called upon the farmers to produce more of them. Potato control has been abandoned.

Wheat is needed against the possibility of feeding allies in a war, and there is a high priority on corn to keep meat supplies adequate. The changed prospect is reflected in prices, wheat quotations being at their high in several years despite a large surplus.

The Commodity Credit Corporation claims a loss of only $773,000,000 in its 17-year history. This, however, does not include administrative costs, interest and storage charges, which exceed the sales losses. CCC has authority to use nearly $5,000,000,000, and currently has $2,688,000,000 invested in price supports. It would appear that a considerable saving could be effected in this field, holding the budget down and avoiding some of the proposed new taxes.

This general situation of challenging economic problems that can be solved only by war calls for searching analysis. Is the American economic system so decadent that it must be supported by emergency after emergency to keep it working at top speed and stave off collapse of the standard of living? And what happens when the nation runs out of emergencies? Will it then be necessary to create another?

The Bureau of Internal Revenue accepts "sundry wagers" as an item in a racketeer's income report. But don't try that as an item in business deductions.

Dead Tigers, Live Rabbits

The tiger is as great a symbol of ferocity and wild power in China as the bull is in Spain. It must have seemed altogether fitting and proper, then, that last year, when two Chinese offensives in Korea sent UN forces down for the count of nine, should have been designated in the Chinese calendar as the Year of the Tiger.

Now that year is ended, and the year 4649 began last week. It has the less formidable designation of Year of the Golden Rabbit. Rabbits, when driven to it, can be more formidable fighters than most persons realize; but they are not commonly aggressors, and they never fight when it is possible to run away. That is why there are so many rabbits in the world, and so few tigers.

Traditional Chinese warfare, despite aspects of callous brutality, has for the most part emulated the sensible rabbit rather than the raging tiger. The conjunction of Communist rule with the Year of the Tiger seemed to change all that. But now the Chinese in Korea are suffering casualties appalling enough to daunt even a tiger. Will these tools of Kremlin policy presently note what year it is by their calendar, and decide that there is a lot to be said for the old tradition?

Winston Churchill is one of those rarities on the world scene — a man who both makes history and writes it.

H-Bomb Rumors

Rumors have been plentiful, since the last of the five nuclear explosions near Las Vegas, Nev., was set off, to the effect that the Nevada explosions were tests of the "trigger" of an H-bomb, the super-super nuclear bomb that the United States has been trying to invent. If the trigger—or percussion cap—is so tremendous, what will the hell-bomb itself be like?

The fifth explosion was the world's 14 nuclear detonation since the begining of time. One of the 14 took place in Russia. The other 13 were set off by the United States. And Russia cannot fail to be impressed by the fact that this country has atomic explosives to burn. There wouldn't be much left of Russia's stockpile (if informed guesses are at all close) after 13 nuclear detonations. And U. S. experiments are still continuing.

Time is a great rectifier. And it never lacks things to rectify.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Rickettsialpox From Mice

RICKETTSIALPOX, one of our newest diseases, was discovered in the spring of 1946 among a group of persons residing in a housing development in Queens borough, New York City. Since then cases have been detected in other boroughs and, more recently, in a woman living in Boston. In time, the malady will show up in other parts of the country.

This "critter" exists in the common house mouse and is transmitted to man thru the bite of the mouse mite. This is not an unusual way for man to contract a rickettsial infection. A related disease, Rocky mountain spotted fever, is acquired thru the bite of several species of ticks from infected rodents living in mountainous areas. The body louse is the culprit in epidemic typhus which is so prevalent during conditions of war and famine. The causative organisms of murine typhus are harbored in the common rat and are passed on to man by the rat flea. At any rate, rickettsialpox offers another reason for declaring war against mice.

The illness of most victims of this disease follows a definite pattern. The bite of the rodent mite looks like a pimple at first but changes shortly thereafter to a water blister that breaks and dries and soon becomes covered with a dark-brown or blackish crust. The lesion may be on any part of the body, including the face and feet. It lasts for about three weeks and during this period nearby lumph glands enlarge and become tender. From two to seven days after the appearance of the initial lesion, chills and fever develop. Many sufferers are drenched in perspiration and complain of headache, backache, and muscular discomfort. Stiff neck, cough, sore throat, nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea also occur in some.

Meanwhile a hybrid rash appears that is half-way between that seen in chickenpox and in Rocky mountain spotted fever. The individual lesions of this eruption are slightly elevated and reddened; many are capped by a tiny blister or vesicle. They usually remain for three to eight days and then disappear spontaneously. They do not itch or burn, which is a blessing in view of the fact that the patient is having more than his share of discomfort.

The diagnosis is made by a laboratory study of the blood. Whenever possible, an attempt is made to catch the mice for laboratory tests. The causative organism is said to be susceptible to aureomycin and chloromycetin and in this respect treatment is available. Every one apparently recovers as no fatalities have been reported.

The Boston victim frequently had seen mice in the shop where she worked and Rickettsia akari were found in the mice trapped there. Because the woman had not been out of Boston for five months prior to this illness, her physicians were reasonably certain that she had contracted the disease there. This meant that an infected animal reservoir existed in that city. She was a hat maker by trade and there was some discussion that the organisms might have been transmitted in the millinery material. But this idea was dispelled when the organisms were found in the mice.

WINTER ITCH

L. W. writes: What can I do for cold weather itch?

REPLY

This condition usually is caused by dryness of the skin. Treatment directed toward overcoming this grease deficiency will give relief. Some sufferers are helped by the daily application of cold cream or olive oil to the skin. Others find themselves more comfortable when they do not use soap in the bath. Individuals with severe winter itch may find it necessary to give up the use of water. The skin may then be cleansed with oil.

DEPLETED BLOOD SUGAR

B. W. writes: If the level of the blood sugar runs low is it better to eat lots of starchy foods or meats?

REPLY

For immediate relief, starchy foods are better because they raise the blood sugar level rapidly. In the long run, proteins and fats are more helpful because they are absorbed more slowly. This means that the blood sugar level is maintained over a longer period of time.

Ike—The Candidate For Both Parties? Korean Intelligence Has Improved; Ex-Senator Wheeler Maneuvers For A Comeback

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—General Eisenhower may find himself in the embarrassing position of getting the Democratic nomination for President in 1952, whether he wants it or not.

This leaked out of the White House after a private remark made by President Truman to a political adviser, who had told him about a plan on the part of anti-Truman Democrats — including Jimmy Byrnes and Jim Farley—to nominate Eisenhower.

Mr. Truman's reply was a bit plaintive but apparently sincere. "Well, if Ike wants it," he said, "I'll nominate him myself."

This coincides with a statement by Speaker Sam Rayburn that Eisenhower could have the Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket—a statement made by a man who doesn't often cross wires with Truman.

Meanwhile some of Ike's friends are saying the General will get the nomination from both parties and force a realignment of American politics. One friend expressed it this way: "The times demand a great man with wide personal appeal. Ike is the only man on the American scene who can command this kind of following, and the politicians know it. There are some in both parties who are ganging up against him, but the public pressure will be so great in 1952 that nothing can stop him."

Better Korean Intelligence

There have been two highly important developments regarding the Korean War. No. 1 is a vast improvement in our intelligence. No. 2 is a series of backstage conferences regarding the vital question of advancing beyond the 38th Parallel.

U. S. intelligence is now so good that Gen. Matt Ridgway knew exactly where the Chinese were going to hit when they staged last week's drive on the central front. He also knew when the Chinese would hit and their approximate strength. He also knew when the Chinese would hit and their approximate strength. Only mistake he made was in slightly under estimating Chinese strength.

As a result of this advance intelligence, Ridgway pulled 17 artillery units into position and the Chinese Communist armies walked right into this ring of withering artillery fire. This was the reason for the devastating casualties.

Reasons for General Ridgway's vastly improved intelligence have been his careful patrolling operations to find out what the enemy was doing, also excellent air observation, also a trip to Korea taken by Maj. Gen. A. R. Bolling, head of Army intelligence in Washington, and Gen. Bedell Smith, head of Central intelligence, MacArthur's sometimes faulty intelligence had been in charge of his intimate friend, Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby.

38th Or 39th Parallel

Nervous State Department conferees, considering the crossing of the 38th Parallel, were almost bowled over when handed a recommendation from General Ridgway that he be allowed not only to cross the 38th but proceed to the 39th Parallel.

Ridgway argued that there is a bottleneck at the 39th Parallel which UN troops could hold much easier against Chinese counterattack than at the 38th Parallel where Korea is wider. This would mean recapturing the North Korean Capital of Pyongyang and opening the ports of Inchon and Wonsan.

General MacArthur, when consulted about the proposed advance, was cautious. He didn't favor sticking our necks out in the Communist den of North Korea, proposed limited patrols above the 38th Parallel instead.

But in Washington, the Joint Chiefs of Staff are inclined to go along with Ridgway's proposal regardless of both the State Department and MacArthur. Meanwhile no definite instructions have been sent him and until he receives them, Ridgway's job, as commander-in-the-field, is to use his own judgment.

Ex-Senator Wheeler

Ex-Senator Burt Wheeler of Montana, long one of the most powerful figures in Washington and the Northwest, has been itching to get back into politics. Already he has been maneuvering for a possible Senate comeback, and that was the backstage reason for a recent blow-up inside the Office of Price Administration.

Senator Wheeler, a thorn in the side of Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, and later Franklih Roosevelt, cleaned out the Harry Dougherty mess in the Justice Department and put across some of FDR's most important new deal legislation. But after a quarrel with the Administration, he was defeated for re-election in 1946.

But the other day, when Adm. John Hoover resigned in a huff as chief price enforcement officer, it was a tip-off to those in the know that the powerful hand of Burt Wheeler was operating again.

For Wheeler, in order to attract GOP support had arranged for the appointment of two Montana Republicans, ex-Governor Sam Ford and Ernest Immel, to important jobs in price stabilization.

Wheeler had cleared these with his old friend, Harry Truman. But as an afterthought a White House aide called Senator Murray of Montana, bitter foe of Wheeler's, to get his OK on the appointments.

"You had better read the Congressional Directory again!" exploded Charles Murray, son of the Democratic Senator. "The Senator from Montana is named Murray, not Wheeler."

As a result, the White House killed the two Wheeler appointments. Simultaneously, another Wheeler appointee inside the Price Stabilizer's Office got sore and resigned—Admiral Hoover. When Hoover resigned, however, he did not mention that he was the brother of Harold Hoover of the Anaconda Copper Company, biggest backer of ex-Senator Wheeler.

Washington Pipeline

The Senate District Committee was short a few senators to make a quorum the other day, so Clerk Ann Monat hustled out and rounded up enough senators to start the meeting. The first item of business, ironically, was an economy measure that resulted in firing Ann Monat. . . . Ex-Sen. Rufus Holman, Oregon Republican, borrowed the telephone at the Senate guard's desk the other day to make an appointment with Sen. George Malone, Nevada Republican. Holman's name, however, didn't mean anything to Malone's office. Patiently the ex-Senator from Oregon spelled his name to the office of the Senator from Nevada, then sighed: "Such is fame."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Two Out Of Ten

WASHINGTON

At least $2,000,000,000 out of every $10,000,000,000 appropriated for the defense of the United States since the Korean aggression has gone up in inflationary smoke. This simple fact, which should send shivers up the spine of any sensible man, provides the right background for understanding the vitally important issues in dispute between Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board and Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder.

A few specific examples will serve to show what has been happening to the defense dollar. A big bazooka, a recoil-less gun, or a heavy mortar all now cost well over 5 per cent more than before Korea. A pair of combat boots for an infantryman or a flight jacket for a flyer costs upward of 60 per cent more. It costs 16 per cent more to feed troops—and the expense is increasing rapidly. Army ordnance—the "hardware" which provides the army with the means to fight—is up 40 per cent overall, and "hardware" for the other three services has increased comparably.

Largely because of this sort of thing, the services will shortly go back to Congress for a third supplemental appropriation in this fiscal year. Thus the process continues, with no end in sight; the Congress appropriates dollars; the dollars do not buy what they were supposed to buy; and the services return to Congress for more dollars.

Basic Facts Simple

The same process is at work everywhere in the economy. Eccles and his numerous supporters, including many reputable economists, are convinced that this inflation is essentially a money inflation, deriving from the fiscal policies of the government itself. Rearmament has not yet taken a really serious bite out of the whole economy. In the last seven months, moreover, the government has actually been collecting more in cash than it has been spending. Plain human greed no doubt accounts for part of the inflation, but greed cannot possibly account for all of it.

The real explanation, according to Eccles and his supporters, lies elsewhere. The basic facts in the Eccles-Snyder dispute, the most important domestic economic issue in many years, are simple enough. Secretary Snyder insists, with the backing of President Truman, that government bonds be redeemed on demand by the Federal Reserve Board at full face value. This is intended to make sure that bonds can be sold at low interest rates, and thus interest on the huge public debt, which must be included in the annual budget, can be kept as low as possible.

This sounds sensible enough on the face of it. But Eccles contends that the net effect is precisely the same as though the government printed tons of greenbacks, and injected them into the economy. In a time of inflation, with the value of the dollar falling, big bond holders cash in their bonds. This money then goes into the spending stream, adding to total deposits in banks. The banks then loan the money, thus multiplying credit—which is equivalent to cash in purchasing power—by a ratio of about 6 to 1.

Census Is One Worthwhile U. S. Government Project

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18 — During the past year, Uncle Sam spent huge sums of money for many things of doubtful value. Yet, there was one particular government project, undertaken in 1950, which will prove its worth—namely, the federal census.

Make The Most Of Figures

Complete breakdowns of last year's decennial census are not yet available. However, figures for the states and for most of the country's larger cities have already been released. They are very significant. Those who own their own business, interests in other businesses, or make their living by selling can save time and money by studying these census figures. They give you, free of cost, elaborate surveys on quotas, routes, territories and other sales problems.

When all 1950 census figures are released, they will tell much on local merchandising conditions and opportunities throughout the nation. However, compiling census figures is a big job and it will probably be many months before all details are pulished. Meanwhile, readers should watch for the preliminary summaries as they are released each month.

Population Increases

On April 1, 1950, our population was 152,340,000. Since then there have been 3,704,000 births and 1,461,000 deaths and a net emigration of 10,000. This gives us double the annual gain of 10 years ago. Those states possessing the advantage of a mild climate show the greatest population increases. California is up 51.6 per cent from the 1940 level and is followed closely by Texas, Arizona and Florida. This increase of population is not coming from "playboys," but from good substantial northern people who are retiring from work on pensions. They make excellent citizens for any community.

Undoubtedly, the national trend is toward greater increases in leisure time. Firms engaged in the production of recreation equipment will more than hold their own in the years to come. Not only in the above states but elsewhere through the nation.

Some Have Stopped Growing

Nearly half of the states —twenty-two to be exact—show population increases below the national average in the 10-year period from 1940 to 1950. Five states register actual population losses for the period. Many of these 27 states were sparcely populated anyway and their poor showing in this census is due in part to the fact that proportionately the number of men they sent into the armed forces during the Second World War was high.

The gains in population shown by the Far Western states reflect clearly the wartime migration to the West Coast to fill jobs in the huge defense establishments out there. California has the double advantage of mild climate and plenty of jobs for everyone.

The Rural States

Many cannot understand why I continue to call attention to the "Magic Circle," comprising the states of Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, as being "the richest in time of peace and the safest in time of war." They point out that three of these States — Arkansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma — actually lost population during the past 10 years, while the other three enjoyed only nominal increases, which in each case were far below the national average. The reason for this apparent contradiction is that these six states have few large cities. Too many people foolishly continue to want to live in a large city.

Numbers do not necessarily represent true progress. The first consideration should be economic opportunity. I maintain that more economic opportunity exists in the more sparsely settled states. Readers should not forget that food experts, economists, and leaders in the conservation field consider the rural states the hope of North America in the years ahead. Recent events have made it clear that our Communist enemies will try to destroy not only our position as a leading power but our very existence as a nation. It is not at all improbable that the large cities of the nation may someday be begging the rural sections for life and protection.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Card-Carrying Nonsense

SENATOR Homer Ferguson, of Michigan, correctly makes the point that the Remington case "established as a legal principle that to be a member of the Communist party in the United States, and a part of its apparatus, one does not have to be a card-carrying member of the party...."

No important Communist, particularly those who are in the "underground," ever carries a card. I do not know who invented the "card-carrying" business. It is a smelly red-herring, because it can rarely be established. In fact, at this moment the cards have been abolished altogether. The very nature of Remington's work made it clear that he was in the underground and therefore did not carry a card.

It would be wiser if our courts were made aware of the nature of this conspiracy, its organization and its methods of work. Thus far, in the Alger Hiss, the Marzani and the Remington cases, the charge has not been conspiracy but perjury. One might say that the perjury was concerning a conspiracy, but it is not the same.

In some of the Institute of Pacific Relations documents, which are now circulating among senators, evidence of conspiracy against the United States may be found, but these will be protected by the Statute of Limitations. Furthermore, the question will arise whether one can conspire with an ally against his own country. And also, whether the expression of an opinion, no matter how outrageous, can be called entering into conspiracy.

Senator Ferguson asks:

"The fact that these cases have been successfully prosecuted as perjury cases leads one to ask why the job cannot be done as well behind the cloak of secrecy — and I am talking about the government's loyalty program—with which the executive department surrounds itself in such matters. Why cannot the same job be done by the government within its own household as can be done out in the open, in a trial before the federal court?"

The answer, of course, is that he and others continue to deal with loyalty, which is normal, when what needs to be defined is disloyalty, which is the disease. Most Americans are loyal. They recognize that some Americans have emotional affiliations with other countries. Some are pro-Russian, pro-British, pro-French, etc. This is not a conspiratorial activity but merely an unbalanced approach to their own affiliations.

It is exceedingly difficult for any American to believe that an American would be disloyal to this country, even if he appears to be so. It is so unbelievable that even proved cases seem beyond comprehension. Why should men like Hiss or Remington or others like them turn on their country?

To answer that question requires not merely an investigation of the disloyalty of individuals, but a survey of the forces that have been perverting our youth. These forces include professors, writers, lecturers, clergymen who truly believe that they are as loyal as anyone.

We face, for instance, the amazing situation of a publishing house that has sought to suppress an entire chapter of Hede Massing's forthcoming book because it deals with Laurence Duggan. That chapter is admittedly not libelous and the book is about to be published by Duell, Sloan and Pearce, Inc., a firm that is just as careful as Farrar, Straus & Company, Inc., which gave up the contract in preference to publishing the chapter.

The appeal was made to Mrs. Massing to suppress her chapter in the interest of the Duggan family. Certainly, no one can question the sentiment of this request, but a publishing house which has a book ready for the public has no right to act as a censoring agency in a matter that involves historic truth. Either the chapter is false and therefore the book should not be trusted, or it is true and needs to be made public. There was never a question as to its truthfulness.

We need to know what happened to a fine and charming person like Laurence Duggan, whose father was as good an American as ever lived and whose home surroundings must have been favorable. Larry Duggan is a symptom of a sick America and we need to know what that sickness is to protect our own children. Surely, it is as serious as polio — and no one seeks to suppress the news of polio. It is a sickness of the soul.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP OF ALL BELIEVERS

There is one body and one spirit, just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all, who is above all and through all and in all. Ephesians 4:4-6 (R. S. V.) Read Acts 2:37-47.

What has happened in the Church since Jesus pointed a new way and worked out a vital manner of living? What has happened in the Church since the early Christians met in homes, sang psalms of praise, prayed the Lord's Prayer, and partook of a common meal? What has happened since that day when the one condition of fellowship was love of the brethren, and love and loyalty to their Master?

Surely something has happened. We talk about the fellowship of all believers a very great deal, and in our speech we minimize our differences. In practice, however, they loom up above every other consideration. Every denomination can find Scripture warrant for its polity, its creed, its doctrine, and these become more important than Jesus himself.

The Church will have to begin to think of a better way to make God known as he is revealed in Jesus, to hosts of people who are looking for reality outside of a man-made polity, or creed, or doctrine.

Let Us Pray: We believe, O God, that thou art no respector of persons or churches. Teach us how to follow in the way of him who died that we might live. Amen.

Brotherhood Week

Brotherhood Week, under the sponsorship of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, opened Sunday. The national chairman for community observance is Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, the Negro who heads the UN trusteeship organization and was awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1950.

The world has gone some distance toward recognizing that all men are brothers since the Constitution of the United States as drawn up in 1787 gave sanction, in effect, to Negro chattel slavery. In the South lynching has all but disappeared, and the number of Negroes voting, even in Democratic primaries, has reached respectable proportions.

No government of a great power now deliberately abets anti-Semitism, as it was abetted by Bismarck and Hitler in Germany and under the czars in imperial Russia. Organizations in this country that foster racial prejudices have nothing like the following that the Ku Klux Klan enjoyed for some years after World War I. In the Far East the men and women who once crassly echoed Rudyard Kipling's complaint of the "White Man's Burden" have now gone into the discard.

But the world has still a long, long way to go toward accepting the dictum of the Declaration of Independence that "all men are created equal." In the United States itself, the national capital, while eschewing Jim Crow in transportation, segregates the races in its public school system. And the large Negro population of the City of Washington (around 35 per cent) is the chief behind-the-scenes reason why Congress will not vote for self-government for the city.

In South Africa the dominance of racism has led to discrimination against Blacks and East Indians that seems a throw-back to the Dark Ages. In India and Pakistan, the Hindu and the Moslem, although of the same race, nourish bitter animosities from religious differences. It is not only in the United States that Brotherhood Week has a job to do.

The government has banned the use of nickel in non-essentials. If the number of items purchasable with the nickel keeps shrinking, it can soon be put on the non-essential list.

Vanishing Surpluses

Impact of war and preparation for war on the nation's economy is illustrated by the change in farm surpluses. A few months ago they were a mounting problem calling for a new approach.

Now government holdings of cheese, butter, cotton and wool have almost disappeared and the surpluses of the major grains—corn and wheat—are so highly regarded they are being stockpiled against future emergency. The government has already called upon the farmers to produce more of them. Potato control has been abandoned.

Wheat is needed against the possibility of feeding allies in a war, and there is a high priority on corn to keep meat supplies adequate. The changed prospect is reflected in prices, wheat quotations being at their high in several years despite a large surplus.

The Commodity Credit Corporation claims a loss of only $773,000,000 in its 17-year history. This, however, does not include administrative costs, interest and storage charges, which exceed the sales losses. CCC has authority to use nearly $5,000,000,000, and currently has $2,688,000,000 invested in price supports. It would appear that a considerable saving could be effected in this field, holding the budget down and avoiding some of the proposed new taxes.

This general situation of challenging economic problems that can be solved only by war calls for searching analysis. Is the American economic system so decadent that it must be supported by emergency after emergency to keep it working at top speed and stave off collapse of the standard of living? And what happens when the nation runs out of emergencies? Will it then be necessary to create another?

The Bureau of Internal Revenue accepts "sundry wagers" as an item in a racketeer's income report. But don't try that as an item in business deductions.

Dead Tigers, Live Rabbits

The tiger is as great a symbol of ferocity and wild power in China as the bull is in Spain. It must have seemed altogether fitting and proper, then, that last year, when two Chinese offensives in Korea sent UN forces down for the count of nine, should have been designated in the Chinese calendar as the Year of the Tiger.

Now that year is ended, and the year 4649 began last week. It has the less formidable designation of Year of the Golden Rabbit. Rabbits, when driven to it, can be more formidable fighters than most persons realize; but they are not commonly aggressors, and they never fight when it is possible to run away. That is why there are so many rabbits in the world, and so few tigers.

Traditional Chinese warfare, despite aspects of callous brutality, has for the most part emulated the sensible rabbit rather than the raging tiger. The conjunction of Communist rule with the Year of the Tiger seemed to change all that. But now the Chinese in Korea are suffering casualties appalling enough to daunt even a tiger. Will these tools of Kremlin policy presently note what year it is by their calendar, and decide that there is a lot to be said for the old tradition?

Winston Churchill is one of those rarities on the world scene — a man who both makes history and writes it.

H-Bomb Rumors

Rumors have been plentiful, since the last of the five nuclear explosions near Las Vegas, Nev., was set off, to the effect that the Nevada explosions were tests of the "trigger" of an H-bomb, the super-super nuclear bomb that the United States has been trying to invent. If the trigger—or percussion cap—is so tremendous, what will the hell-bomb itself be like?

The fifth explosion was the world's 14 nuclear detonation since the begining of time. One of the 14 took place in Russia. The other 13 were set off by the United States. And Russia cannot fail to be impressed by the fact that this country has atomic explosives to burn. There wouldn't be much left of Russia's stockpile (if informed guesses are at all close) after 13 nuclear detonations. And U. S. experiments are still continuing.

Time is a great rectifier. And it never lacks things to rectify.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Rickettsialpox From Mice

RICKETTSIALPOX, one of our newest diseases, was discovered in the spring of 1946 among a group of persons residing in a housing development in Queens borough, New York City. Since then cases have been detected in other boroughs and, more recently, in a woman living in Boston. In time, the malady will show up in other parts of the country.

This "critter" exists in the common house mouse and is transmitted to man thru the bite of the mouse mite. This is not an unusual way for man to contract a rickettsial infection. A related disease, Rocky mountain spotted fever, is acquired thru the bite of several species of ticks from infected rodents living in mountainous areas. The body louse is the culprit in epidemic typhus which is so prevalent during conditions of war and famine. The causative organisms of murine typhus are harbored in the common rat and are passed on to man by the rat flea. At any rate, rickettsialpox offers another reason for declaring war against mice.

The illness of most victims of this disease follows a definite pattern. The bite of the rodent mite looks like a pimple at first but changes shortly thereafter to a water blister that breaks and dries and soon becomes covered with a dark-brown or blackish crust. The lesion may be on any part of the body, including the face and feet. It lasts for about three weeks and during this period nearby lumph glands enlarge and become tender. From two to seven days after the appearance of the initial lesion, chills and fever develop. Many sufferers are drenched in perspiration and complain of headache, backache, and muscular discomfort. Stiff neck, cough, sore throat, nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea also occur in some.

Meanwhile a hybrid rash appears that is half-way between that seen in chickenpox and in Rocky mountain spotted fever. The individual lesions of this eruption are slightly elevated and reddened; many are capped by a tiny blister or vesicle. They usually remain for three to eight days and then disappear spontaneously. They do not itch or burn, which is a blessing in view of the fact that the patient is having more than his share of discomfort.

The diagnosis is made by a laboratory study of the blood. Whenever possible, an attempt is made to catch the mice for laboratory tests. The causative organism is said to be susceptible to aureomycin and chloromycetin and in this respect treatment is available. Every one apparently recovers as no fatalities have been reported.

The Boston victim frequently had seen mice in the shop where she worked and Rickettsia akari were found in the mice trapped there. Because the woman had not been out of Boston for five months prior to this illness, her physicians were reasonably certain that she had contracted the disease there. This meant that an infected animal reservoir existed in that city. She was a hat maker by trade and there was some discussion that the organisms might have been transmitted in the millinery material. But this idea was dispelled when the organisms were found in the mice.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses aspects of stomach cancer.

WINTER ITCH

L. W. writes: What can I do for cold weather itch?

This condition usually is caused by dryness of the skin. Treatment directed toward overcoming this grease deficiency will give relief. Some sufferers are helped by the daily application of cold cream or olive oil to the skin. Others find themselves more comfortable when they do not use soap in the bath. Individuals with severe winter itch may find it necessary to give up the use of water. The skin may then be cleansed with oil.

Ike—The Candidate For Both Parties? Korean Intelligence Has Improved; Ex-Senator Wheeler Maneuvers For A Comeback

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—General Eisenhower may find himself in the embarrassing position of getting the Democratic nomination for President in 1952, whether he wants it or not.

This leaked out of the White House after a private remark made by President Truman to a political adviser, who had told him about a plan on the part of anti-Truman Democrats — including Jimmy Byrnes and Jim Farley—to nominate Eisenhower.

Mr. Truman's reply was a bit plaintive but apparently sincere.

"Well, if Ike wants it," he said, "I'll nominate him myself."

This coincides with a statement by Speaker Sam Rayburn that Eisenhower could have the Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket—a statement made by a man who doesn't often cross wires with Truman.

Meanwhile some of Ike's friends are saying the General will get the nomination from both parties and force a realignment of American politics. One friend expressed it this way: "The times demand a great man with wide personal appeal. Ike is the only man on the American scene who can command this kind of following, and the politicians know it. There are some in both parties who are ganging up against him, but the public pressure will be so great in 1952 that nothing can stop him."

Better Korean Intelligence

There have been two highly important developments regarding the Korean War. No. 1 is a vast improvement in our intelligence. No. 2 is a series of backstage conferences regarding the vital question of advancing beyond the 38th Parallel.

U. S. intelligence is now so good that Gen. Matt Ridgway knew exactly where the Chinese were going to hit when they staged last week's drive on the central front. He also knew when the Chinese would hit and their approximate strength. He also knew when the Chinese would hit and their approximate strength. Only mistake he made was in slightly under estimating Chinese strength.

As a result of this advance intelligence, Ridgway pulled 17 artillery units into position and the Chinese Communist armies walked right into this ring of withering artillery fire. This was the reason for the devastating casualties.

Reasons for General Ridgway's vastly improved intelligence have been his careful patrolling operations to find out what the enemy was doing, also excellent air observation, also a trip to Korea taken by Maj. Gen. A. R. Bolling, head of Army intelligence in Washington, and Gen. Bedell Smith, head of Central intelligence. MacArthur's sometimes faulty intelligence had been in charge of his intimate friend, Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby.

38th Or 39th Parallel

Nervous State Department conferees, considering the crossing of the 38th Parallel, were almost bowled over when handed a recommendation from General Ridgway that he be allowed not only to cross the 38th but proceed to the 39th Parallel.

Ridgway argued that there is a bottleneck at the 39th Parallel which UN troops could hold much easier against Chinese counterattack than at the 38th Parallel where Korea is wider. This would mean recapturing the North Korean Capital of Pyongyang and opening the ports of Inchon and Wonsan.

General MacArthur, when consulted about the proposed advance, was cautious. He didn't favor sticking our necks out in the Communist den of North Korea, proposed limited patrols above the 38th Parallel instead.

But in Washington, the Joint Chiefs of Staff are inclined to go along with Ridgway's proposal regardless of both the State Department and MacArthur. Meanwhile no definite instructions have been sent him and until he receives them, Ridgway's job, as commander-in-the-field, is to use his own judgment.

Ex-Senator Wheeler

Ex-Senator Burt Wheeler of Montana, long one of the most powerful figures in Washington and the Northwest, has been itching to get back into politics. Already he has been maneuvering for a possible Senate comeback, and that was the backstage reason for a recent blow-up inside the Office of Price Administration.

Senator Wheeler, a thorn in the side of Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, and later Franklih Roosevelt, cleaned out the Harry Dougherty mess in the Justice Department and put across some of FDR's most important new deal legislation. But after a quarrel with the Administration, he was defeated for re-election in 1946.

But the other day, when Adm. John Hoover resigned in a huff as chief price enforcement officer, it was a tip-off to those in the know that the powerful hand of Burt Wheeler was operating again.

For Wheeler, in order to attract GOP support had arranged for the appointment of two Montana Republicans, ex-Governor Sam Ford and Ernest Immel, to important jobs in price stabilization.

Wheeler had cleared these with his old friend, Harry Truman. But as an afterthought a White House aide called Senator Murray of Montana, bitter foe of Wheeler's, to get his OK on the appointments.

"You had better read the Congressional Directory again!" exploded Charles Murray, son of the Democratic Senator. "The Senator from Montana is named Murray, not Wheeler."

As a result, the White House killed the two Wheeler appointments. Simultaneously, another Wheeler appointee inside the Price Stabilizer's Office got sore and resigned—Admiral Hoover. When Hoover resigned, however, he did not mention that he was the brother of Harold Hoover of the Anaconda Copper Company, biggest backer of ex-Senator Wheeler.

Washington Pipeline

The Senate District Committee was short a few senators to make a quorum the other day, so Clerk Ann Monat hustled out and rounded up enough senators to start the meeting. The first item of business, ironically, was an economy measure that resulted in firing Ann Monat. . . . Ex-Sen. Rufus Holman, Oregon Republican, borrowed the telephone at the Senate guard's desk the other day to make an appointment with Sen. George Malone, Nevada Republican. Holman's name, however, didn't mean anything to Malone's office. Patiently the ex-Senator from Oregon spelled his name to the office of the Senator from Nevada, then sighed: "Such is fame."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Two Out Of Ten

WASHINGTON

At least $2,000,000,000 out of every $10,000,000,000 appropriated for the defense of the United States since the Korean aggression has gone up in inflationary smoke. This simple fact, which should send shivers up the spine of any sensible man, provides the right background for understanding the vitally important issues in dispute between Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board and Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder.

A few specific examples will serve to show what has been happening to the defense dollar. A big bazooka, a recoil-less gun, or a heavy mortar all now cost well over 5 per cent more than before Korea. A pair of combat boots for an infantryman or a flight jacket for a flyer costs upward of 60 per cent more. It costs 16 per cent more to feed troops—and the expense is increasing rapidly. Army ordnance—the "hardware" which provides the army with the means to fight—is up 40 per cent overall, and "hardware" for the other three services has increased comparably.

Largely because of this sort of thing, the services will shortly go back to Congress for a third supplemental appropriation in this fiscal year. Thus the process continues, with no end in sight; the Congress appropriates dollars; the dollars do not buy what they were supposed to buy; and the services return to Congress for more dollars.

Basic Facts Simple

The same process is at work everywhere in the economy. Eccles and his numerous supporters, including many reputable economists, are convinced that this inflation is essentially a money inflation, deriving from the fiscal policies of the government itself. Rearmament has not yet taken a really serious bite out of the whole economy. In the last seven months, moreover, the government has actually been collecting more in cash than it has been spending. Plain human greed no doubt accounts for part of the inflation, but greed cannot possibly account for all of it.

The real explanation, according to Eccles and his supporters, lies elsewhere. The basic facts in the Eccles-Snyder dispute, the most important domestic economic issue in many years, are simple enough. Secretary Snyder insists, with the backing of President Truman, that government bonds be redeemed on demand by the Federal Reserve Board at full face value. This is intended to make sure that bonds can be sold at low interest rates, and thus interest on the huge public debt, which must be included in the annual budget, can be kept as low as possible.

This sounds sensible enough on the face of it. But Eccles contends that the net effect is precisely the same as though the government printed tons of greenbacks, and injected them into the economy. In a time of inflation, with the value of the dollar falling, big bond holders cash in their bonds. This money then goes into the spending stream, adding to total deposits in banks. The banks then loan the money, thus multiplying credit—which is equivalent to cash in purchasing power—by a ratio of about 6 to 1.

Census Is One Worthwhile U. S. Government Project

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18 — During the past year, Uncle Sam spent huge sums of money for many things of doubtful value. Yet, there was one particular government project, undertaken in 1950, which will prove its worth—namely, the federal census.

Make The Most Of Figures

Complete breakdowns of last year's decennial census are not yet available. However, figures for the states and for most of the country's larger cities have already been released. They are very significant. Those who own their own business, interests in other businesses, or make their living by selling can save time and money by studying these census figures. They give you, free of cost, elaborate surveys on quotas, routes, territories and other sales problems.

When all 1950 census figures are released, they will tell much on local merchandising conditions and opportunities throughout the nation. However, compiling census figures is a big job and it will probably be many months before all details are published. Meanwhile, readers should watch for the preliminary summaries as they are released each month.

Population Increases

On April 1, 1950, our population was 152,340,000. Since then there have been 3,704,000 births and 1,461,000 deaths and a net emigration of 10,000. This gives us double the annual gain of 10 years ago. Those states possessing the advantage of a mild climate show the greatest population increases. California is up 51.6 per cent from the 1940 level and is followed closely by Texas, Arizona and Florida. This increase of population is not coming from "playboys," but from good substantial northern people who are retiring from work on pensions. They make excellent citizens for any community.

Undoubtedly, the national trend is toward greater increases in leisure time. Firms engaged in the production of recreation equipment will more than hold their own in the years to come. Not only in the above states but elsewhere through the nation.

Some Have Stopped Growing

Nearly half of the states —twenty-two to be exact—show population increases below the national average in the 10-year period from 1940 to 1950. Five states register actual population losses for the period. Many of these 27 states were sparcely populated anyway and their poor showing in this census is due in part to the fact that proportionately the number of men they sent into the armed forces during the Second World War was high.

The gains in population shown by the Far Western states reflect clearly the wartime migration to the West Coast to fill jobs in the huge defense establishments out there. California has the double advantage of mild climate and plenty of jobs for everyone.

The Rural States

Many cannot understand why I continue to call attention to the "Magic Circle," comprising the states of Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, as being "the richest in time of peace and the safest in time of war." They point out that three of these States — Arkansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma — actually lost population during the past 10 years, while the other three enjoyed only nominal increases, which in each case were far below the national average. The reason for this apparent contradiction is that these six states have few large cities. Too many people foolishly continue to want to live in a large city.

Numbers do not necessarily represent true progress. The first consideration should be economic opportunity. I maintain that more economic opportunity exists in the more sparsely settled states. Readers should not forget that food experts, economists, and leaders in the conservation field consider the rural states the hope of North America in the years ahead. Recent events have made it clear that our Communist enemies will try to destroy not only our position as a leading power but our very existence as a nation. It is not at all improbable that the large cities of the nation may someday be begging the rural sections for life and protection.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Card-Carrying Nonsense

SENATOR Homer Ferguson, of Michigan, correctly makes the point that the Remington case "established as a legal principle that to be a member of the Communist party in the United States, and a part of its apparatus, one does not have to be a card-carrying member of the party...."

No important Communist, particularly those who are in the "underground," ever carries a card. I do not know who invented the "card-carrying" business. It is a smelly red-herring, because it can rarely be established. In fact, at this moment the cards have been abolished altogether. The very nature of Remington's work made it clear that he was in the underground and therefore did not carry a card.

It would be wiser if our courts were made aware of the nature of this conspiracy, its organization and its methods of work. Thus far, in the Alger Hiss, the Marzani and the Remington cases, the charge has not been conspiracy but perjury. One might say that the perjury was concerning a conspiracy, but it is not the same.

In some of the Institute of Pacific Relations documents, which are now circulating among senators, evidence of conspiracy against the United States may be found, but these will be protected by the Statute of Limitations. Furthermore, the question will arise whether one can conspire with an ally against his own country. And also, whether the expression of an opinion, no matter how outrageous, can be called entering into conspiracy.

Senator Ferguson asks:

"The fact that these cases have been successfully prosecuted as perjury cases leads one to ask why the job cannot be done as well behind the cloak of secrecy — and I am talking about the government's loyalty program—with which the executive department surrounds itself in such matters. Why cannot the same job be done by the government within its own household as can be done out in the open, in a trial before the federal court?"

The answer, of course, is that he and others continue to deal with loyalty, which is normal, when what needs to be defined is disloyalty, which is the disease. Most Americans are loyal. They recognize that some Americans have emotional affiliations with other countries. Some are pro-Russian, pro-British, pro-French, etc. This is not a conspiratorial activity but merely an unbalanced approach to their own affiliations.

It is exceedingly difficult for any American to believe that an American would be disloyal to this country, even if he appears to be so. It is so unbelievable that even proved cases seem beyond comprehension. Why should men like Hiss or Remington or others like them turn on their country?

To answer that question requires not merely an investigation of the disloyalty of individuals, but a survey of the forces that have been perverting our youth. These forces include professors, writers, lecturers, clergymen who truly believe that they are as loyal as anyone.

We face, for instance, the amazing situation of a publishing house that has sought to suppress an entire chapter of Hede Massing's forthcoming book because it deals with Laurence Duggan. That chapter is admittedly not libelous and the book is about to be published by Duell, Sloan and Pearce, Inc., a firm that is just as careful as Farrar, Straus & Company, Inc., which gave up the contract in preference to publishing the chapter.

The appeal was made to Mrs. Massing to suppress her chapter in the interest of the Duggan family. Certainly, no one can question the sentiment of this request, but a publishing house which has a book ready for the public has no right to act as a censoring agency in a matter that involves historic truth. Either the chapter is false and therefore the book should not be trusted, or it is true and needs to be made public. There was never a question as to its truthfulness.

We need to know what happened to a fine and charming person like Laurence Duggan, whose father was as good an American as ever lived and whose home surroundings must have been favorable. Larry Duggan is a symptom of a sick America and we need to know what that sickness is to protect our own children. Surely, it is as serious as polio — and no one seeks to suppress the news of polio. It is a sickness of the soul.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP OF ALL BELIEVERS

There is one body and one spirit, just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all, who is above all and through all and in all. Ephesians 4:4-6 (R. S. V.) Read Acts 2:37-47.

What has happened in the Church since Jesus pointed a new way and worked out a vital manner of living? What has happened in the Church since the early Christians met in homes, sang psalms of praise, prayed the Lord's Prayer, and partook of a common meal? What has happened since that day when the one condition of fellowship was love of the brethren, and love and loyalty to their Master?

Surely something has happened. We talk about the fellowship of all believers a very great deal, and in our speech we minimize our differences. In practice, however, they loom up above every other consideration. Every denomination can find Scripture warrant for its polity, its creed, its doctrine, and these become more important than Jesus himself.

The Church will have to begin to think of a better way to make God known as he is revealed in Jesus, to hosts of people who are looking for reality outside of a man-made polity, or creed, or doctrine.

Let Us Pray: We believe, O God, that thou art no respector of persons or churches. Teach us how to follow in the way of him who died that we might live. Amen.

Governor Will Present Lonaconing Girl's Top Prize

McKeldin at a luncheon to be held at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore March 15.

Theme of the 1951 contest was "Equal Opportunity in Employment for the Physically Handicapped."

"The key to successful employment is proper placement in jobs which match abilities," the Lonaconing girl wrote in her prize-winning essay.

"Hiring the handicapped can be likened to the making of a suit to measure. Each disabled person presents distinct problems, the solution of which requires understanding, imagination, patience and ingenuity.

"The first half of the 20th Century witnessed the growth of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation, from a productive child to an industrial giant, from a world observer to a world leader — an evolvement made possible by the blending of natural resources, unusual spirit, initiative, special industrial skills and great vision. If our vision and hopes for the future are to be fulfilled, we must utilize wisely every possible material resource — our citizens, our democracy and our land.

"Hire the handicapped," she concluded; "they, too, must share in the promise which is America. Hire the handicapped — they, too, are part of America's assurance of progress."

Miss Dilfer's winning essay will be transcribed and broadcast over radio stations throughout the state and will be entered in the national contest sponsored by the President's Committee on National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

Governor Will Present Lonaconing Girl's Top Prize

Miss Margaret Ann Dilfer, Central High School, Lonaconing, who was announced several weeks ago as the winner in the 1951 Essay Contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped, will receive a $100 Savings Bond from Governor Theodore R. McKeldin at a luncheon to be held at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore March 15.

Theme of the 1951 contest was "Equal Opportunity in Employment for the Physically Handicapped."

"The key to successful employment is proper placement in jobs which match abilities," the Lonaconing girl wrote in her prize-winning essay.

"Hiring the handicapped can be likened to the making of a suit to measure. Each disabled person presents distinct problems, the solution of which requires understanding, imagination, patience and ingenuity.

"The first half of the 20th Century witnessed the growth of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation, from a productive child to an industrial giant, from a world observer to a world leader — an evolvement made possible by the blending of natural resources, unusual spirit, initiative, special industrial skills and great vision. If our vision and hopes for the future are to be fulfilled, we must utilize wisely every possible material resource — our citizens, our democracy and our land.

"Hire the handicapped," she concluded; "they, too, must share in the promise which is America. Hire the handicapped — they, too, are part of America's assurance of progress."

Miss Dilfer's winning essay will be transcribed and broadcast over radio stations throughout the state and will be entered in the national contest sponsored by the President's Committee on National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

He Couldn't Lose

HERE IS a behind-the-scenes story straight from the manager's mouth:

When Gertrude Lawrence was starring in the hit show "Lady In The Dark," she went to the Dutch Treat Club lunch one Tuesday to entertain the sophisticated gents who congregate in the Park Lane hotel weekly. On her way over in his car, she said to John Golden, "What will I do? What will I say? Shall I play a scene from the show?"

"Haven't you made up your mind?" he asked. "I can't think of anything."

When Mr. Golden checked his hat and coat, he got number 147 which stirred up his lethargic mental processes. He turned to the girl and asked,

"How many of these have you?"

"A few more than three hundred altogether today," she answered.

"Take some sheets of paper and tear them up into small slips and write 147 on each one. Then put them all in my hat and bring it in to me. Here's five dollars for your trouble."

After he got the props, he gave the fedora to Miss Lawrence.

"Stick this under your chair," he told her. "When you stand up, announce you have an offer to make to the members—that you are going to give away the house seats—two in the second row on the aisle—for any night next week to the lucky member who has the duplicate of the coat check you pull out of the hat."

After the master of ceremonies had introduced the star with the customary flourishes, she arose to tell the gathering that through the generosity of John Golden and herself, someone would win two seats to "Lady In The Dark." Then a kibitzer held the hat within reach while she drew a slip. She unfolded it slowly, and read the number.

"One forty-seven," she declared. "Who holds that one? Please stand up."

Everyone fished around in his pocket looking for his check. Then John Golden arose.

"I have it," he announced. At first the crowd was surprised, and next there was a mutter of disappointment that the producer of the show should be the winner.

"Can you beat that for a coincidence?" exclaimed two or three. "He gives a couple of ducats, and then gets them, himself."

"I suppose you will let her draw again," said Grantland Rice.

"Not on your life," he answered. "I won them, and I'm going to keep them."

"Of course, I couldn't let her pull out another one," added Mr. Golden the other day in telling me this tale. "And do you know to this minute Gertrude Lawrence does not know all the slips in the hat had the same number—one forty-seven."

A distinguished Republican member of Congress was giving an informal talk the other day and discussing the desire for cooperation between the President and the Senate. He claimed it was too one-sided and said it reminded him of a story of a farmer out in Minnesota who led the rough life of tillers of the soil. One cold morning as he approached the cow to milk her, she spoke up and said,

"What's the matter? You look as if you had a hard night."

"I did," answered the farmer. "Lots of trouble and no sleep. You see my wife was expecting a baby, and I got up at midnight to go for the doctor. The bridge was out and I had to take a detour and by the time I reached his office the doc was off on another call. I sat up all night waiting for him. When I got back, the pipes had all frozen up. I had to thaw them out. Then a son was finally delivered."

"I am sorry and you must be tired," declared the cow, "so I will do the best I can to co-operate. I tell you what you do. You just take hold, and I'll jump up and down."

The point seemed to be that the administrative branch expects Congress to jump up and down to cooperate.

due to 'Change of Life'

It is a real pleasure to hear from a wonderful mother such as Mrs. Mary Hardinger of 3136 Kutztown Road, Reading, Pennsylvania. And we consider it an honor to publish her experience with that amazing time-honored medicine — Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Hardinger writes: "At the age of 18 years, my mother got me a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me right away to relieve monthly distress due to functional periodic disturbances. At the same time, my mother was going through change of life and she also took the Compound. I am married and am the mother of seven children and three grandchildren. Now I am going through change of life and am taking your Pinkham's Compound to relieve nervous, restless feelings due to this functional cause."

Mrs. Mary Hardinger

Famous to Help Females Troubled This Way

Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound is famous to relieve monthly distress such as cramps, headache, backache and weak, tired, nervous, restless feelings — when due to female functional monthly complaints. It has such a soothing, comforting effect on one of woman's most important organs, working through her sympathetic nervous system to bring this welcome relief.

Regular use of Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such female distress.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound is also very effective to relieve hot flushes, nervous irritability and tension—when due to functional change of life. We defy anyone to prove there's any better medicine of this type for this purpose. No other medicine of this type has such a long record of success. Take it faithfully.

New in Style—New in Structure—New in Power—New in Thrift— Potent in Price Appeal—It's the 1951 BUICK SPECIAL!

HERE is good news for folks with a shrewd eye for what their dollars will buy.

Here is a tidy traveler that defies the upward trend of costs — proudly wears a 1951 price tag like that which zoomed last year's SPECIAL into popularity so great that it put a crimp in "the low-priced three."

Take our word for it, this is every inch and ounce a Buick — Buick-featured, Buick-designed, Buick-built from the ground up — but literally the newest thing on wheels.

The sturdy and ample body is new. The high-strength frame is new. The power is new to the SPECIAL, which now has the thrifty F-263 engine that first made its name in the SUPER, and here delivers 120 horsepower with standard transmission—128 with Dynaflow Drive.*

It's a Buick with less weight and more power—and that spells a pair of new thrills for you. There's a performance thrill such as you've never enjoyed in the SPECIAL—plus a handsome gas-saving into the bargain.

We'll make a prediction now as to what title folks will give it, once they get it out on the road. That title in three words, will be: "Thriftiest Buick Yet!"

Better hurry around to your Buick dealer's and look this marvel over. We'll give you another prediction—which is:

Once this one's discovered, the demand will be terrific.

"How many of these have you?"

"A few more than three hundred altogether today," she answered.

"Take some sheets of paper and tear them up into small slips and write 147 on each one. Then put them all in my hat and bring it in to me. Here's five dollars for your trouble."

After he got the props, he gave the fedora to Miss Lawrence.

"Stick this under your chair," he told her. "When you stand up, announce you have an offer to make to the members—that you are going to give away the house seats—two in the second row on the aisle—for any night next week to the lucky member who has the duplicate of the coat check you pull out of the hat."

After the master of ceremonies had introduced the star with the customary flourishes, she arose to tell the gathering that through the generosity of John Golden and herself, someone would win two seats to "Lady In The Dark." Then a kibitzer held the hat within reach while she drew a slip. She unfolded it slowly, and read the number.

"One forty-seven," she declared. "Who holds that one? Please stand up."

Everyone fished around in his pocket looking for his check. Then John Golden arose.

"I have it," he announced. At first the crowd was surprised, and next there was a mutter of disappointment that the producer of the show should be the winner.

"Can you beat that for a coincidence?" exclaimed two or three. "He gives a couple of ducats, and then gets them, himself."

"I suppose you will let her draw again," said Grantland Rice.

"Not on your life," he answered. "I won them, and I'm going to keep them."

"Of course, I couldn't let her pull out another one," added Mr. Golden the other day in telling me this tale. "And do you know to this minute Gertrude Lawrence does not know all the slips in the hat had the same number—one forty-seven."

A distinguished Republican member of Congress was giving an informal talk the other day and discussing the desire for cooperation between the President and the Senate. He claimed it was too one-sided and said it reminded him of a story of a farmer out in Minnesota who led the rough life of tillers of the soil. One cold morning as he approached the cow to milk her, she spoke up and said,

"What's the matter? You look as if you had a hard night."

"I did," answered the farmer. "Lots of trouble and no sleep. You see my wife was expecting a baby, and I got up at midnight to go for the doctor. The bridge was out and I had to take a detour and by the time I reached his office the doc was off on another call. I sat up all night waiting for him. When I got back, the pipes had all frozen up. I had to thaw them out. Then a son was finally delivered."

"I am sorry and you must be tired," declared the cow, "so I will do the best I can to co-operate. I tell you what you do. You just take hold, and I'll jump up and down."

The point seemed to be that the administrative branch expects Congress to jump up and down to cooperate.

It is a real pleasure to hear from a wonderful mother such as Mrs. Mary Hardinger of 3136 Kutztown Road, Reading, Pennsylvania. And we consider it an honor to publish her experience with that amazing time-honored medicine — Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Hardinger writes: "At the age of 18 years, my mother got me a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me right away to relieve monthly distress due to functional periodic disturbances. At the same time, my mother was going through change of life and she also took the Compound. I am married and am the mother of seven children and three grandchildren. Now I am going through change of life and am taking your Pinkham's Compound to relieve nervous, restless feelings due to this functional cause."

Mrs. Mary Hardinger

Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound is famous to relieve monthly distress such as cramps, headache, backache and weak, tired, nervous, restless feelings — when due to female functional monthly complaints. It has such a soothing, comforting effect on one of woman's most important organs, working through her sympathetic nervous system to bring this welcome relief.

Regular use of Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such female distress.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound is also very effective to relieve hot flushes, nervous irritability and tension—when due to functional change of life. HERE is good news for folks with a shrewd eye for what their dollars will buy.

Here is a tidy traveler that defies the upward trend of costs—proudly wears a 1951 price tag like that which zoomed last year's SPECIAL into popularity so great that it put a crimp in "the low-priced three."

Take our word for it, this is every inch and ounce a Buick—Buick-featured, Buick-designed, Buick-built from the ground up—but literally the newest thing on wheels.

The sturdy and ample body is new. The high-strength frame is new. The power is new to the SPECIAL, which now has the thrifty F-263 engine that first made its name in the SUPER, and here delivers 120 horsepower with standard transmission—128 with Dynaflow Drive.*

Woody Hayes Is Appointed Ohio State Football Coach

Miami University's Mentor To Succeed Wesley E. Fesler

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18 (AP) — Wayne Woodrow (Woody) Hayes, 38-year-old Miami (Ohio) University football mentor, tonight was named Ohio State University's football coach, succeeding Wesley E. Fesler, who resigned Dec. 9.

The appointment was approved unanimously by the board of trustees after Hayes had been recommended by a screening committee, the athletic board, athletic director Richard C. Larkins, and university president Howard L. Bevis.

The appointment was approved in a meeting lasting about an hour and a half.

Gets $12,500 Contract

Hayes was given a one-year contract at a salary of $12,500, with the general understanding that it would be a continuing contract. Hayes also was appointed a full professor in physical education and will be permitted to name his own staff of assistants.

The contract is effective March 1.

Hayes was 38 years old last Wednesday.

He was graduated by Denison University in 1935. He received his master's degree from Ohio State in 1948.

Hayes' first coaching job was at Mingo Junction, Ohio, in 1935-36, as assistant to John Muth. The next year he moved to New Philadelphia, Ohio as assistant to Johnny Brickles, current athletic director and basketball coach at Miami.

Saw Service In Pacific

Hayes took over as head coach at New Philly in 1938 when Brickles moved to Huntington, W. Va., and had two outstanding seasons—winning 17, losing two and tying one before a disastrous won 1-lost 9 campaign in 1940-41.

He enlisted in the Navy in July, 1941, as a chief specialist in Gene Tunney's physical education branch. He came out in 1946 as a lieutenant commander, having commanded the PC 1251 in the Palau Islands invasion and the destroyer escort Rinehart in both Atlantic and Pacific operations.

Denison University, which had discontinued football during the war, called in Hayes as head coach in 1946—and he failed to win until the final game. That started him on a 19-game winning streak, however, carrying him through his first game at Miami U., to which he shifted in 1949.

Won In Salad Bowl

He won five of nine his first year with the Redskins, and came back last fall with nine wins in 10 starts, including one over Arizona State in the Salad Bowl. His overall record as a head coach is 51 victories, 23 losses and one tie.

Breakage Bill Alarms
Manigault Is Stopped
Record Fight Crowd
Score One For Homer

By C. V. BURNS

There's a legislative bill now before the Maryland House of Delegates which would deprive the state race tracks of their breakage and officials of the various racing associations have expressed alarm over it.

Breakage is now shared by the state and the race tracks, and from the mile tracks alone, the breakage runs about a million bucks a year. The breakage is best described as odd pennies computed in making payoffs on winning bets.

Since, under Maryland laws, the tracks break on a dime, $2 bets are paid off at 20-cent intervals. In other words, winning bets pay on the even dollar ($3) or at 20-cent jumps ($3.20, $3.40, $3.60, $3.80 and $4.00).

If track calculators determine that a winning bet is actually worth $3.39, the nearest payoff would be $3.20—19 cents going into the breakage to be shared by the track and the state.

Musial Signs, Salary May Be NL's Highest

Outfielder Is 31st Card To Ink Contract

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18 (AP) — Stan Musial signed his 1951 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals today for a salary which club owner Fred Saigh said "probably is higher than that paid any other player in either league."

But Musial didn't agree it was that high.

He said later that he thought Saigh meant "I'm probably the highest paid player in the National League."

Neither Saigh nor Musial would say what the amount is.

While in Germany recently Musial was quoted as saying he wanted

STAN MUSIAL

$100,000 for 1951, but in view of Saigh's statement he might be getting more than that.

Saigh explained he used the word "probably" because he didn't know the exact amount given Williams. The Red Sox slugger reportedly got $125,000 last year and signed for the same figure this year.

Saigh added he was certain Musial was getting more than ever paid in the National League before.

And Saigh said Musial definitely would get more than any other player has received in baseball's history at his age—30.

The signing climaxed a two-hour meeting between the National League batting king and the Cardinal president. Saigh then left for Washington.

"I'm the happiest guy in the world," Musial said after the signing.

When Musial was asked if his 1951 salary figure approached that of Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees and Ted Williams he replied:

"No. What I think Mr. Saigh meant was that I'm probably the highest paid player in the National League. But all that matters now is that I'm completely satisfied how things turned out, and I'm set to start training."

The outfielder is the 31st Cardinal to sign this year. Eight—including four pitchers and Red Schoendienst—are unsigned.

Stan led the league with a .346 mark at the plate last season. It was the lowest average of his four winning years. He hit .376 in 1948. He won his first title in 1943 with a .357 average.

Edward J. Wegman, State Department of Employment Security, was reappointed chairman of the Mountain District Junior Baseball League at an American Legion meeting held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 in the legion home of the Barton post.

Representatives from twelve of the district's fifteen posts were represented at the meeting and the following teams will enter competition this season: Westernport, Midland, Barton, Lonaconing, Frostburg, Cumberland and possibly Grantsville. A total of eight teams will probably play this year.

No date has been set for the opening game. Wegman will get complete listing of teams to enter as well as other information and forward tenative competitors to Robert Koch, state department chairman.

Membership was also discussed at the district meeting yesterday and plans are being made to have an open meeting in Frostburg on April 8 at which time prominent speakers will talk on various phases of the legion's work in Child Welfare.

Running up a 30-9 score at halftime and outpointing the visitors 45 to 36 in the last two periods, the Cumberland Spas easily defeated the Beaver Falls (Pa.) Tommies in an All-American Basketball League game last night on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 75-45.

The Pennsylvanians gave a poor exhibition of shooting, especially in the first half when they scored only three field goals in 42 shots. The quarter scores were 12-7, 30-9 and 52-33.

Ed "Whitey" Mathewson was the Spas' top scorer with 18 points on five field goals and 8-8 fouls. Jack Murphy took runner-up honors with 15 markers while George Geatz collected 13. Several of Geatz's heaves were sensational one-handers that hit the target.

Bob Pence, usually a front runner in scoring for the Spas, had an off night. In fact, he ran into the toughest shooting luck of the season, making only one basket in 11 tries and that shot was in the air as the final whistle sounded.

Lou Veltri, Don McComb and Hardy Barrett were the chief point makers for the Tommies with 13, 11 and 10 points.

The victory enabled the Spas to tighten their grip on third place in the league with a 10-10 record. It also gave Coach Bill Keegan's quint an even break in four games with the Keystone Staters.

Five Players Took Bribes To Throw Basketball Games, Got As High As $1,500 Each

Cagers Are From NYU, CCNY And Long Island; Gambler Inspired Fixes

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—A new college basketball scandal broke today, involving three more colleges in New York City in charges that players had "fixed" games.

The latest scandal exploded within a month since the Manhattan College "fix" expose.

The earlier case led to five arrests on conspiracy and bribery charges.

In the new case, players at City College of New York, and New York University, and a former player at Long Island University, were involved along with a jewelry manufacturer.

Received $1,500 Each

Games played this season were involved in the new charges, including City College games with Missouri, Arizona and Boston College.

In all of these games the New York team lost.

District Attorney Frank Hogan said the players received as high as $1,500 apiece for throwing games.

He said they also got "good will bonuses" on games that were not fixed.

The district attorney said the players told him they had not agreed to lose, but had agreed to see that the "spread" or margin of victory would not be more than three points.

Hogan said the players were Ed Warner, star negro forward on the City College team; Ed Roman, City's center; City guard Al Roth; Harvey Connie Schaff of NYU, and Edward Gard, who played for LIU last year.

The sixth man was identified as Salvatore Tarto Sollazo, 45. Hogan said he had a police record.

Hogan said he also planned to hold a seventh man, Robert Sabatini, 60, as a material witness.

He described Sabatini as "a person who has had gambling contacts with Sollazo."

The district attorney said Sollazo and Gard would be charged in one complaint with giving a bribe.

The city college players, Hogan said, would be charged with receiving bribes, and Schaff would be charged with "offering to bribe."

CCNY Players Nabbed

The newest college basketball scandal broke after the three City College players were taken into custody at Pennsylvania Station early today.

They had just returned from Philadelphia, where the City team defeated Temple 95 to 71.

Hogan told this story of events leading up to the arrests:

Sollazo met Gard at a summer hotel in the mountains, entertained the former LIU player and through him met players of other teams who were playing at mountain resort hotels.

At the start of the present school year, Sollazo invited Gard to his Manhattan home and suggested that Gard approach other basketball players and try to induce them to fix games.

Gard agreed to sound out some of the players.

The first he approached was Roth of City College, whom he had known since high school.

Gard also spoke to Roman, and the two City College players agreed to meet Sollazo at his home after a game at Madison Square Garden in December.

Warner Goes Along

Sollazo told Roth and Roman they could make a lot of money, that he would bet substantially and cut them in on a sure thing.

Roth and Roman told Sollazo they would let him know.

"They were worried about War-

Chuck Klein Cops Tourney

Collects $2,000 Prize With 269 For 72 Holes

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—Golf glory in gobs came today to plodding Charles (Chuck) Klein of San Antonio, who won the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open—his first major triumph in a decade and a half of trying.

The stocky, loquacious Texan, who prayed at church this morning then went out and shot a four-under-par 67 to give him 269 for 72 holes, collected $2,000 and a lot of personal satisfaction.

His putter smoked as he grimly battled the barren, wicked, rutted fairways of the 6,095-yard Harlingen Municipal Course. He rammed down a 12-footer on the eighteenth green for a birdie then grinned at the crowd of 4,000 jammed about him.

Marty Furgol of Long Beach, Calif., the fellow who needed to win so badly, took a par 71 to close out in second place. Furgol was the leader as the final round started today with an even 200 for 54 holes.

The California pro won $1,400.

Al Brosch, the red-haired wisecracker from Garden City, N. Y., finished with a 68 to take third money of $1,000. He had a 72-hole score of 272.

Tied for fourth were Glenn Teal of Jacksonville, Fla., John Palmer of Baden, N. C., and Max Evans of Detroit, each with 273. The trio took $700 each. Teal and Palmer had 68's while Evans shot a 70.

Three P.V.C. Games Scheduled Tonight

Three Potomac Valley Conference basketball games are on tap for tonight.

Elk Garden plays at Capon Bridge, Romney's Pioneers test the Davis High Wildcats on the Tucker Countians' floor and West Virginia School for the Deaf plays host to Coach Robert B. Harper's Franklin High cagers from Pendleton County.

Woody Hayes Is Appointed Ohio State Football Coach

Miami University's Mentor To Succeed Wesley E. Fesler

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18 (AP) — Wayne Woodrow (Woody) Hayes, 38-year-old Miami (Ohio) University football mentor, tonight was named Ohio State University's football coach, succeeding Wesley E. Fesler, who resigned Dec. 9.

The appointment was approved unanimously by the board of trustees after Hayes had been recommended by a screening committee, the athletic board, athletic director Richard C. Larkins, and university president Howard L. Bevis.

The appointment was approved in a meeting lasting about an hour and a half.

Gets $12,500 Contract

Hayes was given a one-year contract at a salary of $12,500, with the general understanding that it would be a continuing contract. Hayes also was appointed a full professor in physical education and will be permitted to name his own staff of assistants.

The contract is effective March 1.

Hayes was 38 years old last Wednesday.

He was graduated by Denison University in 1935. He received his master's degree from Ohio State in 1948.

Hayes' first coaching job was at Mingo Junction, Ohio, in 1935-36, as assistant to John Muth. The next year he moved to New Philadelphia, Ohio as assistant to Johnny Brickles, current athletic director and basketball coach at Miami.

Saw Service In Pacific

Hayes took over as head coach at New Philly in 1938 when Brickles moved to Huntington, W. Va., and had two outstanding seasons—winning 17, losing two and tying one before a disastrous won 1-lost 9 campaign in 1940-41.

He enlisted in the Navy in July, 1941, as a chief specialist in Gene Tunney's physical education branch. He came out in 1946 as a lieutenant commander, having commanded the PC 1251 in the Palau Islands invasion and the destroyer escort Rinehart in both Atlantic and Pacific operations.

Denison University, which had discontinued football during the war, called in Hayes as head coach in 1946—and he failed to win until the final game. That started him on a 19-game winning streak, however, carrying him through his first game at Miami U., to which he shifted in 1949.

Won In Salad Bowl

He won five of nine his first year with the Redskins, and came back last fall with nine wins in 10 starts, including one over Arizona State in the Salad Bowl. His overall record as a head coach is 51 victories, 23 losses and one tie.

Ellerslie Uncertain, Poisal Is Re-Elected

Mt. Savage, formerly of the Bi-State Baseball League, was admitted to the Pen-Mar League at a meeting yesterday at the Frostburg American Legion Home.

The vote was 6-0 in favor of admitting Mt. Savage to the league. Mt. Savage replaces Flintstone which lost its franchise after forfeiting three games last season.

Charles Poisal, LaVale, was re-elected president; Stephen Cesnick, Klondyke, was named vice president, and Kenneth Robertson, Barrelville, was named acting secretary until a successor is named. Robertson was not a candidate for re-election.

Breakage Bill Alarms
Manigault Is Stopped
Record Fight Crowd
Score One For Homer

By C. V. BURNS

There's a legislative bill now before the Maryland House of Delegates which would deprive the state race tracks of their breakage and officials of the various racing associations have expressed alarm over it.

Breakage is now shared by the state and the race tracks, and from the mile tracks alone, the breakage runs about a million bucks a year. The breakage is best described as odd pennies computed in making payoffs on winning bets.

Since, under Maryland laws, the tracks break on a dime, $2 bets are paid off at 20-cent intervals. In other words, winning bets pay on the even dollar ($3) or at 20-cent jumps ($3.20, $3.40, $3.60, $3.80 and $4.00).

If track calculators determine that a winning bet is actually worth $3.39, the nearest payoff would be $3.20—19 cents going into the breakage to be shared by the track and the state.

Musial Signs, Salary May Be NL's Highest

Outfielder Is 31st Card To Ink Contract

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18 (AP) — Stan Musial signed his 1951 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals today for a salary which club owner Fred Saigh said "probably is higher than that paid any other player in either league."

But Musial didn't agree it was that high.

He said later that he thought Saigh meant "I'm probably the highest paid player in the National League."

Neither Saigh nor Musial would say what the amount is.

While in Germany recently Musial was quoted as saying he wanted

STAN MUSIAL

$100,000 for 1951, but in view of Saigh's statement he might be getting more than that.

Saigh explained he used the word "probably" because he didn't know the exact amount given Williams. The Red Sox slugger reportedly got $125,000 last year and signed for the same figure this year.

Saigh added he was certain Musial was getting more than ever paid in the National League before.

And Saigh said Musial definitely would get more than any other player has received in baseball's history at his age—30.

The signing climaxed a two-hour meeting between the National League batting king and the Cardinal president. Saigh then left for Washington.

"I'm the happiest guy in the world," Musial said after the signing.

When Musial was asked if his 1951 salary figure approached that of Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees and Ted Williams he replied:

"No. What I think Mr. Saigh meant was that I'm probably the highest paid player in the National League. But all that matters now is that I'm completely satisfied how things turned out, and I'm set to start training."

The outfielder is the 31st Cardinal to sign this year. Eight—including four pitchers and Red Schoendienst—are unsigned.

Stan led the league with a .346 mark at the plate last season. It was the lowest average of his four winning years. He hit .376 in 1948. He won his first title in 1943 with a .357 average.

Running up a 30-9 score at halftime and outpointing the visitors 45 to 36 in the last two periods, the Cumberland Spas easily defeated the Beaver Falls (Pa.) Tommies in an All-American Basketball League game last night on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 75-45.

The Pennsylvanians gave a poor exhibition of shooting, especially in the first half when they scored only three field goals in 42 shots. The quarter scores were 12-7, 30-9 and 52-33.

Ed "Whitey" Mathewson was the Spas' top scorer with 18 points on five field goals and 8-8 fouls. Jack Murphy took runner-up honors with 15 markers while George Geatz collected 13. Several of Geatz's heaves were sensational one-handers that hit the target.

Bob Pence, usually a front runner in scoring for the Spas, had an off night. In fact, he ran into the toughest shooting luck of the season, making only one basket in 11 tries and that shot was in the air as the final whistle sounded.

Lou Veltri, Don McComb and Hardy Barrett were the chief point makers for the Tommies with 13, 11 and 10 points.

The victory enabled the Spas to tighten their grip on third place in the league with a 10-10 record. It also gave Coach Bill Keegan's quint an even break in four games with the Keystone Staters.

Five Players Took Bribes To Throw Basketball Games, Got As High As $1,500 Each

Cagers Are From NYU, CCNY And Long Island; Gambler Inspired Fixes

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—A new college basketball scandal broke today, involving three more colleges in New York City in charges that players had "fixed" games.

The latest scandal exploded within a month since the Manhattan College "fix" expose.

The earlier case led to five arrests on conspiracy and bribery charges.

In the new case, players at City College of New York, and New York University, and a former player at Long Island University, were involved along with a jewelry manufacturer.

The latter was charged with being the gambler who inspired the fixes.

Received $1,500 Each

Games played this season were involved in the new charges, including City College games with Missouri, Arizona and Boston College.

In all of these games the New York team lost.

District Attorney Frank Hogan said the players received as high as $1,500 apiece for throwing games.

He said they also got "good will bonuses" on games that were not fixed.

The district attorney said the players told him they had not agreed to lose, but had agreed to see that the "spread" or margin of victory would not be more than three points.

Hogan said the players were Ed Warner, star negro forward on the City College team; Ed Roman, City's center; City guard Al Roth; Harvey Connie Schaff of NYU, and Edward Gard, who played for LIU last year.

The sixth man was identified as Salvatore Tarto Sollazo, 45. Hogan said he had a police record.

Hogan said he also planned to hold a seventh man, Robert Sabatini, 60, as a material witness.

He described Sabatini as "a person who has had gambling contacts with Sollazo."

The district attorney said Sollazo and Gard would be charged in one complaint with giving a bribe.

The city college players, Hogan said, would be charged with receiving bribes, and Schaff would be charged with "offering to bribe."

CCNY Players Nabbed

The newest college basketball scandal broke after the three City College players were taken into custody at Pennsylvania Station early today.

They had just returned from Philadelphia, where the City team defeated Temple 95 to 71.

Hogan told this story of events leading up to the arrests:

Sollazo met Gard at a summer hotel in the mountains, entertained the former LIU player and through him met players of other teams who were playing at mountain resort hotels.

At the start of the present school year, Sollazo invited Gard to his Manhattan home and suggested that Gard approach other basketball players and try to induce them to fix games.

Gard agreed to sound out some of the players.

The first he approached was Roth of City College, whom he had known since high school.

Gard also spoke to Roman, and the two City College players agreed to meet Sollazo at his home after a game at Madison Square Garden in December.

Warner Goes Along

Sollazo told Roth and Roman they could make a lot of money, that he would bet substantially and cut them in on a sure thing.

Roth and Roman told Sollazo they would let him know.

"They were worried about War-

Chuck Klein Cops Tourney

Collects $2,000 Prize With 269 For 72 Holes

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—Golf glory in gobs came today to plodding Charles (Chuck) Klein of San Antonio, who won the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open—his first major triumph in a decade and a half of trying.

The stocky, loquacious Texan, who prayed at church this morning then went out and shot a four-under-par 67 to give him 269 for 72 holes, collected $2,000 and a lot of personal satisfaction.

His putter smoked as he grimly battled the barren, wicked, rutted fairways of the 6,095-yard Harlingen Municipal Course. He rammed down a 12-footer on the eighteenth green for a birdie then grinned at the crowd of 4,000 jammed about him.

Marty Furgol of Long Beach, Calif., the fellow who needed to win so badly, took a par 71 to close out in second place. Furgol was the leader as the final round started today with an even 200 for 54 holes.

The California pro won $1,400.

Al Brosch, the red-haired wisecracker from Garden City, N. Y., finished with a 68 to take third money of $1,000. He had a 72-hole score of 272.

Tied for fourth were Glenn Teal of Jacksonville, Fla., John Palmer of Baden, N. C., and Max Evans of Detroit, each with 273. The trio took $700 each. Teal and Palmer had 68's while Evans shot a 70.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18 (INS)—If Frankie Sinatra is singing he's got a rainbow 'round his shoulder today—he's not kidding. Universal-International has just signed Frankie boy to star in "Meet Danny Wilson," an original, and what's more they have a three-year option on him.

Frank Sinatra

Those crepe-hangers who said Frank was through in pictures may now cheerfully choke on their words. It's true he left Hollywood under a cloud of troubles with Nancy and his front page romancing with Ava Gardner.

But those dark times seem past and done with. He's reached an understanding with Nancy about the children and just today he brought the children who had visited him in New York back to California.

Leonard Goldstein produces the Sinatra musical at U-I with a starting date of June 12. This—plus his $1,000,000 worth of TV and radio contracts—puts Mr. S. in clover again.

How would you like to see Farley Granger and Shelley Winters in a movie together? Well, it's ninety-nine per cent set for the two love birds to co-star in "Behave Yourself," for Wald and Krasna.

Farley has finally put his signature to that five-year contract for Sam Goldwyn. With the singing, he gets permission to do a comedy, and to go anywhere, Europe or elsewhere, during the 12 weeks his contract gives him to himself.

The comedy for Wald and Krasna comes first, and after that Farley has agreed to star in "I Want My Man" for his boss. Goldwyn came in from Palm Springs tonight to settle the deal, and unless he has a last minute change of heart, Farley goes to RKO.

Apparently Kay and Broderick Crawford are going through with their separate maintenance plan. Brod is terribly hurt over the charges Kay made. Although he won't even discuss it with his closest friend, he has consulted Greg Bautzer and the hearing has been set for next Wednesday.

I still wish that whatever brought about the trouble could be settled. It seems so sad, with a baby on the way, that the parting should come right now. But Brod doesn't easily change his mind.

These two, however, are in love and that's the only thing that counts, so I am still hoping they will get together even though it does look pretty desperate.

You can count on a reconciliation in the case of the Jeff Chandlers. Mrs. Chandler is back from New York, and she'll find a very penitent husband.

When a guy says "I'm sorry, dear"—what more can he say?—if you'll pardon my quoting the old tune.

Even being nominated by the Academy as the best supporting actor of the year isn't enough to make Jeff smile. He wants his wife and children back. He knows he made a mistake and he's sorry, and he's a big enough person to say so. Jeff isn't the first to have made a mistake.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

John Wayne flies to Mexico City tomorrow to see his ailing wife, who is in a sanitorium there. John will consult with her doctors to see if an operation is necessary.

Clifton Webb, who was seriously ill with pneumonia, has gone to Phoenix, Arizona, to recuperate.

Barbara Payton, with her hair dyed back to brunette, flew to New York Saturday night to see Franchot Tone.

Speaking of Arline Judge, according to New York gossip, she has picked a dentist as her seventh bridegroom.

Betty Hutton is homesick and wants to come home from Florida for her birthday, the 27th of this month. She and Fete Rugolo are keeping the telephone busy

May 10 is the wedding date, and Nancy, France, the place for the wedding of Prince Otto or Hapsburg and Princess Regina of Saxony-Meininger.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

MOOREFIELD HIGH'S PVC CHAMPIONS — Coach Jonathan (Jonnie) Paugh's Moorefield High School Yellow Jackets are the 1950-51 champions of the Potomac Valley Conference as well as one of the top teams in the tri-state area this season. The Jackets concluded their regular schedule Friday night with a 20-1 record. They won the last 18 games on their schedule and were undefeated in 17 contests in the P.V.C. George Fisher is the team's top scorer and he's out in front in the PVC scoring race in which he topped 'em all last season. The Jackets will vie in the Section 15 tourney which opens Thursday in Moorefield. The Hardy County school won the West Virginia Class "B" basketball crown two seasons ago. The squad above, left to right: FRONT ROW—Kenny Vance, Eugene Baldwin, George Fisher, Merle Barr, Gordon Raines, Charles Kern, Jimmy Peters, Gene Whetzel and Loring Vance. SECOND ROW—Coach Paugh, Dick Welton, Lyle Weatherholtz, Randall Raines, Harlan Hott, Robert Myers, Charles Vance and Jimmy Hambleton. THIRD ROW—Denny Hiett, Carl Hardy, Donnie Thomas, Jimmy McNeill, Russell Bensenhaver, Dick Hawse, Marion Deahl and Raymond Sindy, assistant coach. FOURTH ROW—Forrest Wolfe, manager; Raymond Hincs, Loring Barr, Frank Sherman, Lemak Sager, Richard Evans and Donald Simmons, manager.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18 (INS)—If Frankie Sinatra is singing he's got a rainbow 'round his shoulder today—he's not kidding. Universal-International has just signed Frankie boy to star in "Meet Danny Wilson," an original, and what's more they have a three-year option on him.

Frank Sinatra

Those crepe-hangers who said Frank was through in pictures may now cheerfully choke on their words. It's true he left Hollywood under a cloud of troubles with Nancy and his front page romancing with Ava Gardner.

But those dark times seem past and done with. He's reached an understanding with Nancy about the children and just today he brought the children who had visited him in New York back to California.

Leonard Goldstein produces the Sinatra musical at U-I with a starting date of June 12. This—plus his $1,000,000 worth of TV and radio contracts—puts Mr. S. in clover again.

How would you like to see Farley Granger and Shelley Winters in a movie together? Well, it's ninety-nine per cent set for the two love birds to co-star in "Behave Yourself," for Wald and Krasna.

Farley has finally put his signature to that five-year contract for Sam Goldwyn. With the singing, he gets permission to do a comedy, and to go anywhere, Europe or elsewhere, during the 12 weeks his contract gives him to himself.

The comedy for Wald and Krasna comes first, and after that Farley has agreed to star in "I Want My Man" for his boss. Goldwyn came in from Palm Springs tonight to settle the deal, and unless he has a last minute change of heart, Farley goes to RKO.

Apparently Kay and Broderick Crawford are going through with their separate maintenance plan. Brod is terribly hurt over the charges Kay made. Although he won't even discuss it with his closest friend, he has consulted Greg Bautzer and the hearing has been set for next Wednesday.

I still wish that whatever brought about the trouble could be settled. It seems so sad, with a baby on the way, that the parting should come right now. But Brod doesn't easily change his mind.

These two, however, are in love and that's the only thing that counts, so I am still hoping they will get together even though it does look pretty desperate.

You can count on a reconciliation in the case of the Jeff Chandlers. Mrs. Chandler is back from New York, and she'll find a very penitent husband.

When a guy says "I'm sorry, dear"—what more can he say?—if you'll pardon my quoting the old tune.

Even being nominated by the Academy as the best supporting actor of the year isn't enough to make Jeff smile. He wants his wife and children back. He knows he made a mistake and he's sorry, and he's a big enough person to say so. Jeff isn't the first to have made a mistake.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

John Wayne flies to Mexico City tomorrow to see his ailing wife, who is in a sanitorium there. John will consult with her doctors to see if an operation is necessary.

Clifton Webb, who was seriously ill with pneumonia, has gone to Phoenix, Arizona, to recuperate.

Barbara Payton, with her hair dyed back to brunette, flew to New York Saturday night to see Franchot Tone.

Speaking of Arline Judge, according to New York gossip, she has picked a dentist as her seventh bridegroom.

Betty Hutton is homesick and wants to come home from Florida for her birthday, the 27th of this month. She and Pete Rugolo are keeping the telephone busy

May 10 is the wedding date, and Nancy, France, the place for the wedding of Prince Otto or Hapsburg and Princess Regina of Saxony-Meininger.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Of the ten players on the Kentucky U. freshman basketball team, seven call Kentucky their home state.

Let's Not Have Any Loose Thinking Around Here

ED and Pegeen Fitzgerald, married folk who breakfast together in front of a microphone and twitter gently about a vast range of consumer products, were engaged in this delightfully remunerative pastime the other day when they unconsciously summed up the spirit of so much of talk on the air.

Said Ed: "You're not answering questions this morning."

Said Pegeen: "No, darling, I was just thinking."

Said Ed: "Oh, but this is no time to think. We gotta keep going."

• — • — •

He's quite right, of course. Man shouldn't go around doing a lot of deep thinking in the presence of a live mike. The thoughts might be carried far and wide, unsettling the citizenry. That would never do, especially at breakfast, when a fellow is trying to digest the comic strips. A good many recent examples of pure unthinking radio dialogue have been perpetrated recently. My own favorite is a spot announcement which goes:

"Hi, fellas! Is your radio working. If it isn't, call your favorite radio repairman or you won't be able to hear my program tonight." As a matter of fact, my radio wasn't working at the time but I got the message all right on the braces of my teeth which bring in everything but the most distant FM stations.

Then there was a small, startling exchange between Mrs. Sherman Hoyt, the extraordinarily refined lady who helps out with the announcing of the Westminster Kennel Club show at Madison Square Garden, and the regular professional announcer, Win Elliot.

Mrs. Hoyt: "Well, you know it's the old socialistic spirit of this country. Any dog can win."

Mr. Elliot: "Yes, that's the American tradition all right."

It may be the American tradition, this socialism, but is it the tradition of dogdom, especially Westminster Kennel Club dogdom, a snooty bunch? Around Westminster circles, breeding is everything; the caste system is more firmly imbedded than on the North Shore of Long Island; and the pooches look down their noses at the Fair Deal with even more disdain than a Republican because they have more nose to look down.

• — • — •

In the matter of utterances on the air, there are moments when a person forgets not to think and blurts out something for which he is later very sorry. Not long ago, Florence Pritchett on "Leave It To The Girls," unburdened herself, to wit: "When a girl looks in the closet, it's not what dress shall I wear but how much skin shall I show and who is going to be there to look at it." Remarks like that in which there resides a germ of truth are likely to be construed rather than, as is the custom, misconstrued. People will get to thinking about the vast contribution ordinary skin has made to the development of electronics and thoughts like that better not get abroad. That way lies revolution.

While we're on the subject of utterances, I'd like to glance briefly over one of the most celebrated of all time, Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address," which was delivered on the Ed Sullivan program by, of all people, Judith Anderson. There is no more surcharged actress around than Miss Anderson and she gave it her all. Still, the Gettysburg Address was generally considered man's work and it just goes to show how far the girls have taken over television and, as it were, feminized it. I shouldn't be at all surprised any day now to hear Miss Faye Emerson, tights and all, declaiming Hamlet's "To be or not to be" soliloquy.

• — • — •

Well, just one more, then—this an offstage job. A TV director had instructed the cast on what each actor was intended to portray, his emotional attitude and one thing and another, when the sound effects man asked what he was supposed to do.

"You just have to roar like a tiger," he was told.

"Roar like a tiger?" said the sound effects man. "Yes, but what is the tiger thinking?"

A thorough craftsman, that sound effects man. Ibsen would have heartily approved.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E H L ZW R I Y M O Y M D L C R K T I E B B Q, D T E F H R Y B D T E C T — B F Z Y F.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Approximately 55,000 thunderstorms occur on the earth each day, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The word "derrick," meaning a hoisting apparatus, originated in the Elizabethan days, and was named for a hangman called Deric.

In Memoriam

ROBINSON, Sr.—In memory of my dear husband and beloved father, Vance G. Robinson, Sr., who passed away February 19 1950.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
Oh, God grant you Eternal Rest.

Loving wife and son.

In Memoriam

ROBINSON, Sr.—In memory of my dear husband and beloved father, Vance G. Robinson, Sr., who passed away February 19, 1950.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
Oh, God grant you Eternal Rest.
Loving wife and son.

Central Answers Two Sunday Calls

At 1.04 p. m. the firemen extinguished a fire at the home of John L. Helker, 621 N. Mechanic Street. The blaze which did slight damage was caused by an overheated furnace which ignited the subflooring.

A discarded hot patch caused a fire among some rubbish in a metal storage shed at a service station at the corner of South Centre and Harrison Streets. Damage was slight and the firemen answered the call at 5:51 yesterday evening.

Matter Of Fact

Vicious Circle Starts

In this way, bank credit has expanded about 20 per cent in seven months—as much as in any seven previous peace-time years. And while the government has been taking in more cash than it has been spending, the total money supply has increased by eight per cent. Thus there is more and more credit and more money in circulation, while, with rearmament just getting into high gear, there are beginning to be fewer things to buy. Thus the value of the dollar falls, and as is falls, the effort of the government to maintain the price of government bonds becomes more difficult, and a vicious circle is set in motion.

Eccles proposes certain rather simple ways of breaking the vicious circle. No man in his senses, least of all Eccles, suggests that government bonds be simply abandoned to the vagaries of the free market. Instead, what is proposed is a carefully controlled and moderate drop in government bond prices, so that the rush to cash in bonds will stop, because the cash will be less attractive, and the interest rate more so. Eccles also proposes a slightly higher interest rate—about 3 per cent—on most government bonds.

The mere fact that the government has already lost to the money inflation some two billion out of every ten billion defense dollars appropriated is enough to demonstrate how false the Treasury's brand of economy is. Quite aside from the effects of inflation on the whole economy, this loss alone cancels out several times over what might be saved through cheaper financing of the public debt. Fortunately, the Federal Reserve Board has the legal right to do most of what Eccles wants, and a majority of the open market committee of the Board, which must make the final decisions, is now probably behind Eccles. Thus the chances are that an issue which deeply affects both the security of the United States and every American's pocketbook will probably at last be settled, before the entire economy gets out of hand.

World Government Idea To Be Defended

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP) — Advocates of a federal government for the world will defend Maryland's position on the matter against renewed attack in the Legislature Tuesday.

Chairman Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd) of the House Judiciary Committee expects an overflow crowd in the House chamber for debate on a resolution asserting Maryland should never have endorsed the idea of world federation.

Spokesmen for veterans, church and civic organizations, professional men and women and legislators have asked for a chance to speak.

Dempsey plans a three-hour forum before his committee on whether Maryland should repudiate its twice-expressed stand generally portraying a "commonwealth of nations" as the ideal kind of world.

Championing that position are the United World Federalists of Maryland.

Picket Lines Will Be Strengthened By TWUA

BOSTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The CIO prepared tonight to strengthen picket lines at all mills affected by a strike of 70,000 wool and worsted workers.

A spokesman for the Textile Workers Union of America said big lines will be thrown around mills in New England and in other eastern and southern states.

The strike was launched Friday after a breakdown of negotiations between the union and the American Woolen Company, which sets the wage pattern for the industry.

To Observe Smile Week

National Smile Week will be observed this year from February 26 through March 3. Joe E. Brown, popular Hollywood comedian, has written to Mayor Thomas S. Post suggesting he proclaim such a week and has also sent some ideas for the wording of a proclamation.

could reflect over the profound meaning which these events held for mankind. Now they knew that these had been no chance happenings, and if ever there was a strong conviction in the minds of those who lived in the apostolic age, it was now the conviction that truly God, in Christ, was reconciling the world unto Himself. It was such a conviction which formed a basis for the comprehension of the great magnitude of divine love for man.

This is the central message of this season for us and we must become aware of it as never before. We must know that if the cross is anything to us, it is the profound expression of God's love for us. Such a love "constrains us" and incites us to a life of obedience and conformity to the will of God.

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" If so, yours is this great assurance of love. If not, let me invite you at this season to go back and stand with those who "were there," that you may share their experiences and join with them in proclaiming:

"Hereby know we love, because he laid down his life for us."

Scandal Robs CCNY And NYU Of Chance To Get In Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — CCNY and New York University won't be considered for post-season basketball tournaments as a result of the latest gambling scandal, it was learned today.

A high source in college athletics said the two teams doubtless would be passed over by selection committees of the National Invitation and NCAA tournaments.

City College, despite its mediocre 11-7 record, was regarded as a good bet for the Invitation simply because of its surprising sweep of the two big tournaments last year.

NYU has a 9-3 record and is listed among the 30 teams now being considered for the Invitation, opening at Madison Square Garden March 10.

The same source said Manhattan and Long Island University would not be similarly affected although they also have figured in scandals this year.

Gehrmann And Wilt Will Run In Special

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — Asa Bushnell, director of the IC4A meet, announced today that Don Gehrmann and Fred Wilt will compete in a special mile race next Saturday night in the IC4A Games at Madison Square Garden.

Besides Gehrmann and Wilt, three other milers, to be named later, will compete. Gehrman announced his acceptance by telephone from Milwaukee.

Gehrmann has piled up 38 straight mile victories including six this year and five straight over Wilt.

Argentine Pro Wins Mexico Golf Tourney

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18 (AP) — Roberto De Vicenzo, Argentine professional, won Mexico's Open Golf Tournament today with a score of 275 for the 72 holes.

De Vicenzo took only 68 strokes, four under par, on today's final 18 holes, to win first prize money of $1,785.

Second prize of $1,190 went to Al Besselink of Mt. Clemens, Mich., who shot a 69 to finish with a score of 281.

Vic Ghezzi of Long Island, N. Y., was third with a final round of 71 for a total of 282.

Dark Wins Trophy

Dark carded a six-over-par 76 while Hearn turned in a 77 over the 18-hole Miami Springs Country Club Course.

Three Games At "Y"

Three games are scheduled for tonight in the Central YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League as follows: 7 p. m., Legion vs. Sport Shoppe. 8 p.m., Elks vs. Independents. 9 p.m., 40 and 8 vs. Local 26.

ner," Hogan said, "because he was a key man and if they didn't pass the ball to him he would go to Holman (Nat Holman, the City College coach)."

Later, Roth and Roman spoke to Warner and he agreed to go along.

After several meetings it was agreed that the first game to be fixed would be the CCNY-Missouri game on Dec. 9.

Missouri won — 54 to 37 — and each of the three players got $1,500.

For CCNY's loss to Arizona Dec. 28 by a 41 to 38 score, they got $1,000 apiece.

Roth Got $1,500

Before the Boston College game, Jan. 11, won by Boston 63 to 59, Roth and Roman had been scheduled to get $1,500 each, and Warner, who was injured and unable to play, was to get $500.

But neither Roman nor Warner collected, and Roth got $1,400.

Roth and Roman got $500 each as good will bonuses for the Washington State game Dec. 14, which City won 59 to 43; and $250 each for the St. John's game Jan. 2, in which St. John's won 47 to 44.

Hogan said there was no admission of a "fix" on either the Washington State or St. John's games.

Meanwhile, Hogan continued, Gard approached Schaff, introduced him to Sollazo, and Schaff was asked to work on the NYU team.

Schaff admitted that he approached James Brasco, NYU guard, and told him he "could do himself some good" in the St. Francis game Jan. 30 at the Garden.

Brasco Says No

Brasco, Hogan said, told Schaff he would have nothing to do with the fix and would have no further conversation with Schaff.

Schaff never "made a killing" but got $20 or $30 now and then from Sollazo, plus frequent dinners and drinks in the hope Schaff "eventually would make contact."

Hogan said his investigation started after the Boston College game, and 20 detectives had been working 16 hours a day on the case.

Except for a telephone tip on Jan. 10, he said, there had been no "inside information of any kind" supplied to the detectives.

WASHINGTON NO. 2 SHRINE

That's Kenmore, Home of First President's Sister

By ESTHER V. W. TUFTY
Central Press Correspondent

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. — On his 219th birthday, George Washington will again walk the streets of his boyhood hometown of Fredericksburg, Virginia.

Seven residents will portray the Father of Our Country at various stages of his life. As a small boy with his hatchet. As a robust youth throwing a dollar across a river. As a surveyor for Lord Fairfax. As a soldier in the French and Indian war. As a gentleman farmer at Mount Vernon. As commander-in-chief of the armies in the Revolutionary war. As a statesman.

The birthday celebration will begin early and last through the night The memorial service is scheduled for 11 a. m. in St. George Episcopal church, which he used to attend. Then will come a solemn procession to the grave of Mary Washington, the mother of the first President. Led by a color guard, the music will be rendered by a Marine band from nearby Quantico.

IN THE ANNUAL parade many school bands will make with early American music. One all-girl band will represent Mary Washington college. Along the shores of the Rappahannock river, 10 high school boys will re-enact Washington's legendary feat of hurling a silver dollar across the river.

During the day folks will be dropping in at Kenmore, the home of Washington's sister, Betty Washington Lewis. There an "at home" will be in progress all day. Pretty Southern belles, in colonial costume, will be the hostesses.

Every American knows about Mount Vernon, but few about Kenmore, the second shrine of George Washington.

Only a day's ride, by coach there is no doubt "Washington slept here" frequently. Mentioned many times in his diary are visits to Kenmore, built in 1752 by Col. Fielding Lewis for his 17-year-old bride, Betty Washington, on land surveyed by the First President.

Kenmore has many a cannonball wound. . . . one ball is still lodged in the west wall of the drawing room. During the Revolutionary war, Colonel Lewis sacrificed his entire fortune and mortgaged Kenmore to make guns for the Continental army. In the time of the War Between the States, Kenmore was converted into a hospital for both the Blue and the Gray. Many Marine officers in World War I lived in Kenmore. Some 60,000 GIs in World War II visited Washington's No. 2 shrine.

It is no wonder Fredericksburg feels possessive about Washington!

HE SPENT his boyhood there in his mother's modest home, which is still standing. It was here he allegedly chopped down that cherry tree and threw that dollar.

In Fredericksburg, is a monument to Washington's mother, located in a tiny park where she used to sit. It is a small replica of the mighty obelisk known to every school child as the Washington monument in the nation's capital, just 54 miles away.

The Kenmore association has done a good job of restoring what could be restored and the reproductions are authentic and beautiful. Even the newest reproduction dates back to 1796.

HISTORIC Kenmore is said to have its ghost. Whether it is George Washington himself or not, it's said to have a heavy tread. There is a door folks say mysteriously opens every night at 11.

At first sight of Kenmore, set way back from the street, it seems almost prim in the austerity of its Georgian Colonial purity. Yet once inside the great front door, its warmth is the dominating characteristic.

The Kenmore association has "gone national" and there are regents in every state.

Once a year, on Washington's birthday, the front door is swung wide open and no sightseeing fees are charged.

So it will be this year during the long day of festivities ending with a gala banquet (at which the senior senator from Virginia, Harry Byrd, will speak) and with a brilliant ball.

98 Of 100 GIs Wounded In Korea War Recover

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — Of every 100 soldiers wounded in Korea who receive medical aid, 98 recover.

During World War II, 96 GIs got well again. In World War I 92 recovered.

These figures were given today by Col. Laurence A. Potter, an Army medical officer, at a meeting of 350 medical, dental and veterinarian reserve officers.

Col. Potter asserted that the menace of frostbite in Korea has been over-emphasized. Ninety per cent of the frostbite victims are treated in the area, he said, and only 10 per cent have to be evacuated to the United States.

Bean Porridge Hot

A good hearty soup can make a whole meal if there is lots of it and appetites are keen. Here's the recipe for a particularly delicious bean soup that neatly dispatches the last of the twice-warmed beans from Saturday night, or is as quickly made from canned baked beans. Be sure to add the kitchen bouquet for that smooth brown color and flavor.

Rich Brown Bean Soup

2 No. 2 cans baked beans, or 4 cups left-over baked beans
3 cups beef consomme or broth
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon mustard
⅛ teaspoon curry powder
1½ teaspoon kitchen bouquet
1 lemon, thinly sliced

Put the beans through sieve or food mill. Gradually stir in the consomme, keeping mixture smooth at all times. Add seasonings and kitchen bouquet. Bring to boil. Lower heat and let simmer for 5 minutes. Add lemon cut in very thin slices. Serve immediately with hard rolls for lunch.

Yield: 6 servings, about 5 cups.

Corriganville Firemen Report Operation Cost

Improvements Given Emphasis In Figures

Officials of the Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company have reported to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that expenses have averaged better than $8,000 annually the past two years.

Improvements to the Fire Hall and equipment are emphasized in the report, which shows expenditures from September, 1948, to October, 1950, totaled $16,660.40.

Top expenditure was $5,401.40 for a new furnace. Other principal costs were $4,901.40 on loan for new addition to building, $1,650 for 1,000 feet of two-and-one-half inch fire hose and $809.98 for a used ambulance, obtained in 1950.

Other expenditures above $500 included $674.27 for coal and gas for heating, $650.02 for insurance on building and men, and $633.93 for lumber and material for the building.

In a foot note to the report, the company emphasized that the total in the report does not include $8,000 paid for a new fire truck early in 1948. The final item of $88 for hauling of stone for repairs to county road, the officials stressed, was necessary so that they could get their equipment over the road.

The report was signed by Edwin T. Parry, president; Joseph C. Stuckey, treasurer, and William F. Matthews, recording secretary.

The firemen said that they had to conduct various promotions to raise money to operate the department. Funds were raised in 1950 through house-to-house drives, dances, suppers and profits from the bar.

Second Denver Area Fire Fatal To Two

DENVER, Feb. 18 (AP)—A second major fire in the Denver area within 24 hours left two men dead and a big part of the fashionable, suburban Wolhurst Saddle Club in ruins today.

Bob Snell, 37, cook, and Tamie Kaku, 64, a dishwasher, were trapped in the employes' quarters of the club when flames seared through a section of the three story, brick building.

Only yesterday, four persons died and 14 were injured when a fire—blamed on defective wiring—raced through the Denver Athletic Club.

Damage there was placed at $1,500,000 by Club Manager J. M. Conway.

Gary, W. Va., Man Killed When Car Strikes Tree

STAUNTON, Va., Feb. 18 (AP)—A West Virginia man was killed and his wife and two sons were injured seriously near here early today, state police said, when their car left the road and crashed into a tree.

State police identified the dead man as William Smith, about 70, Gary, W. Va. His car smashed into a tree at the foot of a long curve on U. S. Route 11 about two miles south of here.

Central Answers Two Sunday Calls

At 1.04 p. m. the firemen extinguished a fire at the home of John L. Helker, 621 N. Mechanic Street. The blaze which did slight damage was caused by an overheated furnace which ignited the subflooring.

A discarded hot patch caused a fire among some rubbish in a metal storage shed at a service station at the corner of South Centre and Harrison Streets. Damage was slight and the firemen answered the call at 5:51 yesterday evening.

Matter Of Fact

Vicious Circle Starts

In this way, bank credit has expanded about 20 per cent in seven months—as much as in any seven previous peace-time years. And while the government has been taking in more cash than it has been spending, the total money supply has increased by eight per cent. Thus there is more and more credit and more money in circulation, while, with rearmament just getting into high gear, there are beginning to be fewer things to buy. Thus the value of the dollar falls, and as is falls, the effort of the government to maintain the price of government bonds becomes more difficult, and a vicious circle is set in motion.

Eccles proposes certain rather simple ways of breaking the vicious circle. No man in his senses, least of all Eccles, suggests that government bonds be simply abandoned to the vagaries of the free market. Instead, what is proposed is a carefully controlled and moderate drop in government bond prices, so that the rush to cash in bonds will stop, because the cash will be less attractive, and the interest rate more so. Eccles also proposes a slightly higher interest rate—about 3 per cent—on most government bonds.

The mere fact that the government has already lost to the money inflation some two billion out of every ten billion defense dollars appropriated is enough to demonstrate how false the Treasury's brand of economy is. Quite aside from the effects of inflation on the whole economy, this loss alone cancels out several times over what might be saved through cheaper financing of the public debt. Fortunately, the Federal Reserve Board has the legal right to do most of what Eccles wants, and a majority of the open market committee of the Board, which must make the final decisions, is now probably behind Eccles. Thus the chances are that an issue which deeply affects both the security of the United States and every American's pocketbook will probably at last be settled, before the entire economy gets out of hand.

World Government Idea To Be Defended

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP) — Advocates of a federal government for the world will defend Maryland's position on the matter against renewed attack in the Legislature Tuesday.

Chairman Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd) of the House Judiciary Committee expects an overflow crowd in the House chamber for debate on a resolution asserting Maryland should never have endorsed the idea of world federation.

Spokesmen for veterans, church and civic organizations, professional men and women and legislators have asked for a chance to speak.

Dempsey plans a three-hour forum before his committee on whether Maryland should repudiate its twice-expressed stand generally portraying a "commonwealth of nations" as the ideal kind of world.

Championing that position are the United World Federalists of Maryland.

Picket Lines Will Be Strengthened By TWUA

BOSTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The CIO prepared tonight to strengthen picket lines at all mills affected by a strike of 70,000 wool and worsted workers.

A spokesman for the Textile Workers Union of America said big lines will be thrown around mills in New England and in other eastern and southern states.

The strike was launched Friday after a breakdown of negotiations between the union and the American Woolen Company, which sets the wage pattern for the industry.

To Observe Smile Week

National Smile Week will be observed this year from February 26 through March 3. Joe E. Brown, popular Hollywood comedian, has written to Mayor Thomas S. Post suggesting he proclaim such a week and has also sent some ideas for the wording of a proclamation.

could reflect over the profound meaning which these events held for mankind. Now they knew that these had been no chance happenings, and if ever there was a strong conviction in the minds of those who lived in the apostolic age, it was now the conviction that truly God, in Christ, was reconciling the world unto Himself. It was such a conviction which formed a basis for the comprehension of the great magnitude of divine love for man.

This is the central message of this season for us and we must become aware of it as never before. We must know that if the cross is anything to us, it is the profound expression of God's love for us. Such a love "constrains us" and incites us to a life of obedience and conformity to the will of God.

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" If so, yours is this great assurance of love. If not, let me invite you at this season to go back and stand with those who "were there," that you may share their experiences and join with them in proclaiming:

"Hereby know we love, because he laid down his life for us."

Scandal Robs CCNY And NYU Of Chance To Get In Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — CCNY and New York University won't be considered for post-season basketball tournaments as a result of the latest gambling scandal, it was learned today.

A high source in college athletics said the two teams doubtless would be passed over by selection committees of the National Invitation and NCAA tournaments.

City College, despite its mediocre 11-7 record, was regarded as a good bet for the Invitation simply because of its surprising sweep of the two big tournaments last year.

NYU has a 9-3 record and is listed among the 30 teams now being considered for the Invitation, opening at Madison Square Garden March 10.

The same source said Manhattan and Long Island University would not be similarly affected although they also have figured in scandals this year.

Gehrmann And Wilt Will Run In Special

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — Asa Bushnell, director of the IC4A meet, announced today that Don Gehrmann and Fred Wilt will compete in a special mile race next Saturday night in the IC4A Games at Madison Square Garden.

Besides Gehrmann and Wilt, three other milers, to be named later, will compete. Gehrman announced his acceptance by telephone from Milwaukee.

Gehrmann has piled up 38 straight mile victories including six this year and five straight over Wilt.

Argentine Pro Wins Mexico Golf Tourney

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18 (AP) — Roberto De Vicenzo, Argentine professional, won Mexico's Open Golf Tournament today with a score of 275 for the 72 holes.

De Vicenzo took only 68 strokes, four under par, on today's final 18 holes, to win first prize money of $1,785.

Second prize of $1,190 went to Al Besselink of Mt. Clemens, Mich., who shot a 69 to finish with a score of 281.

Vic Ghezzi of Long Island, N. Y., was third with a final round of 71 for a total of 282.

Dark Wins Trophy

Dark carded a six-over-par 76 while Hearn turned in a 77 over the 18-hole Miami Springs Country Club Course.

For his triumph, Dark received a large trophy, plus golfing equipment and luggage.

Three Games At "Y"

Three games are scheduled for tonight in the Central YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League as follows:

7 p. m., Legion vs. Sport Shoppe.
8 p.m., Elks vs. Independents. 9 p.m., 40 and 8 vs. Local 26.

ner," Hogan said, "because he was a key man and if they didn't pass the ball to him he would go to Holman (Nat Holman, the City College coach)."

Later, Roth and Roman spoke to Warner and he agreed to go along.

After several meetings it was agreed that the first game to be fixed would be the CCNY-Missouri game on Dec. 9.

Missouri won — 54 to 37 — and each of the three players got $1,500.

For CCNY's loss to Arizona Dec. 28 by a 41 to 38 score, they got $1,000 apiece.

Roth Got $1,500

Before the Boston College game, Jan. 11, won by Boston 63 to 59, Roth and Roman had been scheduled to get $1,500 each, and Warner, who was injured and unable to play, was to get $500.

But neither Roman nor Warner collected, and Roth got $1,400.

Roth and Roman got $500 each as good will bonuses for the Washington State game Dec. 14, which City won 59 to 43; and $250 each for the St. John's game Jan. 2, in which St. John's won 47 to 44.

Hogan said there was no admission of a "fix" on either the Washington State or St. John's games.

Meanwhile, Hogan continued, Gard approached Schaff, introduced him to Sollazo, and Schaff was asked to work on the NYU team.

Schaff admitted that he approached James Brasco, NYU guard, and told him he "could do himself some good" in the St. Francis game Jan. 30 at the Garden.

Brasco Says No

Brasco, Hogan said, told Schaff he would have nothing to do with the fix and would have no further conversation with Schaff.

Schaff never "made a killing" but got $20 or $30 now and then from Sollazo, plus frequent dinners and drinks in the hope Schaff "eventually would make contact."

Hogan said his investigation started after the Boston College game, and 20 detectives had been working 16 hours a day on the case.

Except for a telephone tip on Jan. 10, he said, there had been no "inside information of any kind" supplied to the detectives.

"This was a most disagreeable and sickening business," Hogan commented. "It certainly is no way of accomplishment."

WASHINGTON NO. 2 SHRINE

That's Kenmore, Home of First President's Sister

By ESTHER V. W. TUFTY
Central Press Correspondent

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. — On his 219th birthday, George Washington will again walk the streets of his boyhood hometown of Fredericksburg, Virginia.

Seven residents will portray the Father of Our Country at various stages of his life. As a small boy with his hatchet. As a robust youth throwing a dollar across a river. As a surveyor for Lord Fairfax. As a soldier in the French and Indian war. As a gentleman farmer at Mount Vernon. As commander-in-chief of the armies in the Revolutionary war. As a statesman.

The birthday celebration will begin early and last through the night The memorial service is scheduled for 11 a. m. in St. George Episcopal church, which he used to attend. Then will come a solemn procession to the grave of Mary Washington, the mother of the first President. Led by a color guard, the music will be rendered by a Marine band from nearby Quantico.

IN THE ANNUAL parade many school bands will make with early American music. One all-girl band will represent Mary Washington college. Along the shores of the Rappahannock river, 10 high school boys will re-enact Washington's legendary feat of hurling a silver dollar across the river.

During the day folks will be dropping in at Kenmore, the home of Washington's sister, Betty Washington Lewis. There an "at home" will be in progress all day. Pretty Southern belles, in colonial costume, will be the hostesses.

Every American knows about Mount Vernon, but few about Kenmore, the second shrine of George Washington.

Only a day's ride, by coach there is no doubt "Washington slept here" frequently. Mentioned many times in his diary are visits to Kenmore, built in 1752 by Col. Fielding Lewis for his 17-year-old bride, Betty Washington, on land surveyed by the First President.

Uncle Backus, 98-year-old former slave, tends the kitchen at Kenmore.

Kenmore has many a cannonball wound. . . . one ball is still lodged in the west wall of the drawing room. During the Revolutionary war, Colonel Lewis sacrificed his entire fortune and mortgaged Kenmore to make guns for the Continental army. In the time of the War Between the States, Kenmore was converted into a hospital for both the Blue and the Gray. Many Marine officers in World War I lived in Kenmore. Some 60,000 GIs in World War II visited Washington's No. 2 shrine.

It is no wonder Fredericksburg feels possessive about Washington!

HE SPENT his boyhood there in his mother's modest home, which is still standing. It was here he allegedly chopped down that cherry tree and threw that dollar.

In Fredericksburg, is a monument to Washington's mother, located in a tiny park where she used to sit. It is a small replica of the mighty obelisk known to every school child as the Washington monument in the nation's capital, just 54 miles away.

The Kenmore association has done a good job of restoring what could be restored and the reproductions are authentic and beautiful. Even the newest reproduction dates back to 1796.

HISTORIC Kenmore is said to have its ghost. Whether it is George Washington himself or not, it's said to have a heavy tread. There is a door folks say mysteriously opens every night at 11.

At first sight of Kenmore, set way back from the street, it seems almost prim in the austerity of its Georgian Colonial purity. Yet once inside the great front door, its warmth is the dominating characteristic.

The Kenmore association has "gone national" and there are regents in every state.

Once a year, on Washington's birthday, the front door is swung wide open and no sightseeing fees are charged.

So it will be this year during the long day of festivities ending with a gala banquet (at which the senior senator from Virginia, Harry Byrd, will speak) and with a brilliant ball.

98 Of 100 GIs Wounded In Korea War Recover

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — Of every 100 soldiers wounded in Korea who receive medical aid, 98 recover.

During World War II, 96 GIs got well again. In World War I 92 recovered.

These figures were given today by Col. Laurence A. Potter, an Army medical officer, at a meeting of 350 medical, dental and veterinarian reserve officers.

Col. Potter asserted that the menace of frostbite in Korea has been over-emphasized. Ninety per cent of the frostbite victims are treated in the area, he said, and only 10 per cent have to be evacuated to the United States.

Bean Porridge Hot

A good hearty soup can make a whole meal if there is lots of it and appetites are keen. Here's the recipe for a particularly delicious bean soup that neatly dispatches the last of the twice-warmed beans from Saturday night, or is as quickly made from canned baked beans. Be sure to add the kitchen bouquet for that smooth brown color and flavor.

Rich Brown Bean Soup

2 No. 2 cans baked beans, or 4 cups left-over baked beans
3 cups beef consomme or broth
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon mustard
⅛ teaspoon curry powder
1½ teaspoon kitchen bouquet
1 lemon, thinly sliced

Put the beans through sieve or food mill. Gradually stir in the consomme, keeping mixture smooth at all times. Add seasonings and kitchen bouquet. Bring to boil. Lower heat and let simmer for 5 minutes. Add lemon cut in very thin slices. Serve immediately with hard rolls for lunch.

Yield: 6 servings, about 5 cups.

Corriganville Firemen Report Operation Cost

Improvements Given Emphasis In Figures

Officials of the Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company have reported to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that expenses have averaged better than $8,000 annually the past two years.

Improvements to the Fire Hall and equipment are emphasized in the report, which shows expenditures from September, 1948, to October, 1950, totaled $16,660.40.

Top expenditure was $5,401.40 for a new furnace. Other principal costs were $4,901.40 on loan for new addition to building, $1,650 for 1,000 feet of two-and-one-half inch fire hose and $809.98 for a used ambulance, obtained in 1950.

Other expenditures above $500 included $674.27 for coal and gas for heating, $650.02 for insurance on building and men, and $633.93 for lumber and material for the building.

In a foot note to the report, the company emphasized that the total in the report does not include $8,000 paid for a new fire truck early in 1948. The final item of $88 for hauling of stone for repairs to county road, the officials stressed, was necessary so that they could get their equipment over the road.

The report was signed by Edwin T. Parry, president; Joseph C. Stuckey, treasurer, and William F. Matthews, recording secretary.

The firemen said that they had to conduct various promotions to raise money to operate the department. Funds were raised in 1950 through house-to-house drives, dances, suppers and profits from the bar.

Steering Group Proposes New Industry Plan

Cite Mississippi State Law As Model

After studying plans of a number of cities and states, designed to bring new industry into their respective areas, The Steering Committee for Economic Development here has agreed that one of the most feasible and logical ideas for this area, would be one patterned after the Mississippi BAWI Plan.

According to Francis Kenney, chairman of the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee and David Kauffman, chairman of the Steering Committee, the Mississippi Balance Agriculture with Industry Law authorizes municipalities, including incorporated towns, cities and counties, to vote full faith and credit bonds for the purpose of buying land and building plants for new industries.

Will Meet Delegation

Kauffman and Kenney have been authorized by the Steering Committee to meet with the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly and discuss the possibility of a similar law for Maryland. They will go to Annapolis Tuesday.

Under the plan, the city's credit, or the county's credit is used to guarantee the redemption of bonds. Such bond issues for new industries are sold only after a referendum of the people in the municipality involved. The bonds may include the cost of land, buildings and site improvement, but not machinery.

Plant Pays Bonds

When this procedure is followed, a contract is negotiated between the manufacturer and the municipality which provides that the manufacturer will amortize the bonds over a 20-year or a 25-year period. At the end of which time the manufacturer will have an option to lease the building for an additional 20 or 40 years for some nominal rental, such as $100 per year.

Or, the manufacturer will guarantee a minimum annual payroll with a rental stipulation should the payroll not be met by the manufacturer; or further, the contract may embody a combination of minimum guaranteed payroll and full or partial amortization of principal.

Under Mississippi Law, new industries are exempt from county and municipal taxation for a period up to five years. Of course when land and buildings are provided an industry by means of a public bond issue, the industry only leases these facilities on a long-term basis and, since the municipality retains title, the land and buildings would never be subject to taxation.

50 Towns Use Idea

At this time more than 50 Mississippi municipalities have taken action to secure industries under the BAWI Law.

All of these towns either already have industries in the process of starting operations or they are looking forward to the successful conclusion of negotiations with manufacturers.

Aside from the obvious advantage to the industry of establishing a plant with a minimum capital outlay, many well-financed corporations have found that community participation and cooperation, necessary under the BAWI plan, are most valuable assets from a labor and public relations standpoint.

Kauffman, Kenney and others interested in new industries for Cumberland and the area believe the Mississippi BAWI plan can be adapted here if the necessary legislation can be passed, and that the plan will be as good as, or better than any followed in other locale, which local groups have studied to date.

Eleven Coal Cars Derailed Near Newburg

Defective Rail Cause Of Freight Wreck

Eleven loaded car coal hoppers of an eastbound Baltimore and Ohio freight were derailed near Newburg, W. Va. Friday evening at about 8:30. No one was hurt.

A spokesman for the railroad said that the wreck occured at Brains Curve just east of Newburg on the Cumberland Division with a broken rail as the cause. Three tracks, the eastbound, westbound and traffic lane were closed as a result of the wreck.

The westbound track was not cleared until about 3:05 o'clock Saturday morning and maintenance crews from Grafton and Keyser worked until 4 p. m. Saturday before traffic was restored to normal.

The 3-unit diesel and the first sixteen cars passed over the defective rail and the seventeenth to twenty-seventh cars left the track strewing coal over a wide area. Nine of the cars had to be completely dumped while the remaining two were rerailed. A 4-unit diesel helper was on the rear of the freight.

Westbound passenger trains 1 and 3 were rerouted over the Pittsburgh Division out of Cumberland through the Narrows. Eastbound traffic had to be detoured out of Newburg.

The engineer on the lead diesel was R. K. Bartlett, Keyser, and the conductor H. D. Reed, Grafton.

Police Rescue Boy Stranded On Island Here

James Long, 16, 205 Arch Street, was left "stranded" for about eight hours yesterday afternoon on an island in the Potomac River opposite the old N. and G. Tinplate mill near River Avenue.

Long and three other companions, Jerry Dawson, 325 Springdale Street, and Jimmy and Dick Brown, 427 Virginia Avenue, evidently got a spring urge yesterday about 1 o'clock and proceeded to play along the river's edge. Long found an old raft and decided to cross to the island. After completing his trip he learned he was unable to return over the swift waters which measure about thirty feet across at the point.

Efforts were made by the other three to rescue the boy but they had no luck. The afternoon grew later and continued efforts of others standing by were futile. As the sun went down Long built himself a fire to keep warm and about 7 o'clock police were notified.

Police officers Curtis McA. Kimes, John G. Powers and Kenneth W. Morrisey went to the scene and also tried to rescue the boy with a rope. Later they went to the home of Paul E. Knisley, a carpenter of 25 W. Roberts Street, got a truck, went to Wiley Ford, W. Va., and borrowed a boat. The boat had to be carried from the Cumberland Box factory across the old C. & O. Canal and up the river about three quarters of a mile.

Knisley and Alfred Ullery, 1205 Lexington Avenue, manned the boat and completed "Operations Rescue." Officer Kimes last night said the mud around the area was "about knee deep" and evidence on his shoes confirmed the fact.

Probe Continues In Railroad Wreck

Investigation continues into the cause of the wreck of a Western Maryland passenger train last Wednesday at noon near the Virginia Avenue station.

Joseph M. Miller, Elkins division superintendent said yesterday that a definite conclusion should be reached either tomorrow or Wednesday.

The three persons hospitalized as a result of the wreck have been released from Memorial Hospital. Carlton G. Leonard, Uniontown, Pa. left the hospital on Thursday.

Miss Peggy Friend, Luke was released on Friday and Miss Mildred Walker also of Luke on Saturday.

Red Cross Advance Gifts Drive To Begin Tomorrow

Members of the Advance Gifts Division of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter's 1951 campaign will meet tonight for dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the Green Room of the Central YMCA, William C. Walsh, general campaign chairman said last night.

Under the co-chairmanship of George L. Buchanan and Henry A. Mackey, the Advance Gifts Division workers will start their drive for memberships tomorrow morning and expect to have their work finished before the general membership campaign gets underway on March 5. Goal for the entire campaign this year is $26,796.

At tonight's meeting the members of the Advance Gifts Division will receive prospect cards of individuals they will contact during the next two weeks. Buchanan and Mackey emphasized last night that their workers make no general solicitation, but work only from the cards given them.

"It is up to our group to lead the way in this 1951 campaign to 'Mobilize for Defense'", Buchanan and Mackey stated. "The work that members of the Advance Gifts Division do in the next two weeks helps to set the stage for the entire general campaign which starts in March.

"We have called a number of people in the last ten days urging them to attend tonight's meeting and to work on the Advance Gifts Division. We cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of the work they will be doing the next two weeks and we urge them to be present tonight at the YMCA in order to get our Division off to a good start."

Today's Sermonette

Hereby know we love, because He laid down His Life For Us.
I JOHN 3:16

By REV. GEORGE A. TATE

Today's sermonette is a digest of the meditation preached yesterday at McKendree Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. George A. Tate. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

YEARS AGO, at this season of the year, Negro slaves would sing a spiritual which included these words:

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?
Were you there when they crucified my Lord?
Oh, sometimes it causes me to tremble, tremble, tremble,
Were you there when they crucified my Lord?"

I know nothing of the history of this spiritual nor the occasion which gave rise to it, but I cannot help but feel that the person or persons who formed these words manifested the ability to transcend the barriers of time and actually became identified with those who "were there" nearly 2,000 years ago. This is indeed a great accomplishment and must constitute the chief aim of our striving today, if the message of the cross is to make its imprint upon our minds and hearts. Let us consider then, those factors which characterized the life and activity of those who "were there."

Rev. G. A. Tate

At once those whose lives immediately touched the experience of the cross became those who were bewildered and confused. Without a doubt, it was a distasteful and disheartening event for the disciples. Here was the seeming end for their Master and consequently the supposed shattering of their fondest dreams. Here, they thought, was evidence of the triumph of evil and the inevitable expiration of their cherished hopes. Is there any wonder then, that those who stood at the cross looking at the dying form of Jesus should be those who "trembled" with grief, and disappointment, and fear? Even though we are removed from the scene by nearly two millenniums, the experience yet "causes us to tremble."

However, the sight of a beloved leader dying on a cross was not the only experience that those who "were there" witnessed. Theirs was also the high joy of being confronted with the awareness that the crucifixion of Jesus had not marked the end of His life, nor meant the destruction of their dreams, for the fact of the resurrection became the factor which motivated them to new courage and assurance. He who had suffered a most violent and humiliating death had now become conqueror and given to mankind a new life—a life shot through with joy and hope and the promise of a reconciliation with God.

Now they could look back over the past events and discern the patterns of the divine plan. Now they

Trooper A. M. Spioch last night said that Weathers was taken to the county jail here pending an investigation. A hearing is to be held in Westernport.

The other two occupants of the car were released with no charges preferred. Spioch said that damages to the 1948 Buick sedan amounted to about $700.

Local 26 Seeks To Begin Talks On New Contract

Negotiations May Start Wednesday

An effort will be made by the negotiation committee of Local No. 26, URCLPWA-CIO, to meet with management of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company by Wednesday to open discussions for a new contract, Ralph C. Beard, union vice-president, said last night.

Beard explained that a motion was made at the regular membership meeting Saturday night to call the negotiation committee together to make plans for the start of negotiations. Beard said the committee probably would meet tonight or tomorrow at the Union Hall, 12 South Mechanic Street.

The present contract between Local No. 26 and Kelly-Springfield is due to expire April 1. Beard said no decision has been made concerning specific demands that may be made when negotiations start.

At Saturday night's meeting Local No. 26 also passed a motion to send Beard and Harry E. Castle to Annapolis Tuesday to attend a public hearing on proposed legislation that would effect organized labor. One proposal concerns Sick and Accident Insurance in Maryland. They also will return to Annapolis March 1 for a second committee hearing on other suggested legislation. Castle is a member of the union's legislative committee and is a State CIO vice-president.

In still another Saturday night action Local 26's members voted to amend the by-laws so that union representatives when out of town on union business will receive expenses of $10 per day instead of the present $8 per day, Beard disclosed.

Bus Drivers Reject Annual Wage Proposal

Claim Plan Won't Be Acceptable

A guaranteed annual wage proposal of $3,700, offered by the Cumberland Transit Lines to its bus drivers, is not acceptable to the drivers, according to spokesmen for Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union, AFL.

Taking issue with claims made by A. J. Hutton, manager for the bus company, members of the union's negotiating committee said the plan will not work in their particular industry, and they can find no other transit company operating under this type of wage or salary agreement.

Hutton said Saturday that the proposal offered by the company would increase the annual pay of each driver from $200 to $500 per year.

The drivers claim this is not correct, since under the plan they would lose such items as their safety bonus and other compensation, which they now enjoy in addition to present base pay of $1.24 per hour.

Want $1.54 Per Hour

The drivers contend they average about $3,300 pay per year plus uniform allowances, safety bonus, etc. Under the company's proposal, the drivers would receive only the annual guaranteed pay of $3,700 with no provision for safety bonus, or other items now enjoyed as a part of the agreement.

Spokesmen for the union declare they have requested, in their negotiations, a pay raise of 30 cents per hour, to a base of $1.54, uniform allowance of $85 each six months, and a 40-hour work week, with no reduction in the present monthly earnings.

Drivers now work an average total of 2548 hours per year or about 55 hours per week.

Had Previous Offer

In December of 1950 the Company offered the drivers an annual wage of $3,600, which was rejected by the membership of the union on the principle that such a plan would not be satisfactory in the industry.

Union spokesmen said the annual wage idea will not work any better at $3,700 than it would at $3,600. They term the plan entirely impracticable from an employe point of view in the industry.

The present contract expires February 28, and both union and company officials are hopeful an agreement will be reached by that time. Negotiations are to continue, spokesmen said.

Representing the union as their negotiating committee are Lawrence Grim, union business agent; James Morrison, Burr Powell and Harvey May. The union members indicated that they expect a representative of their international office here shortly.

Airline Issues Military Passes

All-American Airways announced today that former employees, now on active duty with the military services, will be granted passes to fly AAA while on military leave.

In announcing this new policy, President Robert M. Love stated that former employes now in the armed services can procure passes by applying to All-American's Personnel Department, National Airport, Washington, D. C.

Love explained further that the regular airline pass policy will be in effect. This means that the pass holder is entitled to transportation whenever a vacant seat is available. For a positive reservation, however, it will be possible for the individual to request a ticket at a reduced rate, which will be a 50% savings of the regular fare.

All-American's pass privilege will also extend to members of the former employee's immediate family.

Steering Group Proposes New Industry Plan

Cite Mississippi State Law As Model

After studying plans of a number of cities and states, designed to bring new industry into their respective areas, The Steering Committee for Economic Development here has agreed that one of the most feasible and logical ideas for this area, would be one patterned after the Mississippi BAWI Plan.

According to Francis Kenney, chairman of the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee and David Kauffman, chairman of the Steering Committee, the Mississippi Balance Agriculture with Industry Law authorizes municipalities, including incorporated towns, cities and counties, to vote full faith and credit bonds for the purpose of buying land and building plants for new industries.

Will Meet Delegation

Kauffman and Kenney have been authorized by the Steering Committee to meet with the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly and discuss the possibility of a similar law for Maryland. They will go to Annapolis Tuesday.

Under the plan, the city's credit, or the county's credit is used to guarantee the redemption of bonds. Such bond issues for new industries are sold only after a referendum of the people in the municipality involved. The bonds may include the cost of land, buildings and site improvement, but not machinery.

Plant Pays Bonds

When this procedure is followed, a contract is negotiated between the manufacturer and the municipality which provides that the manufacturer will amortize the bonds over a 20-year or a 25-year period. At the end of which time the manufacturer will have an option to lease the building for an additional 20 or 40 years for some nominal rental, such as $100 per year.

Or, the manufacturer will guarantee a minimum annual payroll with a rental stipulation should the payroll not be met by the manufacturer; or further, the contract may embody a combination of minimum guaranteed payroll and full or partial amortization of principal.

Under Mississippi Law, new industries are exempt from county and municipal taxation for a period up to five years. Of course when land and buildings are provided an industry by means of a public bond issue, the industry only leases these facilities on a long-term basis and, since the municipality retains title, the land and buildings would never be subject to taxation.

50 Towns Use Idea

At this time more than 50 Mississippi municipalities have taken action to secure industries under the BAWI Law.

All of these towns either already have industries in the process of starting operations or they are looking forward to the successful conclusion of negotiations with manufacturers.

Aside from the obvious advantage to the industry of establishing a plant with a minimum capital outlay, many well-financed corporations have found that community participation and cooperation, necessary under the BAWI plan, are most valuable assets from a labor and public relations standpoint.

Kauffman, Kenney and others interested in new industries for Cumberland and the area believe the Mississippi BAWI plan can be adapted here if the necessary legislation can be passed, and that the plan will be as good as, or better than any followed in other locale, which local groups have studied to date.

Eleven Coal Cars Derailed Near Newburg

Defective Rail Cause Of Freight Wreck

Eleven loaded car coal hoppers of an eastbound Baltimore and Ohio freight were derailed near Newburg, W. Va. Friday evening at about 8:30. No one was hurt.

A spokesman for the railroad said that the wreck occured at Brains Curve just east of Newburg on the Cumberland Division with a broken rail as the cause. Three tracks, the eastbound, westbound and traffic lane were closed as a result of the wreck.

The westbound track was not cleared until about 3:05 o'clock Saturday morning and maintenance crews from Grafton and Keyser worked until 4 p. m. Saturday before traffic was restored to normal.

The 3-unit diesel and the first sixteen cars passed over the defective rail and the seventeenth to twenty-seventh cars left the track strewing coal over a wide area. Nine of the cars had to be completely dumped while the remaining two were rerailed. A 4-unit diesel helper was on the rear of the freight.

Westbound passenger trains 1 and 3 were rerouted over the Pittsburgh Division out of Cumberland through the Narrows. Eastbound traffic had to be detoured out of Newburg.

The engineer on the lead diesel was R. K. Bartlett, Keyser, and the conductor H. D. Reed, Grafton.

Police Rescue Boy Stranded On Island Here

James Long, 16, 205 Arch Street, was left "stranded" for about eight hours yesterday afternoon on an island in the Potomac River opposite the old N. and G. Tinplate mill near River Avenue.

Long and three other companions, Jerry Dawson, 325 Springdale Street, and Jimmy and Dick Brown, 427 Virginia Avenue, evidently got a spring urge yesterday about 1 o'clock and proceeded to play along the river's edge. Long found an old raft and decided to cross to the island. After completing his trip he learned he was unable to return over the swift waters which measure about thirty feet across at the point.

Efforts were made by the other three to rescue the boy but they had no luck. The afternoon grew later and continued efforts of others standing by were futile. As the sun went down Long built himself a fire to keep warm and about 7 o'clock police were notified.

Police officers Curtis McA. Kimes, John G. Powers and Kenneth W. Morrisey went to the scene and also tried to rescue the boy with a rope. Later they went to the home of Paul E. Knisley, a carpenter of 25 W. Roberts Street, got a truck, went to Wiley Ford, W. Va., and borrowed a boat. The boat had to be carried from the Cumberland Box factory across the old C. & O. Canal and up the river about three quarters of a mile.

Knisley and Alfred Ullery, 1205 Lexington Avenue, manned the boat and completed "Operations Rescue." Officer Kimes last night said the mud around the area was "about knee deep" and evidence on his shoes confirmed the fact.

Probe Continues In Railroad Wreck

Investigation continues into the cause of the wreck of a Western Maryland passenger train last Wednesday at noon near the Virginia Avenue station.

Joseph M. Miller, Elkins division superintendent said yesterday that a definite conclusion should be reached either tomorrow or Wednesday.

The three persons hospitalized as a result of the wreck have been released from Memorial Hospital. Carlton G. Leonard, Uniontown, Pa. left the hospital on Thursday.

Miss Peggy Friend, Luke was released on Friday and Miss Mildred Walker also of Luke on Saturday.

Red Cross Advance Gifts Drive To Begin Tomorrow

Members of the Advance Gifts Division of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter's 1951 campaign will meet tonight for dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the Green Room of the Central YMCA, William C. Walsh, general campaign chairman said last night.

Under the co-chairmanship of George L. Buchanan and Henry A. Mackey, the Advance Gifts Division workers will start their drive for memberships tomorrow morning and expect to have their work finished before the general membership campaign gets underway on March 5. Goal for the entire campaign this year is $26,796.

At tonight's meeting the members of the Advance Gifts Division will receive prospect cards of individuals they will contact during the next two weeks. Buchanan and Mackey emphasized last night that their workers make no general solicitation, but work only from the cards given them.

"It is up to our group to lead the way in this 1951 campaign to 'Mobilize for Defense'", Buchanan and Mackey stated. "The work that members of the Advance Gifts Division do in the next two weeks helps to set the stage for the entire general campaign which starts in March.

"We have called a number of people in the last ten days urging them to attend tonight's meeting and to work on the Advance Gifts Division. We cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of the work they will be doing the next two weeks and we urge them to be present tonight at the YMCA in order to get our Division off to a good start."

Today's Sermonette

Hereby know we love, because He laid down His Life For Us.
I JOHN 3:16

By REV. GEORGE A. TATE

Today's sermonette is a digest of the meditation preached yesterday at McKendree Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. George A. Tate. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

YEARS AGO, at this season of the year, Negro slaves would sing a spiritual which included these words:

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?
Were you there when they crucified my Lord?
Oh, sometimes it causes me to tremble, tremble, tremble,
Were you there when they crucified my Lord?"

I know nothing of the history of this spiritual nor the occasion which gave rise to it, but I cannot help but feel that the person or persons who formed these words manifested the ability to transcend the barriers of time and actually became identified with those who "were there" nearly 2,000 years ago. This is indeed a great accomplishment and must constitute the chief aim of our striving today, if the message of the cross is to make its imprint upon our minds and hearts. Let us consider then, those factors which characterized the life and activity of those who "were there."

Rev. G. A. Tate

At once those whose lives immediately touched the experience of the cross became those who were bewildered and confused. Without a doubt, it was a distasteful and disheartening event for the disciples. Here was the seeming end for their Master and consequently the supposed shattering of their fondest dreams. Here, they thought, was evidence of the triumph of evil and the inevitable expiration of their cherished hopes. Is there any wonder then, that those who stood at the cross looking at the dying form of Jesus should be those who "trembled" with grief, and disappointment, and fear? Even though we are removed from the scene by nearly two millenniums, the experience yet "causes us to tremble."

However, the sight of a beloved leader dying on a cross was not the only experience that those who "were there" witnessed. Theirs was also the high joy of being confronted with the awareness that the crucifixion of Jesus had not marked the end of His life, nor meant the destruction of their dreams, for the fact of the resurrection became the factor which motivated them to new courage and assurance. He who had suffered a most violent and humiliating death had now become conqueror and given to mankind a new life—a life shot through with joy and hope and the promise of a reconciliation with God.

Now they could look back over the past events and discern the patterns of the divine plan. Now they

Local 26 Seeks To Begin Talks On New Contract

Negotiations May Start Wednesday

An effort will be made by the negotiation committee of Local No. 26, URCLPWA-CIO, to meet with management of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company by Wednesday to open discussions for a new contract, Ralph C. Beard, union vice-president, said last night.

Beard explained that a motion was made at the regular membership meeting Saturday night to call the negotiation committee together to make plans for the start of negotiations. Beard said the committee probably would meet tonight or tomorrow at the Union Hall, 12 South Mechanic Street.

The present contract between Local No. 26 and Kelly-Springfield is due to expire April 1. Beard said no decision has been made concerning specific demands that may be made when negotiations start.

At Saturday night's meeting Local No. 26 also passed a motion to send Beard and Harry E. Castle to Annapolis Tuesday to attend a public hearing on proposed legislation that would effect organized labor. One proposal concerns Sick and Accident Insurance in Maryland. They also will return to Annapolis March 1 for a second committee hearing on other suggested legislation. Castle is a member of the union's legislative committee and is a State CIO vice-president.

In still another Saturday night action Local 26's members voted to amend the by-laws so that union representatives when out of town on union business will receive expenses of $10 per day instead of the present $8 per day, Beard disclosed.

Bus Drivers Reject Annual Wage Proposal

Claim Plan Won't Be Acceptable

A guaranteed annual wage proposal of $3,700, offered by the Cumberland Transit Lines to its bus drivers, is not acceptable to the drivers, according to spokesmen for Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union, AFL.

Taking issue with claims made by A. J. Hutton, manager for the bus company, members of the union's negotiating committee said the plan will not work in their particular industry, and they can find no other transit company operating under this type of wage or salary agreement.

Hutton said Saturday that the proposal offered by the company would increase the annual pay of each driver from $200 to $500 per year.

The drivers claim this is not correct, since under the plan they would lose such items as their safety bonus and other compensation, which they now enjoy in addition to present base pay of $1.24 per hour.

Want $1.54 Per Hour

The drivers contend they average about $3,300 pay per year plus uniform allowances, safety bonus, etc. Under the company's proposal, the drivers would receive only the annual guaranteed pay of $3,700 with no provision for safety bonus, or other items now enjoyed as a part of the agreement.

Spokesmen for the union declare they have requested, in their negotiations, a pay raise of 30 cents per hour, to a base of $1.54, uniform allowance of $85 each six months, and a 40-hour work week, with no reduction in the present monthly earnings.

Drivers now work an average total of 2548 hours per year or about 55 hours per week.

Had Previous Offer

In December of 1950 the Company offered the drivers an annual wage of $3,600, which was rejected by the membership of the union on the principle that such a plan would not be satisfactory in the industry.

Union spokesmen said the annual wage idea will not work any better at $3,700 than it would at $3,600. They term the plan entirely impracticable from an employe point of view in the industry.

The present contract expires February 28, and both union and company officials are hopeful an agreement will be reached by that time. Negotiations are to continue, spokesmen said.

Representing the union as their negotiating committee are Lawrence Grim, union business agent; James Morrison, Burr Powell and Harvey May. The union members indicated that they expect a representative of their international office here shortly.

Labor Group Confers Today On Question Of Withdrawing From Mobilization Program

Sen. Aiken Charges Administration Has Turned Over Program To Big Business

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — A major crisis hovered over the nation's mobilization program tonight. Demands grew louder that organized labor pull out of the setup on the ground it represents the interests of big business.

Complaints sprang up on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) accused the Truman administration of turning over the program to big business and cold-shouldering labor and agriculture.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC), too, complained anew that farm leaders have been ignored in the planning and operation of the program. He demanded again that farmers get "top echelon" representation in the Economic Stabilization Agency.

Showdown May Come Swiftly

The labor showdown may come swiftly. Tomorrow the United Labor Policy Committee confers on the question of quitting the program altogether, with one official indicating a belief the decision would be for a walkout.

This apparently would mean at the very least removing labor representatives from all war mobilization agencies. There were fears it might be followed by strikes for higher wages with the resultant pressure on prices.

Government officials held to a hope that labor would stay with the program despite Friday's walkout of labor's three members of the Wage Stabilization Board. They protested adoption by the board's public and industry members of a new wage ceiling formula. It is in the hands of Stabilization Director Eric Johnston for approval, change or rejection. It would permit an increase in general wages to 10 per cent between Jan. 15 and July 1. Labor insisted on 12 per cent and objected to other terms of the formula.

Wilson Enters Dispute

The labor policy committee itself thereupon blasted the mobilization program as unfair to labor and the people, and fell into a debate over withdrawing from the entire effort.

In the midst of it, an invitation showed up from Charles E. Wilson, mobilization director, for labor to name a new top level assistant in his office. The outcome of this was hanging fire also.

Emil Rieve, president of the CIO textile workers union, said last night in New York the labor leaders will resume discussion at 2 p.m. tomorrow on the question of leaving the mobilization program.

British To Erase Malayan Village In Drive On Reds

SINGAPORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — British authorities will put the torch to an entire village in southern Selangor state in Malaya in order to wipe out what they said is a "wasps' nest" of Communist terrorists. The move is part of Britain's determined campaign to wipe out Red terrorism in Malaya by the end of this year.

Already all the 1,500 inhabitants of Jenderam have been moved out of the village and placed in a detention camp at Kluang, in Johore state, just north of Singapore.

A force of 1,000 troops and three companies of police made a lightning raid on the village last Thursday.

Authorities said the village was "an important supply link and shelter for bandits" and a center for distribution of Malay Red propaganda.

Troop Limitation Foes Have Edge In Senate Groups

17 Of 26 Oppose Any Hard And Fast Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — The Truman administration appeared today to have enlisted a majority within two key Senate committees against limiting the number of troops for Europe.

A check of public and private statements of senators indicated 17 of the 26 members of the Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees are inclined at present against clamping any rigid ceiling on ground troops to be used abroad.

On the other hand, five other members have demonstrated by their questioning at hearings on the issue that they favor a restriction of some kind on the President's power to order ground forces abroad to join the North Atlantic defense setup.

The remaining four senators have kept their own counsel, including Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) who is absent because of illness.

Secretary of Defense Marshall's bold stroke in telling the two committees last week that present plans call for the dispatch of only four divisions to join the force being built up by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower cut some of the ground from under the limitation bloc.

It didn't convince Sen. Wherry of Nebraska and Taft of Ohio, Republicans leading the fight from outside the ranks of the committee membership. But it obviously softened the resistance of some who had been inclined to believe Congress should keep its hand on the military.

18-Year Draft Battle Certain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — A stiff fight in both Senate and House appeared certain today against lowering the draft age to cover all 18-year-old boys and extending the required length of military service of millions of men.

But leaders say they expect ultual approval.

A permanent long-term compulsory military training and service bill was approved last week by the Senate Armed Services Committee 13 to 0.

It contained some modifications of the broad powers originally asked by Secretary of Defense Marshall and top Pentagon leaders.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee has been holding closed-door sessions on the Senate version. Reports indicate difficulty getting House members to go along with the Senate modifications.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) told a reporter he would "make a real fight on the Senate floor" for many changes in the committee approved bill.

China Guerrilla Activity Mounts

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 18 (AP)—Stepped-up activity by Nationalist guerrillas on the Chinese mainland was reported today by the Defense Ministry of Chiang Kai-Shek's government.

The report coincided with the announcement that surrender passes and letters and leaflets urging revolt against the Chinese Reds were dropped last night by three Nationalist air force C-46s.

The Defense Ministry said more than 500 guerrillas raided Pingyang Feb. 2. Pingyang is 200 miles south of Shanghai. The guerrillas freed Nationalist prisoners held by the Reds, destroyed two food depots and captured a large quantity of military supplies.

Guerrillas operating in two motorized junks attacked Communist craft Jan. 26 and Feb. 2 at Chingmen and Paitanmen on the Chinese coast about 120 miles south of Shanghai. The ministry said they killed more than 20 Reds and captured 34, seized two motorized junks, three light machine guns, more than 20 rifles and more than 200 bags of rice.

Fantastic Jumble Of Freight Cars

Forty-three freight cars, many of them loaded with newsprint, left the rails and were piled up in a fantastic jumble on the Soo Line near Duplainville, Wis. The mishap occurred at a siding switch as one freight train waited for another to pass. Forty-three cars of one train and the locomotive of the other were derailed. No one was injured.

50,000 Increase In U. S. Business Firms Last Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Greater opportunities for profits brought a 50,000 net increase in American business firms in 1950 to put the total number over the 4,000,000 mark, the Commerce Department reported tonight.

That was in sharp contrast to a 30,000 decline in 1949, when there was a temporary recession, but it wasn't up to the average struck by a 625,000 or 19 per cent increase over the last ten years.

The department noted a slowdown in establishment of new firms since the Korean war's outbreak as a result of "uncertainties about prospective supplies of labor and materials," but it suggested that existing firms haven't yet been hit badly.

Loan To Plush Hotel Checked By RFC Probers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Guest lists of the plush Saxony Hotel in Miami Beach, Fla., became an object for study today in a Senate Subcommittee's inquiry into a $1,500,000 loan to the the establishment.

The loan was made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation whose operations have been sharply criticized by the subcommittee. President Truman termed the subcommittee report asinine. It charged some huge loans have been influenced from outside the RFC, naming a White House aide, Donald Dawson, as one who wielded such influence. Dawson has declined comment.

The Saxony loan has been repaid in full, but Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), subcommittee chairman, said the investigation will go into the question whether "any subtsantial public interest" was served by the loan, as required by law.

He told reporters it is difficult to see such interest in a loan to build a luxury hotel the rooms of which cost $26,000 each, and which he said is patronized by very wealthy and politically powerful guests.

The senator said the guest lists will be examined to see what strata of the public interest is served by the hotel.

BERLIN, Feb. 18 (AP)—Mayor Ernst Reuter leaves tomorrow for conferences in the United States. He expects to see Secretary of State Dean Acheson and other top authorities on divided Berlin's political and economic problems.

Md. Penitentiary Inmate Digs His Way To Freedom

Works Two Years On 70-Foot Tunnel

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — A slender, 39-year-old convict escaped from the state penitentiary during the pre-dawn darkness today through a narrow, 70-foot tunnel that took him two years to dig.

Warren Edwin T. Swenson said the escapee was Joseph Holmes, a Baltimore negro serving 20 years for burglary.

"It's the most fantastic escape I've ever heard of," the warden said. He said it must have taken Holmes two years to burrow to freedom.

He gave this explanation of the break:

Holmes loosened a piece of square slate, about two feet square and cracked through 10 inches of concrete before he reached dirt.

There he burrowed at a downward angle for 10 feet, then leveled off under the massive stone wall and a dry moat and then dug 30 feet up.

The tunnel emerged in a grassy plot with only a seven-foot fence between the opening and freedom. It was only a short stroll from there to his mother's home on Preston Street.

Warden Swenson estimated that Holmes clawed out the tons of dirt with bits of scrap iron found in the tunnel, carried it in his clothing back to his cell, then flushed it down the toilet.

Holmes, known as "the dinnertime burglar," was in his 10th year of the 20-year sentence. He has been in and out of prison since he was 16.

Innocent-Looking U. S. Propaganda At Work Behind Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — A State Department report disclosed today that innocent-looking photographs and booklets are being used to circulate anti-Communist propaganda behind the iron curtain.

The department's Voice of America, in current overseas broadcasts, is quoting from one such publication, an illustrated sports album which it said has been secretly circulated among Red army occupation troops in Hungary.

As described by the Voice, the album bears the disarming title "Sports In Hungary." The pictures show Hungarians engaged in a variety of Communist-sponsored sports activities, but the Russian language text was said to contain plain spoken anti-Soviet attacks.

Greedy Grab Of Volunteers By Top Air Force Leaders Charged By Investigators

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. (AP)—Investigating senators today accused top Air Force leaders of a greedy grab for the cream of the nation's manpower.

The result, they said, is that the Air Force has built up a wasteful overload of top-notch volunteers anxious to escape being drafted into the ground forces, and the Army is "deliberately" deprived of men it could use more to the nation's advantage.

The public censure came from the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex).

It resulted from a study of crowded conditions during late December and January at Lackland Air Base, center of Air Force basic training, near San Antonio, Texas.

The inquiry, together with two ordered by the Air Force, resulted from letters to senators from parents of trainees writing home about conditions.

Four committee investigators found that as many as 68,731 trainees were jammed into a training center with a capacity for 27,500. That was an overflow of 41,231.

"Because Lackland Air Force Base facilities were so overcrowded and overtaxed, the Air Force training program collapsed," Chairman Johnson said in an accompanying statement. "The indoctrination and basic training was totally abandoned."

"Thus the situation at Lackland was the direct result of the Air Force's greed for the best of the nation's available manpower," the report said.

The stinging report said there was "no excuse" for the Air Force policy and blamed top Air Force officers in Washington.

Lackland officers, except for Capt. Myron Roth in charge of public relations, got a pat on the back for doing the best they could with an impossible situation.

U. S. Ambassador To Capetown Dies

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Feb. 18. (AP)—U. S. Ambassador John G. Erhardt was found dead in his bed today. Cause of death was given as coronary thrombosis.

The 61-year-old diplomat was well yesterday. Mrs. Erhardt found him dead when she went to his room this morning.

Ambassador Erhardt was nominated to the diplomatic post last May and arrived here in September.

The body will be taken back to the United States for burial.

Attlee Assailed By "Red Dean"

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Britains "Red Dean" of Canterbury sharply attacked Prime Minister Clement Attlee today and demanded a halt to British rearmament and other policies which he said were leading to war.

In a message to the Moscow Communist Party newspaper Pravda, the dean—Dr. Hewlett Johnson—praised Prime Minister Stalin's condemnation of the Western Powers published in that newspaper Friday.

Dr. Johnson is known as the "Red Dean" because of his pro-Soviet leanings. He sent the message to Pravda—and released copies to the press here — in his capacity as president of the British-Soviet Friendship Society.

Stalin, in an interview in Pravda, had accused Attlee of slandering Russia by declaring in Parliament Soviet forces had not been demobilized. He also charged the United Nations had become a tool of the United States and an instrument of war.

The Dean's message accused Attlee of following the "path marked out by the government of the United States" and declared that Stalin had reasserted the Soviet desire for peace.

Five Feared Lost In Boat Sinking

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18 (AP)—A helicopter snatched one man from drowning in the Pacific off Ocean Beach here today, but five others are feared lost in the floundering of a fishing boat.

Lt. (jg) Thomas J. Hynes, Coast Guard helicopter pilot, said he rescued one man from the boat Joane, but that he was told five others were aboard. He said he saw two bodies in the surf but was unable to reach them.

The fishing boat had been caught by the rolling Pacific surf and drifted helplessly in toward the beach before floundering.

Besides the helicopter, the Coast Guard had dispatched an amphibious truck to the scene, but only the aircraft had been able to reach the stricken boat before she went down.

The names of the survivor and the missing men were not immediately available.

Will "Educate" POWs

Boy Goes On Spending Spree After Taking Aunt's $32,000

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—A 16-year-old Chicago boy who admitted taking $32,000 from his aunt glumly turned the pockets of his new cowboy duds inside out today to show photographers he's flat broke now.

But Chicago police said that was hardly true — chunky, 185-pound James Walter Miller has a $3,500 account in a Chicago bank and $35,000 in trust for him.

The $29,840 left of his aunt's money after the boy's spending spree with a Dallas cabbie as his scared and unwilling guest is in the hands of the FBI. Miller is in the Bexar County jail here awaiting arraignment tomorrow on a federal charge of interstate transportation of stolen property in excess of $5,000.

In Chicago, the boy's mother, Mrs. Margaret Ordas, confirmed he took the money from his aunt, Mrs. Cora Andrews, a Skid Row hotel operator. Mrs. Ogdas said her sister got the the money by selling war bonds.

But Mrs. Andrews said she amassed the $32,000 by living frugally and inheriting $14,000 from a former hotel resident whose needs she tended. "I always save whatever I can," she said.

Chicago Police Lt. Thomas Murphy said Mrs. Andrews refused to sign a complaint against the boy.

Nevertheless, the FBI said here Miller will be arraigned tomorrow before U. S. Commissioner T. A. Lockhart.

Aviation Pioneer And Inventor Dies

NEVADA CITY, Calif., Feb. 18 (AP)—Lyman Gilmore, pioneer inventor and promoter of heavier-than-air flight, died today after a two-week illness. He was 74.

Gilmore contributed many ideas to modern aviation, among them theories of monoplane wing design which are in use today.

He had experimented with heavier-than-air flight in the Sierra Nevada foothills of California before the Wright brothers made their first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903.

Friends recall he had developed the concept of a cabin monoplane, while the Wright brothers still favored the biplane early in this century.

Floods, Landslides Kill Nine In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 18 (AP)—A 48-hour downpour which caused floods and landslides cut this capital's lifeline to the sea today. At least nine persons were dead and three missing.

Tons of boulders and earth, loosened by the torrents, blocked the 23-mile mountainous highway from this city of 600,000 to La Guaira, the seaport.

That night they hid in a haystack. In the morning the two prisoners and two of three South Korean lieutenants in the party were gone.

The group started south again but decided they could not make it during the day. Again they holed up in a haystack.

Next morning they came close to a village. Some wanted to stay there all day. Limerick objected, so the group divided up and about half started for the village.

Limerick said the others were about half a block from the houses when a hidden gun opened up and mowed down all of them.

Limerick and his group continued south, travelling only by night.

At 1:00 a.m. this morning the group was halted by a South Korean soldier.

12 Of 28 Allied Soldiers Survive Dangerous Trek

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Feb. 18 (AP) — Twelve Allied soldiers reached United Nations lines today after a seven-day trek through enemy territory. They were the survivors of an original group of 28 which started south from the hills north of Hoengsang Feb. 11.

Sgt. Charles W. Limerick, Fort Smith, Ark., led the survivors to safety. He told this story:

His vehicle was shot out from under him at a road block north of Hoengsang Feb. 11. He and his men slipped into the hills, where they joined up with others to make a total party of 28.

They started south and walked through the hills all day. The group ran into 15 enemy soldiers and engaged them in a fire fight, killing 11 and capturing two.

U. S. Ship Sights Mystery Missiles In Korean Waters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The sighting of mysterious, smoke-trailing missiles by an American warship in Korean waters is reported in the current issue of Naval Aviation News, an official Navy magazine.

A Navy spokesman said, in response to a reporter's inquiry, that the incident occurred last December and has not been previously publicized.

Naval Aviation prints the report from the seaplane tender Gardiners Bay under a heading which asks: "Sighting Flying Discs Again?"

The story from the Gardiners Bay says two mysterious missiles trailing long white smoke trails in the sky struck the water at great speed off the ship's port bow while it was steaming up the channel from Inchon.

Stalin Statement Seen As Oblique Move For Parley

West Envoys Expect Major Developments

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP)—Several experienced western diplomats in Moscow consider Prime Minister Stalin's recent Pravda interview an oblique bid for peace talks with the West, despite its strong reemphasis of Soviet foreign policy.

These diplomats suggest the statement was meant to be an indication that the door is still open, at least conditionally, for a peace settlement among the great powers.

Only A Hypothesis

They concede that this is only a hypothesis and think that if their idea is correct, Stalin's answer to Pravda's questions may be followed by other developments clarifying this point.

They emphasize Stalin's carefully qualified statement that a new world war cannot be considered inevitable, "at least at the present time." The diplomats interpret this as a warning on the one hand and, on the other, as an important declaration of the view of the Soviet leader that the world has not yet gone too far down the road toward war to stop.

The western envoys consider it possible that Stalin's comments may be followed by important developments here which would be interpreted by the Russians as showing the Soviet leader's statement the U.S.S.R. is concentrating on developing its peacetime economy and raising the standard of living was not just words.

Air Of Expectancy

Such developments might be:

Possible price reductions, with perhaps a simultaneous change in the ruble exchange rate and other striking measures; an announcement on a fifth five-year plan at the Supreme Soviet, parliament of the U.S.S.R. which convenes March 6; or new and important foreign policy pronouncements.

It is correct to say that, in any case, an air of expectancy has prevailed here since the Stalin interview.

A-Bomb Rated Fourth Most Terrible Weapon

GRAND ISLAND, Nebr., Feb. 18 (AP)—The atomic bomb now ranks fourth among potential military weapons, Earle Cocke, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, declared today.

Addressing the mid-winter conference of the Nebraska Department of the American Legion, Cocke said the hydrogen bomb, germ warfare and guided missiles rank ahead of the atomic bomb.

Allies Prowl Deep But Find Poor Hunting

No Chinese Found South Of Han River

TOKYO, Monday, Feb. 19 (AP)—Chinese Reds fell back today in the 70-mile area between Korea's west coast and Wonju in the mountainous middle of the peninsula.

They appeared to have given up virtually all territory south of the Han River which skirts the edge of Red-held Seoul.

Allied patrols prowled deep but found poor hunting.

The only enemy effort at a fight was made by North Koreans around Chechon, 20 miles southeast of Wonju.

AP Correspondent William J. Waugh reported that light enemy attacks were repulsed today along a 10-mile front north of Chechon.

In the west, Turkish troops swept the entire peninsula northwest of Seoul without finding any Chinese.

Red Supply Route Cut

East of Seoul, the U. S. Ninth Corps advanced six miles across ridges in a 20-mile sector from north of Kyongan to Chipyong.

The troops found only dead Chinese and abandoned weapons.

British forces advanced four miles northeast of Kyongan, a highway town 17 miles southeast of Seoul.

Ninth Corps infantrymen swept unopposed across the Han River and occupied the abandoned Communist headquarters of Yangpyong, 27 miles east of Seoul. That cut a hitherto vital highway supply route from the northeast into Seoul.

Around Chipyong, where the Chinese suffered a crushing defeat last week in a breakthrough attempt, the U. S. Eighth Army communique today said resistance was scattered with the enemy withdrawing to the north.

Six-Mile Allied Advance

A six-mile advance carried American troops to a point 10 miles northeast of Chipyong, Allied bastion on the central front.

The story was the same around Wonju, 20 miles southeast of Chipyong—scene of last week's artillery "Wonju shoot" which shattered two Red divisions. Allied patrols fanned northeast and west of Wonju without finding the foe.

The hunting was so slim that Allied troops inflicted only 806 casualties on the Reds in ground action Sunday. This was the first time in three weeks a day's bag failed to reach four figures.

Yangpyong's abandonment accented the depth of the enemy withdrawal.

One week ago that sector teemed with Chinese at the start of their unsuccessful drive to crash through United Nations defenses and split the Eighth Army. The Red offensive stalled after the Reds in ground action alone lost 81,400 men dead, wounded or captured in six bloody days of intense fighting.

Eisler Admits "Deviationism"

BERLIN, Feb. 18 (AP) — Gerhart Eisler, Soviet zone propaganda chief, admitted today he once strayed from the Communist dogma requiring implicit obedience to the Kremlin and its chosen leaders. He said his sin — "deviationism" — was committed 20 years ago.

"It is my task now to watch that I do not repeat such mistakes," Eisler wrote in the East German Socialist Unity (Communist) Party's mimeographed news service.

Such self-criticism is considered by Communists to be a worthy action.

Eisler wrote that he supported a group of "deviationists" in Germany in 1927 and 1928. The group opposed Ernst Thaelmann as chairman of the central committee on policy toward the Socialists. Eisler said he then thought the Socialists could be won over by slow reform rather than abrupt revolution.

Stalin backed Thaelmann and the revisionists lost. Thaelmann died in a Nazi concentration camp and is now a revered hero in Communist East Germany.

"We had refused to understand that our policy was incompatible with the policy of a Marxist-Leninst Party," Eisler wrote. "There cannot be friendship of men who are fighting Stalin and his party."

Foreign and West German observers speculated whether Eisler's article contains a significent tipoff on East-West German relations.

The east has been demanding all-German talks. Eisler's philosophy would almost forbid any meeting of minds with those who openly oppose Stalin and Communism.

Nurses See "Awareness" In 1947 Accident Victim, Doomed To Living Death

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. — (AP) — Does conscience still linger in the brain of Ralpth C. Abbott who, for four years, has lain in a coma at Cushing Veterans Hospital?

Only "a medical miracle," his doctors say, can awaken the 34-year-old former Army sergeant whose car plunged from a highway into a tree in the early morning darkness of February 17, 1947, and hurled him headlong against a stone wall.

And yet, his nurses say they sometimes wonder if he doesn't understand what they are doing for him although unable to express himself. They say they get at times impressions of awareness on his part.

And his mother, Mrs. Isaac Abbott of Norwood, tells of sitting at her son's bedside and, while he made no outward response to her attempts to speak to him, she saw a tear trickle from his closed eye. His nurses think the sound of music stimulates him.

His case strangely parallels that of the anonymous patient X at Cincinnati's Bethesda Hospital who likewise suffered brain injury in a February accident four years before Abbott was hurt.

Abbott, chief ward attendant at Cushing, was driving to his work from another veterans' hospital in Waltham when his car swerved from the Boston Post Road.

Operations, treatment, failed to restore outward evidence of consciousness. He became the object of prolonged research on the part of physicians and brain specialists. They finally concluded his brain had been so severely damaged that he might never awaken again—unless by a medical miracle.

During the years, his father has journeyed regularly the 15 miles from the family's Norwood home to visit his son. After three years of daily visits, Isaac Abbott (now 64) reduced his visits to thrice weekly, a schedule he still maintains. Neighbors in Norwood joined in helping the Abbots in their efforts to get additional medical care in their attempt to bring about recovery of their son.

Abbott is fed a concentrated liquid diet through a tube. So expertly has he been cared for that he shows no blemish. He maintains, unchanged, his weight which dropped about 20 pounds after the accident. He gets daily shaves, frequent haircuts.

Doctors say he may live indefinitely unless stricken by a kidney, liver or bronchial infection.

When his parents come to sit at his bedside, the doctors say: "Still unconscious . . . no change."

But the nurses say, "He seems to hear music. He sometimes seems to know we are helping him."

Must you stick to cover-up styles because of what the baretop fashions reveal? That problem is solved today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THERE is no wisdom in sacrificing an ounce of fashion when you can sacrifice a pound of flesh instead. To forego wearing the clothes you long to wear because of a figure difficulty blights your confidence in your ability to present a fashion-right appearance.

With fashion putting more emphasis on bare-topped designs, that is just what will happen to the damsels who hide excess flesh across the back and under the arms by wearing cover-up clothes. But, if they start offering up that unwanted flesh today in a ritual of reducing and toning exercises, by the time warm weather arrives, they can flaunt baretop fashions whenever they please!

So Easy And Effective

There are two corrective routines that are so easy you won't believe their effectiveness until you try them and see the results:

1. Stand erect or sit on a stool. Bend your arms so that your elbows are close to your sides and your hands are touching your shoulder joints. Clench your fists lightly.

Swing your elbows forward and backward in a vigorous, "pumping" fashion. With every swing, be sure that the insides of your upper arms gently massage the roll of fatty tissue under them. Work up from twenty to a hundred swings daily.

2. Sit on a stool or on the floor. Rest your fingers lightly on your shoulders and pull your elbows up to a position parallel to your shoulder joints.

Slow, Then Quick

Describe very large, slow circles with your elbows. Circle them forward, up, back and down in a firm, decided manner. Concentrate on the backward pull. After twenty circlings, swing your elbows forward to touch in front of your chest. Then, very quickly fling them back as far as you can. Twenty times for this part of the routine, too.

At all times, beware of carrying your shoulders in slumped or curved positions. The strain of these positions causes the muscles across the shoulders to spread, leaving pockets in the tissue where extra flesh can reside and thrive.

Tomorrow: Fabrics that are fashion setters.

P. S. from J. R. P.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is any age free from problems?

Answer: Not completely, but according to Dr. Mary Dingwall, writing in Mental Health (London), among healthy children the years between seven and eleven have fewer emotional disturbances than any others—in fact at this age a child is less emotional or demonstrative than ever before or after. For this is the so-called "scientific age," when a child's main interest is in gathering information about the external world. It is also the age when sexual feeling is most nearly "latent." If a child of this age appears less responsive to affection than before, it is just because he is "too busy."

May happiness "drive you to drink"?

Answer: Not really, though it may appear to. The fact that so many people "celebrate" a great success or the end of a period of strain by drinking too much would appear to contradict the theory that the purpose of intoxication is "escape." But if you drink when you are particularly happy, it is because of an unconscious need to drown the fear that your joy is too good to last, or that you don't deserve it and will therefore have to suffer for it later. If you drink when a great danger is past, it is to wipe out the remaining traces of anxiety and tension.

Is it true women "don't know what they want"?

Answer: No one is entirely conscious of his underlying aims and wishes. But there are particular reasons why a woman today may have conscious desires and goals that are wholly different from her unconscious ones. For to the degree that this appears to be a man's world, a girl will inevitably wish with one part of her mind to enjoy the advantages of masculinity even to the point of proving that she can "do anything a man can." This will tend to hide even from her the fact that in her biological and deeper emotional needs, she is still a woman.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)— EVERYBODY'S got an idea on what would make a good movie. Including me. Including, also, everybody who writes for a newspaper, because in our trade we get a lot of mail from people who say in effect that this or that film stinks and the writer of the letter has an idea which will sweep the country.

Angriest fellow who has approached me lately on which films should and should not be made, is Harry G. Green, "biographical-historical-analytical researcher" from Chicago. (Cable address: Greeno, which, regrettably, sounds like a game played at my church.)

Mr. Green is mad at (1) Field Marshall Rommel, (2) Nunnally Johnson, (3) Darryl Zanuck, and (4) Twentieth Century-Fox. He is mad enough to have printed some envelopes for his indignant mail which carry a legend saying, in effect, "They won't make a picture about MacArthur, Nimitz, Eisenhower, Patton, etc. So they make a picture about Rommel." They, meaning Hollywood.

Mr. Green is a World War I vet, past commander of the fine American Unity Post of the American Legion in Chicago and at present a member of the Chipilly Post of the Legion in Chicago. And a good man.

• — • — •

He is angry especially at Nunnally Johnson, who apparently is going to do (or has done) the script on the Rommel picture. I don't know Mr. Johnson but am sympathetically drawn to him, because he has to do a movie script. Mr. Green is mad at everybody else concerned with the film, including Mr. Zanuck who, not incidentally, did a courageous job in North Africa in World War II at an age which relieved him of the necessity of doing it.

I sympathize with Mr. Green. I, too, think that there should be movies about the generals he mentions and some that he didn't mention — notably Jonathan Wainwright, now of Fort Sam Houston in San Antone.

Don't know much about movie-making but it seems to me that the fellows out Hollywood way will film almost anything that looks like a good and interesting story. A story that will either appeal to or be understood by a great many people. It's a wholesaler's business and, by and large, a worthwhile one.

They'd start a picture tomorrow about the unfilmed generals mentioned by Mr. Green or by me if they had a shooting script in hand that didn't promise to lose their shirts. So happens that Twentieth has come up with a book by a British brigadier about Rommel that has real meat—including an ending.

• — • — •

That is most important—an ending. Nobody in Hollywood will make a sports picture today, for instance, if the hero isn't about to die. Nobody ever lived a more dramatic life than Jack Dempsey, let's say for example, but if his life was filmed authentically it would have to end with his opening a restaurant on Broadway. This is a climax? A fine life, dramatically, is also the one lived by Gene Tunney. But you'd have to end the movie with a scene showing Gene being named a member of a new board of directors of a company manufacturing squeegee boards or some-such.

I've got a movie coming up for Herbert Yates of Republic called "Hoodlum Empire" which concerns some of the distinguished hoods recently brought before the Kefauver committee. But it has an ending, I hope. That's terribly vital, the Hollywood fellows believe, and they've been right so long — and have so much to say about it — that it's difficult to contest the point.

I haven't read the Rommel book from which Nunnally Johnson fashioned his script but I know a little something about Rommel from some translations I've read of Nazis who knew him. Far as I can see the fellow was the kind of military man his military enemies recognized as big league, and his part in the plot to kill Hitler (which cost him his life, eventually) was well played and taken, I think.

Personally, I wouldn't mind seeing a picture about Stalin if it ended properly with the bum's death and a change in that setup over there. I think a good movie about Mussolini would be okay, too, and I happen to have a script in my pocket which I might possibly part with for $5,000,000 (tax free.)

But, on the other hand, I can appreciate why Mr. Green feels upset about such things, especially about Rommel. And it seems to me that his one-man campaign against this picture should make its intelligent producers—who are good Americans, as is Mr. Green — try just a little harder to prove that they were right in selecting that talented beast Rommel as a subject. Hollywood will get around to the more respectable generals soon enough.

Boys Who Destroyed Church Property Get Suspended Terms

Six juveniles, involved in two breaking and entering cases in the Klondike area, received suspended sentences to the Maryland Training School for Boys after hearings in Juvenile Court here yesterday.

Four of the boys including one who was involved in both robberies, were convicted of burning hymn books and 36 Bible lesson books taken from a Klondike church.

County authorities who investigated reported that the boys entered the church through an unlocked window and took a chest containing the church literature along with an amount of change.

The literature was found beside George's Creek partially burned. All of it was rendered useless by exposure to the weather.

The breaking and entering took place in December and the case was solved during the investigation of another that took place January 20.

Authorities stated that on January 20 three boys, one of whom had been involved in the church literature burning episode, entered the home of Anna Elizabeth Stott at Klondike.

It being a mild night, Mrs. Stott raised a window in her home before she left to go to Frostburg.

The three boys entered through this window and took loot valued at $50. It included a wrist watch, a pork roast from the refrigerator, cash money and three Canadian pennies.

One of the trio spent one of the Canadian pennies in a store in the neighborhood and was picked up as a result. Most of the loot was recovered, authorities added.

The sentence meted out Saturday in Cumberland provided that the boys be of good behavior or face being sent to the Maryland Training School for Boys until they are 18 years of age. The six lads ranged in age from nine years to 13 years.

Trooper First Class William F. Baker, criminal investigator at the LaVale Barracks of Maryland State Police, spear-headed the probe.

DROPPING A SINGLETON

AMONG all the situations in which a sound declarer tries to drop a singleton king, when able to attempt an ordinary finesse against it, the most important is that in which he can't afford to lose the lead to a particular defender if the finesse should fail. With No Trump game contracts particularly, it frequently develops early in the play that the declarer is beaten if one defender gets the lead, either to run the established cards of a suit or to come through some guarded honor. When that is the case, the declarer increases his chances slightly by trying to drop the king, which will fall if it is unguarded.

Most good players would have preferred to start the bidding with 1-No Trump on South's hand, but the contract would have been the same, and so probably would the lead, which was the spade 3. East won that with the A and returned the 5. West, seeing all lower cards, knew that was East's last since it was his lowest, so won with the K and returned the 2. Now South knew West had five spades originally and still had the established 8 and 7.

If West should maange to win a trick in any other suit, he could then peel off the two spade tricks which would set the contract. South could afford, however, to let East gain the lead, as the latter could not lead a spade to West. Even if the club finesse were destined to be a winner, laying down of the A would not impair the contract. If that enabled East to win the next club, South still could count up to ten tricks with one in spades, three in hearts, two in diamonds and four in clubs.

After South did that counting, he saw that the safety of his contract could be enhanced by protecting himself against a singleton club K with West. So the fourth trick he laid down the club A. When it felled the K, he was able to run eleven tricks.

Brotherhood Week

Brotherhood Week, under the sponsorship of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, opened Sunday. The national chairman for community observance is Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, the Negro who heads the UN trusteeship organization and was awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1950.

The world has gone some distance toward recognizing that all men are brothers since the Constitution of the United States as drawn up in 1787 gave sanction, in effect, to Negro chattel slavery. In the South lynching has all but disappeared, and the number of Negroes voting, even in Democratic primaries, has reached respectable proportions.

No government of a great power now deliberately abets anti-Semitism, as it was abetted by Bismarck and Hitler in Germany and under the czars in imperial Russia. Organizations in this country that foster racial prejudices have nothing like the following that the Ku Klux Klan enjoyed for some years after World War I. In the Far East the men and women who once crassly echoed Rudyard Kipling's complaint of the "White Man's Burden" have now gone into the discard.

But the world has still a long, long way to go toward accepting the dictum of the Declaration of Independence that "all men are created equal." In the United States itself, the national capital, while eschewing Jim Crow in transportation, segregates the races in its public school system. And the large Negro population of the City of Washington (around 35 per cent) is the chief behind-the-scenes reason why Congress will not vote for self-government for the city.

In South Africa the dominance of racism has led to discrimination against Blacks and East Indians that seems a throw-back to the Dark Ages. In India and Pakistan, the Hindu and the Moslem, although of the same race, nourish bitter animosities from religious differences. It is not only in the United States that Brotherhood Week has a job to do.

The government has banned the use of nickel in non-essentials. If the number of items purchasable with the nickel keeps shrinking, it can soon be put on the non-essential list.

Vanishing Surpluses

Impact of war and preparation for war on the nation's economy is illustrated by the change in farm surpluses. A few months ago they were a mounting problem calling for a new approach.

Now government holdings of cheese, butter, cotton and wool have almost disappeared and the surpluses of the major grains—corn and wheat—are so highly regarded they are being stockpiled against future emergency. The government has already called upon the farmers to produce more of them. Potato control has been abandoned.

Wheat is needed against the possibility of feeding allies in a war, and there is a high priority on corn to keep meat supplies adequate. The changed prospect is reflected in prices, wheat quotations being at their high in several years despite a large surplus.

The Commodity Credit Corporation claims a loss of only $773,000,000 in its 17-year history. This, however, does not include administrative costs, interest and storage charges, which exceed the sales losses. CCC has authority to use nearly $5,000,000,000, and currently has $2,688,000,000 invested in price supports. It would appear that a considerable saving could be effected in this field, holding the budget down and avoiding some of the proposed new taxes.

This general situation of challenging economic problems that can be solved only by war calls for searching analysis. Is the American economic system so decadent that it must be supported by emergency after emergency to keep it working at top speed and stave off collapse of the standard of living? And what happens when the nation runs out of emergencies? Will it then be necessary to create another?

The Bureau of Internal Revenue accepts "sundry wagers" as an item in a racketeer's income report. But don't try that as an item in business deductions.

Dead Tigers, Live Rabbits

The tiger is as great a symbol of ferocity and wild power in China as the bull is in Spain. It must have seemed altogether fitting and proper, then, that last year, when two Chinese offensives in Korea sent UN forces down for the count of nine, should have been designated in the Chinese calendar as the Year of the Tiger.

Now that year is ended, and the year 4649 began last week. It has the less formidable designation of Year of the Golden Rabbit. Rabbits, when driven to it, can be more formidable fighters than most persons realize; but they are not commonly aggressors, and they never fight when it is possible to run away. That is why there are so many rabbits in the world, and so few tigers.

Traditional Chinese warfare, despite aspects of callous brutality, has for the most part emulated the sensible rabbit rather than the raging tiger. The conjunction of Communist rule with the Year of the Tiger seemed to change all that. But now the Chinese in Korea are suffering casualties appalling enough to daunt even a tiger. Will these tools of Kremlin policy presently note what year it is by their calendar, and decide that there is a lot to be said for the old tradition?

Winston Churchill is one of those rarities on the world scene — a man who both makes history and writes it.

H-Bomb Rumors

Rumors have been plentiful, since the last of the five nuclear explosions near Las Vegas, Nev., was set off, to the effect that the Nevada explosions were tests of the "trigger" of an H-bomb, the super-super nuclear bomb that the United States has been trying to invent. If the trigger—or percussion cap—is so tremendous, what will the hell-bomb itself be like?

The fifth explosion was the world's 14 nuclear detonation since the begining of time. One of the 14 took place in Russia. The other 13 were set off by the United States. And Russia cannot fail to be impressed by the fact that this country has atomic explosives to burn. There wouldn't be much left of Russia's stockpile (if informed guesses are at all close) after 13 nuclear detonations. And U. S. experiments are still continuing.

Time is a great rectifier. And it never lacks things to rectify.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Rickettsialpox From Mice

RICKETTSIALPOX, one of our newest diseases, was discovered in the spring of 1946 among a group of persons residing in a housing development in Queens borough, New York City. Since then cases have been detected in other boroughs and, more recently, in a woman living in Boston. In time, the malady will show up in other parts of the country.

This "critter" exists in the common house mouse and is transmitted to man thru the bite of the mouse mite. This is not an unusual way for man to contract a rickettsial infection. A related disease, Rocky mountain spotted fever, is acquired thru the bite of several species of ticks from infected rodents living in mountainous areas. The body louse is the culprit in epidemic typhus which is so prevalent during conditions of war and famine. The causative organisms of murine typhus are harbored in the common rat and are passed on to man by the rat flea. At any rate, rickettsialpox offers another reason for declaring war against mice.

• — • — •

The illness of most victims of this disease follows a definite pattern. The bite of the rodent mite looks like a pimple at first but changes shortly thereafter to a water blister that breaks and dries and soon becomes covered with a dark-brown or blackish crust. The lesion may be on any part of the body, including the face and feet. It lasts for about three weeks and during this period nearby lumph glands enlarge and become tender. From two to seven days after the appearance of the initial lesion, chills and fever develop. Many sufferers are drenched in perspiration and complain of headache, backache, and muscular discomfort. Stiff neck, cough, sore throat, nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea also occur in some.

Meanwhile a hybrid rash appears that is half-way between that seen in chickenpox and in Rocky mountain spotted fever. The individual lesions of this eruption are slightly elevated and reddened; many are capped by a tiny blister or vesicle. They usually remain for three to eight days and then disappear spontaneously. They do not itch or burn, which is a blessing in view of the fact that the patient is having more than his share of discomfort.

• — • — •

The diagnosis is made by a laboratory study of the blood. Whenever possible, an attempt is made to catch the mice for laboratory tests. The causative organism is said to be susceptible to aureomycin and chloromycetin and in this respect treatment is available. Every one apparently recovers as no fatalities have been reported.

The Boston victim frequently had seen mice in the shop where she worked and Rickettsia akari were found in the mice trapped there. Because the woman had not been out of Boston for five months prior to this illness, her physicians were reasonably certain that she had contracted the disease there. This meant that an infected animal reservoir existed in that city. She was a hat maker by trade and there was some discussion that the organisms might have been transmitted in the millinery material. But this idea was dispelled when the organisms were found in the mice.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses aspects of stomach cancer.

WINTER ITCH

L. W. writes: What can I do for cold weather itch?

REPLY

This condition usually is caused by dryness of the skin. Treatment directed toward overcoming this grease deficiency will give relief. Some sufferers are helped by the daily application of cold cream or olive oil to the skin. Others find themselves more comfortable when they do not use soap in the bath. Individuals with severe winter itch may find it necessary to give up the use of water. The skin may then be cleansed with oil.

DEPLETED BLOOD SUGAR

B. W. writes: If the level of the blood sugar runs low is it better to eat lots of starchy foods or meats?

REPLY

For immediate relief, starchy foods are better because they raise the blood sugar level rapidly. In the long run, proteins and fats are more helpful because they are absorbed more slowly. This means that the blood sugar level is maintained over a longer period of time.

EYES AND KIDNEYS

B. T. writes: Can kidney trouble affect the eyes?

REPLY

Nephritis presents many ocular symptoms such as puffiness of the lids and conjunctive and changes in the retina caused by blood vessel disturbances. In the latter, vision is disturbed.

Ike—The Candidate For Both Parties? Korean Intelligence Has Improved; Ex-Senator Wheeler Maneuvers For A Comeback

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — General Eisenhower may find himself in the embarrassing position of getting the Democratic nomination for President in 1952, whether he wants it or not.

This leaked out of the White House after a private remark made by President Truman to a political adviser, who had told him about a plan on the part of anti-Truman Democrats — including Jimmy Byrnes and Jim Farley—to nominate Eisenhower.

Mr. Truman's reply was a bit plaintive but apparently sincere. "Well, if Ike wants it," he said, "I'll nominate him myself."

This coincides with a statement by Speaker Sam Rayburn that Eisenhower could have the Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket—a statement made by a man who doesn't often cross wires with Truman.

Meanwhile some of Ike's friends are saying the General will get the nomination from both parties and force a realignment of American politics. One friend expressed it this way: "The times demand a great man with wide personal appeal. Ike is the only man on the American scene who can command this kind of following, and the politicians know it. There are some in both parties who are ganging up against him, but the public pressure will be so great in 1952 that nothing can stop him."

Better Korean Intelligence

There have been two highly important developments regarding the Korean War. No. 1 is a vast improvement in our intelligence. No. 2 is a series of backstage conferences regarding the vital question of advancing beyond the 38th Parallel.

U. S. intelligence is now so good that Gen. Matt Ridgway knew exactly where the Chinese were going to hit when they staged last week's drive on the central front. He also knew when the Chinese would hit and their approximate strength. He also knew when the Chinese would hit and their approximate strength. Only mistake he made was in slightly under estimating Chinese strength.

As a result of this advance intelligence, Ridgway pulled 17 artillery units into position and the Chinese Communist armies walked right into this ring of withering artillery fire. This was the reason for the devastating casualties.

Reasons for General Ridgway's vastly improved intelligence have been his careful patrolling operations to find out what the enemy was doing, also excellent air observation, also a trip to Korea taken by Maj. Gen. A. R. Bolling, head of Army intelligence in Washington, and Gen. Bedell Smith, head of Central intelligence, MacArthur's sometimes faulty intelligence had been in charge of his intimate friend, Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby.

38th Or 39th Parallel

Nervous State Department conferees, considering the crossing of the 38th Parallel, were almost bowled over when handed a recommendation from General Ridgway that he be allowed not only to cross the 38th but proceed to the 39th Parallel.

Ridgway argued that there is a bottleneck at the 39th Parallel which UN troops could hold much easier against Chinese counterattack than at the 38th Parallel where Korea is wider. This would mean recapturing the North Korean Capital of Pyongyang and opening the ports of Inchon and Wonsan.

General MacArthur, when consulted about the proposed advance, was cautious. He didn't favor sticking our necks out in the Communist den of North Korea, proposed limited patrols above the 38th Parallel instead.

But in Washington, the Joint Chiefs of Staff are inclined to go along with Ridgway's proposal regardless of both the State Department and MacArthur. Meanwhile no definite instructions have been sent him and until he receives them, Ridgway's job, as commander-in-the-field, is to use his own judgment.

Ex-Senator Wheeler

Ex-Senator Burt Wheeler of Montana, long one of the most powerful figures in Washington and the Northwest, has been itching to get back into politics. Already he has been maneuvering for a possible Senate comeback, and that was the backstage reason for a recent blow-up inside the Office of Price Administration.

Senator Wheeler, a thorn in the side of Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, and later Franklih Roosevelt, cleaned out the Harry Dougherty mess in the Justice Department and put across some of FDR's most important new deal legislation. But after a quarrel with the Administration, he was defeated for re-election in 1946.

But the other day, when Adm. John Hoover resigned in a huff as chief price enforcement officer, it was a tip-off to those in the know that the powerful hand of Burt Wheeler was operating again.

For Wheeler, in order to attract GOP support had arranged for the appointment of two Montana Republicans, ex-Governor Sam Ford and Ernest Immel, to important jobs in price stabilization.

Wheeler had cleared these with his old friend, Harry Truman. But as an afterthought a White House aide called Senator Murray of Montana, bitter foe of Wheeler's, to get his OK on the appointments.

"You had better read the Congressional Directory again!" exploded Charles Murray, son of the Democratic Senator. "The Senator from Montana is named Murray, not Wheeler."

As a result, the White House killed the two Wheeler appointments. Simultaneously, another Wheeler appointee inside the Price Stabilizer's Office got sore and resigned — Admiral Hoover. When Hoover resigned, however, he did not mention that he was the brother of Harold Hoover of the Anaconda Copper Company, biggest backer of ex-Senator Wheeler.

Washington Pipeline

The Senate District Committee was short a few senators to make a quorum the other day, so Clerk Ann Monat hustled out and rounded up enough senators to start the meeting. The first item of business, ironically, was an economy measure that resulted in firing Ann Monat. . . . Ex-Sen. Rufus Holman, Oregon Republican, borrowed the telephone at the Senate guard's desk the other day to make an appointment with Sen. George Malone, Nevada Republican. Holman's name, however, didn't mean anything to Malone's office. Patiently the ex-Senator from Oregon spelled his name to the office of the Senator from Nevada, then sighed: "Such is fame."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Two Out Of Ten

WASHINGTON

At least $2,000,000,000 out of every $10,000,000,000 appropriated for the defense of the United States since the Korean aggression has gone up in inflationary smoke. This simple fact, which should send shivers up the spine of any sensible man, provides the right background for understanding the vitally important issues in dispute between Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board and Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder.

A few specific examples will serve to show what has been happening to the defense dollar. A big bazooka, a recoil-less gun, or a heavy mortar all now cost well over 5 per cent more than before Korea. A pair of combat boots for an infantryman or a flight jacket for a flyer costs upward of 60 per cent more. It costs 16 per cent more to feed troops—and the expense is increasing rapidly. Army ordnance—the "hardware" which provides the army with the means to fight—is up 40 per cent overall, and "hardware" for the other three services has increased comparably.

Largely because of this sort of thing, the services will shortly go back to Congress for a third supplemental appropriation in this fiscal year. Thus the process continues, with no end in sight; the Congress appropriates dollars; the dollars do not buy what they were supposed to buy; and the services return to Congress for more dollars.

Basic Facts Simple

The same process is at work everywhere in the economy. Eccles and his numerous supporters, including many reputable economists, are convinced that this inflation is essentially a money inflation, deriving from the fiscal policies of the government itself. Rearmament has not yet taken a really serious bite out of the whole economy. In the last seven months, moreover, the government has actually been collecting more in cash than it has been spending. Plain human greed no doubt accounts for part of the inflation, but greed cannot possibly account for all of it.

The real explanation, according to Eccles and his supporters, lies elsewhere. The basic facts in the Eccles-Snyder dispute, the most important domestic economic issue in many years, are simple enough. Secretary Snyder insists, with the backing of President Truman, that government bonds be redeemed on demand by the Federal Reserve Board at full face value. This is intended to make sure that bonds can be sold at low interest rates, and thus interest on the huge public debt, which must be included in the annual budget, can be kept as low as possible.

This sounds sensible enough on the face of it. But Eccles contends that the net effect is precisely the same as though the government printed tons of greenbacks, and injected them into the economy. In a time of inflation, with the value of the dollar falling, big bond holders cash in their bonds. This money then goes into the spending stream, adding to total deposits in banks. The banks then loan the money, thus multiplying credit—which is equivalent to cash in purchasing power—by a ratio of about 6 to 1.

Census Is One Worthwhile U. S. Government Project

By ROGER W. BABSON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18 — During the past year, Uncle Sam spent huge sums of money for many things of doubtful value. Yet, there was one particular government project, undertaken in 1950, which will prove its worth—namely, the federal census.

Make The Most Of Figures

Complete breakdowns of last year's decennial census are not yet available. However, figures for the states and for most of the country's larger cities have already been released. They are very significant. Those who own their own business, interests in other businesses, or make their living by selling can save time and money by studying these census figures. They give you, free of cost, elaborate surveys on quotas, routes, territories and other sales problems.

When all 1950 census figures are released, they will tell much on local merchandising conditions and opportunities throughout the nation. However, compiling census figures is a big job and it will probably be many months before all details are pulished. Meanwhile, readers should watch for the preliminary summaries as they are released each month.

Population Increases

On April 1, 1950, our population was 152,340,000. Since then there have been 3,704,000 births and 1,461,000 deaths and a net emigration of 10,000. This gives us double the annual gain of 10 years ago. Those states possessing the advantage of a mild climate show the greatest population increases. California is up 51.6 per cent from the 1940 level and is followed closely by Texas, Arizona and Florida. This increase of population is not coming from "playboys," but from good substantial northern people who are retiring from work on pensions. They make excellent citizens for any community.

Undoubtedly, the national trend is toward greater increases in leisure time. Firms engaged in the production of recreation equipment will more than hold their own in the years to come. Not only in the above states but elsewhere through the nation.

Some Have Stopped Growing

Nearly half of the states —twenty-two to be exact—show population increases below the national average in the 10-year period from 1940 to 1950. Five states register actual population losses for the period. Many of these 27 states were sparcely populated anyway and their poor showing in this census is due in part to the fact that proportionately the number of men they sent into the armed forces during the Second World War was high.

The gains in population shown by the Far Western states reflect clearly the wartime migration to the West Coast to fill jobs in the huge defense establishments out there. California has the double advantage of mild climate and plenty of jobs for everyone.

The Rural States

Many cannot understand why I continue to call attention to the "Magic Circle," comprising the states of Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, as being "the richest in time of peace and the safest in time of war." They point out that three of these States — Arkansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma — actually lost population during the past 10 years, while the other three enjoyed only nominal increases, which in each case were far below the national average. The reason for this apparent contradiction is that these six states have few large cities. Too many people foolishly continue to want to live in a large city.

Numbers do not necessarily represent true progress. The first consideration should be economic opportunity. I maintain that more economic opportunity exists in the more sparsely settled states. Readers should not forget that food experts, economists, and leaders in the conservation field consider the rural states the hope of North America in the years ahead. Recent events have made it clear that our Communist enemies will try to destroy not only our position as a leading power but our very existence as a nation. It is not at all improbable that the large cities of the nation may someday be begging the rural sections for life and protection.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Card-Carrying Nonsense

SENATOR Homer Ferguson, of Michigan, correctly makes the point that the Remington case "established as a legal principle that to be a member of the Communist party in the United States, and a part of its apparatus, one does not have to be a card-carrying member of the party...."

No important Communist, particularly those who are in the "underground," ever carries a card. I do not know who invented the "card-carrying" business. It is a smelly red-herring, because it can rarely be established. In fact, at this moment the cards have been abolished altogether. The very nature of Remington's work made it clear that he was in the underground and therefore did not carry a card.

It would be wiser if our courts were made aware of the nature of this conspiracy, its organization and its methods of work. Thus far, in the Alger Hiss, the Marzani and the Remington cases, the charge has not been conspiracy but perjury. One might say that the perjury was concerning a conspiracy, but it is not the same.

In some of the Institute of Pacific Relations documents, which are now circulating among senators, evidence of conspiracy against the United States may be found, but these will be protected by the Statute of Limitations. Furthermore, the question will arise whether one can conspire with an ally against his own country. And also, whether the expression of an opinion, no matter how outrageous, can be called entering into conspiracy.

Senator Ferguson asks:

"The fact that these cases have been successfully prosecuted as perjury cases leads one to ask why the job cannot be done as well behind the cloak of secrecy — and I am talking about the government's loyalty program—with which the executive department surrounds itself in such matters. Why cannot the same job be done by the government within its own household as can be done out in the open, in a trial before the federal court?"

The answer, of course, is that he and others continue to deal with loyalty, which is normal, when what needs to be defined is disloyalty, which is the disease. Most Americans are loyal. They recognize that some Americans have emotional affiliations with other countries. Some are pro-Russian, pro-British, pro-French, etc. This is not a conspiratorial activity but merely an unbalanced approach to their own affiliations.

It is exceedingly difficult for any American to believe that an American would be disloyal to this country, even if he appears to be so. It is so unbelievable that even proved cases seem beyond comprehension. Why should men like Hiss or Remington or others like them turn on their country?

To answer that question requires not merely an investigation of the disloyalty of individuals, but a survey of the forces that have been perverting our youth. These forces include professors, writers, lecturers, clergymen who truly believe that they are as loyal as anyone.

We face, for instance, the amazing situation of a publishing house that has sought to suppress an entire chapter of Hede Massing's forthcoming book because it deals with Laurence Duggan. That chapter is admittedly not libelous and the book is about to be published by Duell, Sloan and Pearce, Inc., a firm that is just as careful as Farrar, Straus & Company, Inc., which gave up the contract in preference to publishing the chapter.

The appeal was made to Mrs. Massing to suppress her chapter in the interest of the Duggan family. Certainly, no one can question the sentiment of this request, but a publishing house which has a book ready for the public has no right to act as a censoring agency in a matter that involves historic truth. Either the chapter is false and therefore the book should not be trusted, or it is true and needs to be made public. There was never a question as to its truthfulness.

We need to know what happened to a fine and charming person like Laurence Duggan, whose father was as good an American as ever lived and whose home surroundings must have been favorable. Larry Duggan is a symptom of a sick America and we need to know what that sickness is to protect our own children. Surely, it is as serious as polio — and no one seeks to suppress the news of polio. It is a sickness of the soul.

Governor Will Present Lonaconing Girl's Top Prize

Miss Margaret Ann Dilfer, Central High School, Lonaconing, who was announced several weeks ago as the winner in the 1951 Essay Contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped, will receive a $100 Savings Bond from Governor Theodore R. McKeldin at a luncheon to be held at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore March 15.

Theme of the 1951 contest was "Equal Opportunity in Employment for the Physically Handicapped."

"The key to successful employment is proper placement in jobs which match abilities," the Lonaconing girl wrote in her prize-winning essay.

"Hiring the handicapped can be likened to the making of a suit to measure. Each disabled person presents distinct problems, the solution of which requires understanding, imagination, patience and ingenuity.

"The first half of the 20th Century witnessed the growth of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation, from a productive child to an industrial giant, from a world observer to a world leader — an evolvement made possible by the blending of natural resources, unusual spirit, initiative, special industrial skills and great vision. If our vision and hopes for the future are to be fulfilled, we must utilize wisely every possible material resource — our citizens, our democracy and our land.

"Hire the handicapped," she concluded; "they, too, must share in the promise which is America. Hire the handicapped — they, too, are part of America's assurance of progress."

Miss Dilfer's winning essay will be transcribed and broadcast over radio stations throughout the state and will be entered in the national contest sponsored by the President's Committee on National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

He Couldn't Lose

HERE IS a behind-the-scenes story straight from the manager's mouth:

When Gertrude Lawrence was starring in the hit show "Lady In The Dark," she went to the Dutch Treat Club lunch one Tuesday to entertain the sophisticated gents who congregate in the Park Lane hotel weekly. On her way over in his car, she said to John Golden, "What will I do? What will I say? Shall I play a scene from the show?"

"Haven't you made up your mind?" he asked. "I can't think of anything."

When Mr. Golden checked his hat and coat, he got number 147 which stirred up his lethargic mental processes. He turned to the girl and asked,

"How many of these have you?"

"A few more than three hundred altogether today," she answered.

"Take some sheets of paper and tear them up into small slips and write 147 on each one. Then put them all in my hat and bring it in to me. Here's five dollars for your trouble."

After he got the props, he gave the fedora to Miss Lawrence.

"Stick this under your chair," he told her. "When you stand up, announce you have an offer to make to the members—that you are going to give away the house seats—two in the second row on the aisle—for any night next week to the lucky member who has the duplicate of the coat check you pull out of the hat."

After the master of ceremonies had introduced the star with the customary flourishes, she arose to tell the gathering that through the generosity of John Golden and herself, someone would win two seats to "Lady In The Dark." Then a kibitzer held the hat within reach while she drew a slip. She unfolded it slowly, and read the number.

"One forty-seven," she declared. "Who holds that one? Please stand up."

Everyone fished around in his pocket looking for his check. Then John Golden arose.

"I have it," he announced. At first the crowd was surprised, and next there was a mutter of disappointment that the producer of the show should be the winner.

"Can you beat that for a coincidence?" exclaimed two or three. "He gives a couple of ducats, and then gets them, himself."

"I suppose you will let her draw again," said Grantland Rice.

"Not on your life," he answered. "I won them, and I'm going to keep them."

"Of course, I couldn't let her pull out another one," added Mr. Golden the other day in telling me this tale. "And do you know to this minute Gertrude Lawrence does not know all the slips in the hat had the same number—one forty-seven."

A distinguished Republican member of Congress was giving an informal talk the other day and discussing the desire for cooperation between the President and the Senate. He claimed it was too one-sided and said it reminded him of a story of a farmer out in Minnesota who led the rough life of tillers of the soil. One cold morning as he approached the cow to milk her, she spoke up and said,

"What's the matter? You look as if you had a hard night."

"I did," answered the farmer. "Lots of trouble and no sleep. You see my wife was expecting a baby, and I got up at midnight to go for the doctor. The bridge was out and I had to take a detour and by the time I reached his office the doc was off on another call. I sat up all night waiting for him. When I got back, the pipes had all frozen up. I had to thaw them out. Then a son was finally delivered."

"I am sorry and you must be tired," declared the cow, "so I will do the best I can to co-operate. I tell you what you do. You just take hold, and I'll jump up and down."

The point seemed to be that the administrative branch expects Congress to jump up and down to cooperate.

Mrs. Hardinger writes: "At the age of 18 years, my mother got me a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me right away to relieve monthly distress due to functional periodic disturbances. At the same time, my mother was going through change of life and she also took the Compound. I am married and am the mother of seven children and three grandchildren. Now I am going through change of life and am taking your Pinkham's Compound to relieve nervous, restless feelings due to this functional cause."

New in Style—New in Structure—New in Power—New in Thrift—Potent in Price Appeal—It's the 1951 BUICK SPECIAL!

Here is a tidy traveler that defies the upward trend of costs—proudly wears a 1951 price tag like that which zoomed last year's SPECIAL into popularity so great that it put a crimp in "the low-priced three."

Take our word for it, this is every inch and ounce a Buick—Buick-featured, Buick-designed, Buick-built from the ground up—but literally the newest thing on wheels.

The sturdy and ample body is new. The high-strength frame is new. The power is new to the SPECIAL, which now has the thrifty F-263 engine that first made its name in the SUPER, and here delivers 120 horsepower with standard transmission—128 with Dynaflow Drive.*

It's a Buick with less weight and more power—and that spells a pair of new thrills for you. There's a performance thrill such as you've never enjoyed in the SPECIAL—plus a handsome gas-saving into the bargain.

We'll make a prediction now as to what title folks will give it, once they get it out on the road. That title in three words, will be: "Thriftiest Buick Yet!"

Better hurry around to your Buick dealer's and look this marvel over. We'll give you another prediction—which is:

Woody Hayes Is Appointed Ohio State Football Coach

Miami University's Mentor To Succeed Wesley E. Fesler

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 18 (AP) — Wayne Woodrow (Woody) Hayes, 38-year-old Miami (Ohio) University football mentor, tonight was named Ohio State University's football coach, succeeding Wesley E. Fesler, who resigned Dec. 9.

The appointment was approved unanimously by the board of trustees after Hayes had been recommended by a screening committee, the athletic board, athletic director Richard C. Larkins, and university president Howard L. Bevis.

The appointment was approved in a meeting lasting about an hour and a half.

Gets $12,500 Contract

Hayes was given a one-year contract at a salary of $12,500, with the general understanding that it would be a continuing contract. Hayes also was appointed a full professor in physical education and will be permitted to name his own staff of assistants.

The contract is effective March 1.

Hayes was 38 years old last Wednesday.

He was graduated by Denison University in 1935. He received his master's degree from Ohio State in 1948.

Hayes' first coaching job was at Mingo Junction, Ohio, in 1935-36, as assistant to John Muth. The next year he moved to New Philadelphia, Ohio as assistant to Johnny Brickles, current athletic director and basketball coach at Miami.

Saw Service In Pacific

Hayes took over as head coach at New Philly in 1938 when Brickles moved to Huntington, W. Va., and had two outstanding seasons—winning 17, losing two and tying one before a disastrous won 1-lost 9 campaign in 1940-41.

He enlisted in the Navy in July, 1941, as a chief specialist in Gene Tunney's physical education branch. He came out in 1946 as a lieutenant commander, having commanded the PC 1251 in the Palau Islands invasion and the destroyer escort Rinehart in both Atlantic and Pacific operations.

Denison University, which had discontinued football during the war, called in Hayes as head coach in 1946—and he failed to win until the final game. That started him on a 19-game winning streak, however, carrying him through his first game at Miami U., to which he shifted in 1949.

Won In Salad Bowl

He won five of nine his first year with the Redskins, and came back last fall with nine wins in 10 starts, including one over Arizona State in the Salad Bowl. His overall record as a head coach is 51 victories, 23 losses and one tie.

Breakage Bill Alarms • • • Manigault Is Stopped • • • Record Fight Crowd • • • Score One For Homer

By C. V. BURNS

There's a legislative bill now before the Maryland House of Delegates which would deprive the state race tracks of their breakage and officials of the various racing associations have expressed alarm over it.

Breakage is now shared by the state and the race tracks, and from the mile tracks alone, the breakage runs about a million bucks a year. The breakage is best described as odd pennies computed in making payoffs on winning bets.

Since, under Maryland laws, the tracks break on a dime, $2 bets are paid off at 20-cent intervals. In other words, winning bets pay on the even dollar ($3) or at 20-cent jumps ($3.20, $3.40, $3.60, $3.80 and $4.00).

If track calculators determine that a winning bet is actually worth $3.39, the nearest payoff would be $3.20—19 cents going into the breakage to be shared by the track and the state.

Musial Signs, Salary May Be NL's Highest

Outfielder Is 31st Card To Ink Contract

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18 (AP) — Stan Musial signed his 1951 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals today for a salary which club owner Fred Saigh said "probably is higher than that paid any other player in either league."

But Musial didn't agree it was that high.

He said later that he thought Saigh meant "I'm probably the highest paid player in the National League."

Neither Saigh nor Musial would say what the amount is.

While in Germany recently Musial was quoted as saying he wanted

STAN MUSIAL

$100,000 for 1951, but in view of Saigh's statement he might be getting more than that.

Saigh explained he used the word "probably" because he didn't know the exact amount given Williams. The Red Sox slugger reportedly got $125,000 last year and signed for the same figure this year.

Saigh added he was certain Musial was getting more than ever paid in the National League before.

And Saigh said Musial definitely would get more than any other player has received in baseball's history at his age—30.

The signing climaxed a two-hour meeting between the National League batting king and the Cardinal president. Saigh then left for Washington.

"I'm the happiest guy in the world," Musial said after the signing.

When Musial was asked if his 1951 salary figure approached that of Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees and Ted Williams he replied:

"No. What I think Mr. Saigh meant was that I'm probably the highest paid player in the National League. But all that matters now is that I'm completely satisfied how things turned out, and I'm set to start training."

The outfielder is the 31st Cardinal to sign this year. Eight—including four pitchers and Red Schoendienst—are unsigned.

Stan led the league with a .346 mark at the plate last season. It was the lowest average of his four winning years. He won his first title in 1943 with a .357 average.

Running up a 30-9 score at halftime and outpointing the visitors 45 to 36 in the last two periods, the Cumberland Spas easily defeated the Beaver Falls (Pa.) Tommies in an All-American Basketball League game last night on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 75-45.

The Pennsylvanians gave a poor exhibition of shooting, especially in the first half when they scored only three field goals in 42 shots. The quarter scores were 12-7, 30-9 and 52-33.

Ed "Whitey" Mathewson was the Spas' top scorer with 18 points on five field goals and 8-8 fouls. Jack Murphy took runner-up honors with 15 markers while George Geatz collected 13. Several of Geatz's heaves were sensational one-handers that hit the target.

Bob Pence, usually a front runner in scoring for the Spas, had an off night. In fact, he ran into the toughest shooting luck of the season, making only one basket in 11 tries and that shot was in the air as the final whistle sounded.

Lou Veltri, Don McComb and Hardy Barrett were the chief point makers for the Tommies with 13, 11 and 10 points.

The victory enabled the Spas to tighten their grip on third place in the league with a 10-10 record. It also gave Coach Bill Keegan's quint an even break in four games with the Keystone Staters.

Paid attendance was 458. Lineups:

Five Players Took Bribes To Throw Basketball Games, Got As High As $1,500 Each

Cagers Are From NYU, CCNY And Long Island; Gambler Inspired Fixes

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—A new college basketball scandal broke today, involving three more colleges in New York City in charges that players had "fixed" games.

The latest scandal exploded within a month since the Manhattan College "fix" expose.

The earlier case led to five arrests on conspiracy and bribery charges.

In the new case, players at City College of New York, and New York University, and a former player at Long Island University, were involved along with a jewelry manufacturer.

The latter was charged with being the gambler who inspired the fixes.

Received $1,500 Each

Games played this season were involved in the new charges, including City College games with Missouri, Arizona and Boston College.

In all of these games the New York team lost.

District Attorney Frank Hogan said the players received as high as $1,500 apiece for throwing games.

He said they also got "good will bonuses" on games that were not fixed.

The district attorney said the players told him they had not agreed to lose, but had agreed to see that the "spread" or margin of victory would not be more than three points.

Hogan said the players were Ed Warner, star negro forward on the City College team; Ed Roman, City's center; City guard Al Roth; Harvey Connie Schaff of NYU, and Edward Gard, who played for LIU last year.

The sixth man was identified as Salvatore Tarto Sollazo, 45. Hogan said he had a police record.

Hogan said he also planned to hold a seventh man, Robert Sabatini, 60, as a material witness.

He described Sabatini as "a person who has had gambling contacts with Sollazo."

The district attorney said Sollazo and Gard would be charged in one complaint with giving a bribe.

The city college players, Hogan said, would be charged with receiving bribes, and Schaff would be charged with "offering to bribe."

CCNY Players Nabbed

The newest college basketball scandal broke after the three City College players were taken into custody at Pennsylvania Station early today.

They had just returned from Philadelphia, where the City team defeated Temple 95 to 71.

Hogan told this story of events leading up to the arrests:

Sollazo met Gard at a summer hotel in the mountains, entertained the former LIU player and through him met players of other teams who were playing at mountain resort hotels.

At the start of the present school year, Sollazo invited Gard to his Manhattan home and suggested that Gard approach other basketball players and try to induce them to fix games.

Gard agreed to sound out some of the players.

The first he approached was Roth of City College, whom he had known since high school.

Gard also spoke to Roman, and the two City College players agreed to meet Sollazo at his home after a game at Madison Square Garden in December.

Warner Goes Along

Sollazo told Roth and Roman they could make a lot of money, that he would bet substantially and cut them in on a sure thing.

Roth and Roman told Sollazo they would let him know.

"They were worried about War-

Chuck Klein Cops Tourney

Collects $2,000 Prize With 269 For 72 Holes

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—Golf glory in gobs came today to plodding Charles (Chuck) Klein of San Antonio, who won the $10,000 Rio Grande Valley Open—his first major triumph in a decade and a half of trying.

The stocky, loquacious Texan, who prayed at church this morning then went out and shot a four-under-par 67 to give him 269 for 72 holes, collected $2,000 and a lot of personal satisfaction.

His putter smoked as he grimly battled the barren, wicked, rutted fairways of the 6,095-yard Harlingen Municipal Course. He rammed down a 12-footer on the eighteenth green for a birdie then grinned at the crowd of 4,000 jammed about him.

Marty Furgol of Long Beach, Calif., the fellow who needed to win so badly, took a par 71 to close out in second place. Furgol was the leader as the final round started today with an even 200 for 54 holes.

The California pro won $1,400.

Al Brosch, the red-haired wisecracker from Garden City, N. Y., finished with a 68 to take third money of $1,000. He had a 72-hole score of 272.

Tied for fourth were Glenn Teal of Jacksonville, Fla., John Palmer of Baden, N. C., and Max Evans of Detroit, each with 273. The trio took $700 each. Teal and Palmer had 68's while Evans shot a 70.

Three P.V.C. Games Scheduled Tonight

Three Potomac Valley Conference basketball games are on tap for tonight.

Elk Garden plays at Capon Bridge, Romney's Pioneers test the Davis High Wildcats on the Tucker Countians' floor and West Virginia School for the Deaf plays host to Coach Robert B. Harper's Franklin High cagers from Pendleton County.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18 (INS)—If Frankie Sinatra is singing he's got a rainbow 'round his shoulder today—he's not kidding. Universal-International has just signed Frankie boy to star in "Meet Danny Wilson," an original, and what's more they have a three-year option on him.

Frank Sinatra

Those crepe-hangers who said Frank was through in pictures may now cheerfully choke on their words. It's true he left Hollywood under a cloud of troubles with Nancy and his front page romancing with Ava Gardner.

But those dark times seem past and done with. He's reached an understanding with Nancy about the children and just today he brought the children who had visited him in New York back to California.

Leonard Goldstein produces the Sinatra musical at U-I with a starting date of June 12. This—plus his $1,000,000 worth of TV and radio contracts—puts Mr. S. in clover again.

How would you like to see Farley Granger and Shelley Winters in a movie together? Well, it's ninety-nine per cent set for the two love birds to co-star in "Behave Yourself," for Wald and Krasna.

Farley has finally put his signature to that five-year contract for Sam Goldwyn. With the singing, he gets permission to do a comedy, and to go anywhere, Europe or elsewhere, during the 12 weeks his contract gives him to himself.

The comedy for Wald and Krasna comes first, and after that Farley has agreed to star in "I Want My Man" for his boss. Goldwyn came in from Palm Springs tonight to settle the deal, and unless he has a last minute change of heart, Farley goes to RKO.

Apparently Kay and Broderick Crawford are going through with their separate maintenance plan. Brod is terribly hurt over the charges Kay made. Although he won't even discuss it with his closest friend, he has consulted Greg Bautzer and the hearing has been set for next Wednesday.

I still wish that whatever brought about the trouble could be settled. It seems so sad, with a baby on the way, that the parting should come right now. But Brod doesn't easily change his mind.

These two, however, are in love and that's the only thing that counts, so I am still hoping they will get together even though it does look pretty desperate.

You can count on a reconciliation in the case of the Jeff Chandlers. Mrs. Chandler is back from New York, and she'll find a very penitent husband.

When a guy says "I'm sorry, dear"—what more can he say?—if you'll pardon my quoting the old tune.

Even being nominated by the Academy as the best supporting actor of the year isn't enough to make Jeff smile. He wants his wife and children back. He knows he made a mistake and he's sorry, and he's a big enough person to say so. Jeff isn't the first to have made a mistake.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

John Wayne flies to Mexico City tomorrow to see his ailing wife, who is in a sanitorium there. John will consult with her doctors to see if an operation is necessary.

Clifton Webb, who was seriously ill with pneumonia, has gone to Phoenix, Arizona, to recuperate.

Barbara Payton, with her hair dyed back to brunette, flew to New York Saturday night to see Franchot Tone.

Speaking of Arline Judge, according to New York gossip, she has picked a dentist as her seventh bridegroom.

Betty Hutton is homesick and wants to come home from Florida for her birthday, the 27th of this month. She and Pete Rugolo are keeping the telephone busy

May 10 is the wedding date, and Nancy, France, the place for the wedding of Prince Otto or Hapsburg and Princess Regina of Saxony-Meininger.

That's all today. See you tomorow.

Of the ten players on the Kentucky U. freshman basketball team, seven call Kentucky their home state.

Let's Not Have Any Loose Thinking Around Here

ED and Pegeen Fitzgerald, married folk who breakfast together in front of a microphone and twitter gently about a vast range of consumer products, were engaged in this delightfully remunerative pastime the other day when they unconsciously summed up the spirit of so much of talk on the air.

Said Ed: "You're not answering questions this morning."

Said Pegeen: "No, darling, I was just thinking."

• — • — •

He's quite right, of course. Man shouldn't go around doing a lot of deep thinking in the presence of a live mike. The thoughts might be carried far and wide, unsettling the citizenry. That would never do, especially at breakfast, when a fellow is trying to digest the comic strips. A good many recent examples of pure unthinking radio dialogue have been perpetrated recently. My own favorite is a spot announcement which goes:

"Hi, fellas! Is your radio working. If it isn't, call your favorite radio repairman or you won't be able to hear my program tonight." As a matter of fact, my radio wasn't working at the time but I got the message all right on the braces of my teeth which bring in everything but the most distant FM stations.

Then there was a small, startling exchange between Mrs. Sherman Hoyt, the extraordinarily refined lady who helps out with the announcing of the Westminster Kennel Club show at Madison Square Garden, and the regular professional announcer, Win Elliot.

Mrs. Hoyt: "Well, you know it's the old socialistic spirit of this country. Any dog can win."

Mr. Elliot: "Yes, that's the American tradition all right."

It may be the American tradition, this socialism, but is it the tradition of dogdom, especially Westminster Kennel Club dogdom, a snooty bunch? Around Westminster circles, breeding is everything; the caste system is more firmly imbedded than on the North Shore of Long Island; and the pooches look down their noses at the Fair Deal with even more disdain than a Republican because they have more nose to look down.

• — • — •

In the matter of utterances on the air, there are moments when a person forgets not to think and blurts out something for which he is later very sorry. Not long ago, Florence Pritchett on "Leave It To The Girls," unburdened herself, to wit: "When a girl looks in the closet, it's not what dress shall I wear but how much skin shall I show and who is going to be there to look at it." Remarks like that in which there resides a germ of truth are likely to be construed rather than, as is the custom, misconstrued. People will get to thinking about the vast contribution ordinary skin has made to the development of electronics and thoughts like that better not get abroad. That way lies revolution.

While we're on the subject of utterances, I'd like to glance briefly over one of the most celebrated of all time, Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address," which was delivered on the Ed Sullivan program by, of all people, Judith Anderson. There is no more surcharged actress around than Miss Anderson and she gave it her all. Still, the Gettysburg Address was generally considered man's work and it just goes to show how far the girls have taken over television and, as it were, feminized it. I shouldn't be at all surptised any day now to hear Miss Faye Emerson, tights and all, declaiming Hamlet's "To be or not to be" soliloquy.

• — • — •

Well, just one more, then—this an offstage job. A TV director had instructed the cast on what each actor was intended to portray, his emotional attitude and one thing and another, when the sound effects man asked what he was supposed to do.

"You just have to roar like a tiger," he was told.

"Roar like a tiger?" said the sound effects man. "Yes, but what is the tiger thinking?"

A thorough craftsman, that sound effects man. Ibsen would have heartily approved.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E H L ZW RIYM OYMDLCR KT IEBBQ, DTE'FH RY BDTECT—BFZYF.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: YET THEY, BELIEVE ME, WHO AWAIT NO GIFTS FROM CHANCE, HAVE CONQUERED FATE—ARNOLD.

Approximately 55,000 thunderstorms occur on the earth each day, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The word "derrick," meaning a hoisting apparatus, originated in the Elizabethan days, and was named for a hangman called Deric.

In Memoriam

ROBINSON, Sr.—In memory of my dear husband and beloved father, Vance G. Robinson, Sr., who passed away February 19, 1950.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief, a shock severe.
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
Oh, God grant you Eternal Rest.

Loving wife and son.

Central Answers Two Sunday Calls

Engine Company No. 1 of Central Station answered two fire calls yesterday.

At 1.04 p. m. the firemen extinguished a fire at the home of John L. Helker, 621 N. Mechanic Street. The blaze which did slight damage was caused by an overheated furnace which ignited the subflooring.

A discarded hot patch caused a fire among some rubbish in a metal storage shed at a service station at the corner of South Centre and Harrison Streets. Damage was slight and the firemen answered the call at 5:51 yesterday evening.

Matter Of Fact

Vicious Circle Starts

In this way, bank credit has expanded about 20 per cent in seven months—as much as in any seven previous peace-time years. And while the government has been taking in more cash than it has been spending, the total money supply has increased by eight per cent. Thus there is more and more credit and more money in circulation, while, with rearmament just getting into high gear, there are beginning to be fewer things to buy. Thus the value of the dollar falls, and as is falls, the effort of the government to maintain the price of government bonds becomes more difficult, and a vicious circle is set in motion.

Eccles proposes certain rather simple ways of breaking the vicious circle. No man in his senses, least of all Eccles, suggests that government bonds be simply abandoned to the vagaries of the free market. Instead, what is proposed is a carefully controlled and moderate drop in government bond prices, so that the rush to cash in bonds will stop, because the cash will be less attractive, and the interest rate more so. Eccles also proposes a slightly higher interest rate—about 3 per cent—on most government bonds.

The mere fact that the government has already lost to the money inflation some two billion out of every ten billion defense dollars appropriated is enough to demonstrate how false the Treasury's brand of economy is. Quite aside from the effects of inflation on the whole economy, this loss alone cancels out several times over what might be saved through cheaper financing of the public debt. Fortunately, the Federal Reserve Board has the legal right to do most of what Eccles wants, and a majority of the open market committee of the Board, which must make the final decisions, is now probably behind Eccles. Thus the chances are that an issue which deeply affects both the security of the United States and every American's pocketbook will probably at last be settled, before the entire economy gets out of hand.

World Government Idea To Be Defended

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP) — Advocates of a federal government for the world will defend Maryland's position on the matter against renewed attack in the Legislature Tuesday.

Chairman Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd) of the House Judiciary Committee expects an overflow crowd in the House chamber for debate on a resolution asserting Maryland should never have endorsed the idea of world federation.

Spokesmen for veterans, church and civic organizations, professional men and women and legislators have asked for a chance to speak.

Dempsey plans a three-hour forum before his committee on whether Maryland should repudiate its twice-expressed stand generally portraying a "commonwealth of nations" as the ideal kind of world.

Championing that position are the United World Federalists of Maryland.

Picket Lines Will Be Strengthened By TWUA

BOSTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The CIO prepared tonight to strengthen picket lines at all mills affected by a strike of 70,000 wool and worsted workers.

A spokesman for the Textile Workers Union of America said big lines will be thrown around mills in New England and in other eastern and southern states.

The strike was launched Friday after a breakdown of negotiations between the union and the American Woolen Company, which sets the wage pattern for the industry.

To Observe Smile Week

National Smile Week will be observed this year from February 26 through March 3. Joe E. Brown, popular Hollywood comedian, has written to Mayor Thomas S. Post suggesting he proclaim such a week and has also sent some ideas for the wording of a proclamation.

Today's Sermonette

could reflect over the profound meaning which these events held for mankind. Now they knew that these had been no chance happenings, and if ever there was a strong conviction in the minds of those who lived in the apostolic age, it was now the conviction that truly God, in Christ, was reconciling the world unto Himself. It was such a conviction which formed a basis for the comprehension of the great magnitude of divine love for man.

This is the central message of this season for us and we must become aware of it as never before. We must know that if the cross is anything to us, it is the profound expression of God's love for us. Such a love "constrains us" and incites us to a life of obedience and conformity to the will of God.

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" If so, yours is this great assurance of love. If not, let me invite you at this season to go back and stand with those who "were there," that you may share their experiences and join with them in proclaiming:

"Hereby know we love, because he laid down his life for us."

Scandal Robs CCNY And NYU Of Chance To Get In Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — CCNY and New York University won't be considered for post-season basketball tournaments as a result of the latest gambling scandal, it was learned today.

A high source in college athletics said the two teams doubtless would be passed over by selection committees of the National Invitation and NCAA tournaments.

City College, despite its mediocre 11-7 record, was regarded as a good bet for the Invitation simply because of its surprising sweep of the two big tournaments last year.

NYU has a 9-3 record and is listed among the 30 teams now being considered for the Invitation, opening at Madison Square Garden March 10.

The same source said Manhattan and Long Island University would not be similarly affected although they also have figured in scandals this year.

Gehrmann And Wilt Will Run In Special

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — Asa Bushnell, director of the IC4A meet, announced today that Don Gehrmann and Fred Wilt will compete in a special mile race next Saturday night in the IC4A Games at Madison Square Garden.

Besides Gehrmann and Wilt, three other milers, to be named later, will compete. Gehrman announced his acceptance by telephone from Milwaukee.

Gehrmann has piled up 38 straight mile victories including six this year and five straight over Wilt.

Argentine Pro Wins Mexico Golf Tourney

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18 (AP) — Roberto De Vicenzo, Argentine professional, won Mexico's Open Golf Tournament today with a score of 275 for the 72 holes.

De Vicenzo took only 68 strokes, four under par, on today's final 18 holes, to win first prize money of $1,785.

Second prize of $1,190 went to Al Besselink of Mt. Clemens, Mich., who shot a 69 to finish with a score of 281.

Vic Ghezzi of Long Island, N. Y., was third with a final round of 71 for a total of 282.

Dark Wins Trophy

Dark carded a six-over-par 76 while Hearn turned in a 77 over the 18-hole Miami Springs Country Club Course.

For his triumph, Dark received a large trophy, plus golfing equipment and luggage.

ner," Hogan said, "because he was a key man and if they didn't pass the ball to him he would go to Holman (Nat Holman, the City College coach)."

Later, Roth and Roman spoke to Warner and he agreed to go along.

After several meetings it was agreed that the first game to be fixed would be the CCNY-Missouri game on Dec. 9.

Missouri won — 54 to 37 — and each of the three players got $1,500.

For CCNY's loss to Arizona Dec. 28 by a 41 to 38 score, they got $1,000 apiece.

Roth Got $1,500

Before the Boston College game, Jan. 11, won by Boston 63 to 59, Roth and Roman had been scheduled to get $1,500 each, and Warner, who was injured and unable to play, was to get $500.

But neither Roman nor Warner collected, and Roth got $1,400.

Roth and Roman got $500 each as good will bonuses for the Washington State game Dec. 14, which City won 59 to 43; and $250 each for the St. John's game Jan. 2, in which St. John's won 47 to 44.

Hogan said there was no admission of a "fix" on either the Washington State or St. John's games.

Meanwhile, Hogan continued, Gard approached Schaff, introduced him to Sollazo, and Schaff was asked to work on the NYU team.

Schaff admitted that he approached James Brasco, NYU guard, and told him he "could do himself some good" in the St. Francis game Jan. 30 at the Garden.

Brasco Says No

Brasco, Hogan said, told Schaff he would have nothing to do with the fix and would have no further conversation with Schaff.

Schaff never "made a killing" but got $20 or $30 now and then from Sollazo, plus frequent dinners and drinks in the hope Schaff "eventually would make contact."

Hogan said his investigation started after the Boston College game, and 20 detectives had been working 16 hours a day on the case.

Except for a telephone tip on Jan. 10, he said, there had been no "inside information of any kind" supplied to the detectives.

"This was a most disagreeable and sickening business," Hogan commented. "It certainly is no way of accomplishment."

WASHINGTON NO. 2 SHRINE

That's Kenmore, Home of First President's Sister

By ESTHER V. W. TUFTY
Central Press Correspondent

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. — On his 219th birthday, George Washington will again walk the streets of his boyhood hometown of Fredericksburg, Virginia.

Seven residents will portray the Father of Our Country at various stages of his life. As a small boy with his hatchet. As a robust youth throwing a dollar across a river. As a surveyor for Lord Fairfax. As a soldier in the French and Indian war. As a gentleman farmer at Mount Vernon. As commander-in-chief of the armies in the Revolutionary war. As a statesman.

The birthday celebration will begin early and last through the night The memorial service is scheduled for 11 a. m. in St. George Episcopal church, which he used to attend. Then will come a solemn procession to the grave of Mary Washington, the mother of the first President. Led by a color guard, the music will be rendered by a Marine band from nearby Quantico.

IN THE ANNUAL parade many school bands will make with early American music. One all-girl band will represent Mary Washington college. Along the shores of the Rappahannock river, 10 high school boys will re-enact Washington's legendary feat of hurling a silver dollar across the river.

During the day folks will be dropping in at Kenmore, the home of Washington's sister, Betty Washington Lewis. There an "at home" will be in progress all day. Pretty Southern belles, in colonial costume, will be the hostesses.

Every American knows about Mount Vernon, but few about Kenmore, the second shrine of George Washington.

Only a day's ride, by coach there is no doubt "Washington slept here" frequently. Mentioned many times in his diary are visits to Kenmore, built in 1752 by Col. Fielding Lewis for his 17-year-old bride, Betty Washington, on land surveyed by the First President.

Uncle Backus, 98-year-old former slave, tends the kitchen at Kenmore.

Kenmore has many a cannonball wound. . . . one ball is still lodged in the west wall of the drawing room. During the Revolutionary war, Colonel Lewis sacrificed his entire fortune and mortgaged Kenmore to make guns for the Continental army. In the time of the War Between the States, Kenmore was converted into a hospital for both the Blue and the Gray. Many Marine officers in World War I lived in Kenmore. Some 60,000 GIs in World War II visited Washington's No. 2 shrine.

It is no wonder Fredericksburg feels possessive about Washington!

HE SPENT his boyhood there in his mother's modest home, which is still standing. It was here he allegedly chopped down that cherry tree and threw that dollar.

In Fredericksburg, is a monument to Washington's mother, located in a tiny park where she used to sit. It is a small replica of the mighty obelisk known to every school child as the Washington monument in the nation's capital, just 54 miles away.

The Kenmore association has done a good job of restoring what could be restored and the reproductions are authentic and beautiful. Even the newest reproduction dates back to 1796.

HISTORIC Kenmore is said to have its ghost. Whether it is George Washington himself or not, it's said to have a heavy tread. There is a door folks say mysteriously opens every night at 11.

At first sight of Kenmore, set way back from the street, it seems almost prim in the austerity of its Georgian Colonial purity. Yet once inside the great front door, its warmth is the dominating characteristic.

The Kenmore association has "gone national" and there are regents in every state.

Once a year, on Washington's birthday, the front door is swung wide open and no sightseeing fees are charged.

So it will be this year during the long day of festivities ending with a gala banquet (at which the senior senator from Virginia, Harry Byrd, will speak) and with a brilliant ball.

98 Of 100 GIs Wounded In Korea War Recover

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18 (AP) — Of every 100 soldiers wounded in Korea who receive medical aid, 98 recover.

During World War II, 96 GIs got well again. In World War I 92 recovered.

These figures were given today by Col. Laurence A. Potter, an Army medical officer, at a meeting of 350 medical, dental and veterinarian reserve officers.

Col. Potter asserted that the menace of frostbite in Korea has been over-emphasized. Ninety per cent of the frostbite victims are treated in the area, he said, and only 10 per cent have to be evacuated to the United States.

Bean Porridge Hot

A good hearty soup can make a whole meal if there is lots of it and appetites are keen. Here's the recipe for a particularly delicious bean soup that neatly dispatches the last of the twice-warmed beans from Saturday night, or is as quickly made from canned baked beans. Be sure to add the kitchen bouquet for that smooth brown color and flavor.

Rich Brown Bean Soup

2 No. 2 cans baked beans, or 4 cups left-over baked beans
3 cups beef consomme or broth
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon mustard
⅛ teaspoon curry powder
1½ teaspoon kitchen bouquet
1 lemon, thinly sliced

Put the beans through sieve or food mill. Gradually stir in the consomme, keeping mixture smooth at all times. Add seasonings and kitchen bouquet. Bring to boil. Lower heat and let simmer for 5 minutes. Add lemon cut in very thin slices. Serve immediately with hard rolls for lunch.

Yield: 6 servings, about 5 cups.

Corriganville Firemen Report Operation Cost

Improvements Given Emphasis In Figures

Officials of the Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company have reported to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that expenses have averaged better than $8,000 annually the past two years.

Improvements to the Fire Hall and equipment are emphasized in the report, which shows expenditures from September, 1948, to October, 1950, totaled $16,660.40.

Top expenditure was $5,401.40 for a new furnace. Other principal costs were $4,901.40 on loan for new addition to building, $1,650 for 1,000 feet of two-and-one-half inch fire hose and $809.98 for a used ambulance, obtained in 1950.

Other expenditures above $500 included $674.27 for coal and gas for heating, $650.02 for insurance on building and men, and $633.93 for lumber and material for the building.

In a foot note to the report, the company emphasized that the total in the report does not include $8,000 paid for a new fire truck early in 1948. The final item of $88 for hauling of stone for repairs to county road, the officials stressed, was necessary so that they could get their equipment over the road.

The report was signed by Edwin T. Parry, president; Joseph C. Stuckey, treasurer, and William F. Matthews, recording secretary.

The firemen said that they had to conduct various promotions to raise money to operate the department. Funds were raised in 1950 through house-to-house drives, dances, suppers and profits from the bar.

Second Denver Area Fire Fatal To Two

DENVER, Feb. 18 (AP)—A second major fire in the Denver area within 24 hours left two men dead and a big part of the fashionable, suburban Wolhurst Saddle Club in ruins today.

Bob Snell, 37, cook, and Tamie Kaku, 64, a dishwasher, were trapped in the employes' quarters of the club when flames seared through a section of the three story, brick building.

Only yesterday, four persons died and 14 were injured when a fire—blamed on defective wiring—raced through the Denver Athletic Club.

Damage there was placed at $1,500,000 by Club Manager J. M. Conway.

Steering Group Proposes New Industry Plan

Cite Mississippi State Law As Model

After studying plans of a number of cities and states, designed to bring new industry into their respective areas, The Steering Committee for Economic Development here has agreed that one of the most feasible and logical ideas for this area, would be one patterned after the Mississippi BAWI Plan.

According to Francis Kenney, chairman of the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee and David Kauffman, chairman of the Steering Committee, the Mississippi Balance Agriculture with Industry Law authorizes municipalities, including incorporated towns, cities and counties, to vote full faith and credit bonds for the purpose of buying land and building plants for new industries.

Will Meet Delegation

Kauffman and Kenney have been authorized by the Steering Committee to meet with the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly and discuss the possibility of a similar law for Maryland. They will go to Annapolis Tuesday.

Under the plan, the city's credit, or the county's credit is used to guarantee the redemption of bonds. Such bond issues for new industries are sold only after a referendum of the people in the municipality involved. The bonds may include the cost of land, buildings and site improvement, but not machinery.

Plant Pays Bonds

When this procedure is followed, a contract is negotiated between the manufacturer and the municipality which provides that the manufacturer will amortize the bonds over a 20-year or a 25-year period. At the end of which time the manufacturer will have an option to lease the building for an additional 20 or 40 years for some nominal rental, such as $100 per year.

Or, the manufacturer will guarantee a minimum annual payroll with a rental stipulation should the payroll not be met by the manufacturer; or further, the contract may embody a combination of minimum guaranteed payroll and full or partial amortization of principal.

Under Mississippi Law, new industries are exempt from county and municipal taxation for a period up to five years. Of course when land and buildings are provided an industry by means of a public bond issue, the industry only leases these facilities on a long-term basis and, since the municipality retains title, the land and buildings would never be subject to taxation.

50 Towns Use Idea

At this time more than 50 Mississippi municipalities have taken action to secure industries under the BAWI Law.

All of these towns either already have industries in the process of starting operations or they are looking forward to the successful conclusion of negotiations with manufacturers.

Aside from the obvious advantage to the industry of establishing a plant with a minimum capital outlay, many well-financed corporations have found that community participation and cooperation, necessary under the BAWI plan, are most valuable assets from a labor and public relations standpoint.

Kauffman, Kenney and others interested in new industries for Cumberland and the area believe the Mississippi BAWI plan can be adapted here if the necessary legislation can be passed, and that the plan will be as good as, or better than any followed in other locale, which local groups have studied to date.

Eleven Coal Cars Derailed Near Newburg

Defective Rail Cause Of Freight Wreck

Eleven loaded car coal hoppers of an eastbound Baltimore and Ohio freight were derailed near Newburg, W. Va. Friday evening at about 8:30. No one was hurt.

A spokesman for the railroad said that the wreck occured at Brains Curve just east of Newburg on the Cumberland Division with a broken rail as the cause. Three tracks, the eastbound, westbound and traffic lane were closed as a result of the wreck.

The westbound track was not cleared until about 3:05 o'clock Saturday morning and maintenance crews from Grafton and Keyser worked until 4 p. m. Saturday before traffic was restored to normal.

The 3-unit diesel and the first sixteen cars passed over the defective rail and the seventeenth to twenty-seventh cars left the track strewing coal over a wide area. Nine of the cars had to be completely dumped while the remaining two were rerailed. A 4-unit diesel helper was on the rear of the freight.

Westbound passenger trains 1 and 3 were rerouted over the Pittsburgh Division out of Cumberland through the Narrows. Eastbound traffic had to be detoured out of Newburg.

The engineer on the lead diesel was R. K. Bartlett, Keyser, and the conductor H. D. Reed, Grafton.

Police Rescue Boy Stranded On Island Here

James Long, 16, 205 Arch Street, was left "stranded" for about eight hours yesterday afternoon on an island in the Potomac River opposite the old N. and G. Tinplate mill near River Avenue.

Long and three other companions, Jerry Dawson, 325 Springdale Street, and Jimmy and Dick Brown, 427 Virginia Avenue, evidently got a spring urge yesterday about 1 o'clock and proceeded to play along the river's edge. Long found an old raft and decided to cross to the island. After completing his trip he learned he was unable to return over the swift waters which measure about thirty feet across at the point.

Efforts were made by the other three to rescue the boy but they had no luck. The afternoon grew later and continued efforts of others standing by were futile. As the sun went down Long built himself a fire to keep warm and about 7 o'clock police were notified.

Police officers Curtis McA. Kimes, John G. Powers and Kenneth W. Morrisey went to the scene and also tried to rescue the boy with a rope. Later they went to the home of Paul E. Knisley, a carpenter of 25 W. Roberts Street, got a truck, went to Wiley Ford, W. Va., and borrowed a boat. The boat had to be carried from the Cumberland Box factory across the old C. & O. Canal and up the river about three quarters of a mile.

Knisley and Alfred Ullery, 1205 Lexington Avenue, manned the boat and completed "Operations Rescue." Officer Kimes last night said the mud around the area was "about knee deep" and evidence on his shoes confirmed the fact.

Local Artists Invited To Show

The exhibition is open to all artists resident or former residents in the general territory bounded on the north by Harrisburg, Pa., on the east by Frederick, on the south by Winchester, Va., and on the west by Cumberland.

Original work in oil, tempera, gouche, sculpture, watercolor or graphic materials may be entered. Artists are limited to two works as entries.

To Address Lions

Richard Sitzler, head of the research department of the Celanese, will speak at the regular luncheon meeting of the Lions Club Wednesday. His subject will be "Modern Advertising Fact Or Fraud."

Yesterday's sunshine that brought motorists out on the highways for afternoon drives will probably give way to rain today. The forecast calls for mild and cloudy with occasional rain in this section. Yesterday's high temperature at Constitution Park weather station was 59 and low for the 24-hour period was 35. It was 40 last night at 9 o'clock.

Red Cross Advance Gifts Drive To Begin Tomorrow

Members of the Advance Gifts Division of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter's 1951 campaign will meet tonight for dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the Green Room of the Central YMCA, William C. Walsh, general campaign chairman said last night.

Under the co-chairmanship of George L. Buchanan and Henry A. Mackey, the Advance Gifts Division workers will start their drive for memberships tomorrow morning and expect to have their work finished before the general membership campaign gets underway on March 5. Goal for the entire campaign this year is $26,796.

At tonight's meeting the members of the Advance Gifts Division will receive prospect cards of individuals they will contact during the next two weeks. Buchanan and Mackey emphasized last night that their workers make no general solicitation, but work only from the cards given them.

"It is up to our group to lead the way in this 1951 campaign to 'Mobilize for Defense'", Buchanan and Mackey stated. "The work that members of the Advance Gifts Division do in the next two weeks helps to set the stage for the entire general campaign which starts in March.

"We have called a number of people in the last ten days urging them to attend tonight's meeting and to work on the Advance Gifts Division. We cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of the work they will be doing the next two weeks and we urge them to be present tonight at the YMCA in order to get our Division off to a good start."

Today's Sermonette

Hereby know we love, because He laid down His Life For Us.
I JOHN 3:16

By REV. GEORGE A. TATE

Today's sermonette is a digest of the meditation preached yesterday at McKendree Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. George A. Tate. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

YEARS AGO, at this season of the year, Negro slaves would sing a spiritual which included these words:

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?
Were you there when they crucified my Lord?
Oh, sometimes it causes me to tremble, tremble, tremble,
Were you there when they crucified my Lord?"

I know nothing of the history of this spiritual nor the occasion which gave rise to it, but I cannot help but feel that the person or persons who formed these words manifested the ability to transcend the barriers of time and actually became identified with those who "were there" nearly 2,000 years ago. This is indeed a great accomplishment and must constitute the chief aim of our striving today, if the message of the cross is to make its imprint upon our minds and hearts. Let us consider then, those factors which characterized the life and activity of those who "were there."

Rev. G. A. Tate

At once those whose lives immediately touched the experience of the cross became those who were bewildered and confused. Without a doubt, it was a distasteful and disheartening event for the disciples. Here was the seeming end for their Master and consequently the supposed shattering of their fondest dreams. Here, they thought, was evidence of the triumph of evil and the inevitable expiration of their cherished hopes. Is there any wonder then, that those who stood at the cross looking at the dying form of Jesus should be those who "trembled" with grief, and disappointment, and fear? Even though we are removed from the scene by nearly two millenniums, the experience yet "causes us to tremble."

However, the sight of a beloved leader dying on a cross was not the only experience that those who "were there" witnessed. Theirs was also the high joy of being confronted with the awareness that the crucifixion of Jesus had not marked the end of His life, nor meant the destruction of their dreams, for the fact of the resurrection became the factor which motivated them to new courage and assurance. He who had suffered a most violent and humiliating death had now become conqueror and given to mankind a new life—a life shot through with joy and hope and the promise of a reconciliation with God.

Now they could look back over the past events and discern the patterns of the divine plan. Now they

3 Escape Injury As Car Hits Bridge

Leonard Weathers, Vienna, Va. and two companions misjudged the Maryland end of the interstate bridge at McCoole Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock and ran into the side of the span with their automobile. No one was injured in the mishap.

Marion Weathers, a brother and Stanley Masser also of Vienna were travelling toward Keyser with the driver, at a high rate of speed when the automobile struck the structure, according to police.

Trooper A. M. Spioch last night said that Weathers was taken to the county jail here pending an investigation. A hearing is to be held in Westernport.

The other two occupants of the car were released with no charges preferred. Spioch said that damages to the 1948 Buick sedan amounted to about $700.

Local 26 Seeks To Begin Talks On New Contract

Negotiations May Start Wednesday

An effort will be made by the negotiation committee of Local No. 26, URCLPWA-CIO, to meet with management of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company by Wednesday to open discussions for a new contract, Ralph C. Beard, union vice-president, said last night.

Beard explained that a motion was made at the regular membership meeting Saturday night to call the negotiation committee together to make plans for the start of negotiations. Beard said the committee probably would meet tonight or tomorrow at the Union Hall, 12 South Mechanic Street.

The present contract between Local No. 26 and Kelly-Springfield is due to expire April 1. Beard said no decision has been made concerning specific demands that may be made when negotiations start.

At Saturday night's meeting Local No. 26 also passed a motion to send Beard and Harry E. Castle to Annapolis Tuesday to attend a public hearing on proposed legislation that would effect organized labor. One proposal concerns Sick and Accident Insurance in Maryland. They also will return to Annapolis March 1 for a second committee hearing on other suggested legislation. Castle is a member of the union's legislative committee and is a State CIO vice-president.

Bus Drivers Reject Annual Wage Proposal

Claim Plan Won't Be Acceptable

A guaranteed annual wage proposal of $3,700, offered by the Cumberland Transit Lines to its bus drivers, is not acceptable to the drivers, according to spokesmen for Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union, AFL.

Taking issue with claims made by A. J. Hutton, manager for the bus company, members of the union's negotiating committee said the plan will not work in their particular industry, and they can find no other transit company operating under this type of wage or salary agreement.

Hutton said Saturday that the proposal offered by the company would increase the annual pay of each driver from $200 to $500 per year.

The drivers claim this is not correct, since under the plan they would lose such items as their safety bonus and other compensation, which they now enjoy in addition to present base pay of $1.24 per hour.

Want $1.54 Per Hour

The drivers contend they average about $3,300 pay per year plus uniform allowances, safety bonus, etc. Under the company's proposal, the drivers would receive only the annual guaranteed pay of $3,700 with no provision for safety bonus, or other items now enjoyed as a part of the agreement.

Spokesmen for the union declare they have requested, in their negotiations, a pay raise of 30 cents per hour, to a base of $1.54, uniform allowance of $85 each six months, and a 40-hour work week, with no reduction in the present monthly earnings.

Drivers now work an average total of 2548 hours per year or about 55 hours per week.

Had Previous Offer

In December of 1950 the Company offered the drivers an annual wage of $3,600, which was rejected by the membership of the union on the principle that such a plan would not be satisfactory in the industry.

Union spokesmen said the annual wage idea will not work any better at $3,700 than it would at $3,600. They term the plan entirely impracticable from an employe point of view in the industry.

The present contract expires February 28, and both union and company officials are hopeful an agreement will be reached by that time. Negotiations are to continue, spokesmen said.

Representing the union as their negotiating committee are Lawrence Grim, union business agent; James Morrison, Burr Powell and Harvey May. The union members indicated that they expect a representative of their international office here shortly.

Airline Issues Military Passes

All-American Airways announced today that former employees, now on active duty with the military services, will be granted passes to fly AAA while on military leave.

In announcing this new policy, President Robert M. Love stated that former employes now in the armed services can procure passes by applying to All-American's Personnel Department, National Airport, Washington, D. C.

Love explained further that the regular airline pass policy will be in effect. This means that the pass holder is entitled to transportation whenever a vacant seat is available. For a positive reservation, however, it will be possible for the individual to request a ticket at a reduced rate, which will be a 50% savings of the regular fare.

All-American's pass privilege will also extend to members of the former employee's immediate family.
